Intervention Is Hinted In Cuba Unless OAS Acts

Astronaut Points to Saturday

Glenn Following Routine in Line With D-Minus 3

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Relaxed and with a fresh crewcut, astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. today followed his "D-minus 3" routine with all signs pointing to an attempt to orbit him around the earth on Saturday.

Change in Diet

The schedule three days before flight usually calls for rest, relaxation, sun and exercise, sleep and reading and a few technical meetings. There is also a change in diet, to begin eating foods creating little body waste.

Within about 24 hours, experts had located and repaired a leak in the oxygen flow system in Glenn's capsule, putting in a new valve and ducting. This fault had forced a postponement in his flight, once set for today.

Glenn personally checked out the life-supporting systems in the capsule Tuesday. His back-up pilot, M. Scott Carpenter, flew a pretended three-orbit, 4½-hour mission in space.

Everything now looks satisfactory, officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration indicated, with preparations going forward for a launching attempt "no earlier than Saturday."

Weather Is Key

Weather or other unexpected problems could force more delay.

While Carpenter was "flying" the spacecraft, Glenn scooted out of seclusion at the space base to Cocoa Beach for a $1.50 haircut —reading a magazine rather than engage in small talk with his barber.

He also reviewed results of a thorough physical examination with Dr. William K. Douglas, the astronauts' personal physician. Physically, Glenn is set to go, said the doctor. Glenn, a bug on exercise for fitness, went jogging later in the afternoon.

Carlino Is Tied To Land Deal in N. Y. Post Story

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Post said today it had turned up a new conflict of interest charge against Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino.

The Post said the charge concerned Carlino's "apparent espousal of a pro-conservative approach to a Nassau County park proposal—and his participation, at about the same time, in efforts to defeat it."

Carlino, reached at his Albany office, said he had not seen the Post story and had no immediate comment. He said he expected to issue a statement after studying the paper and looking up some documents.

The newspaper gave this account:

"On the land deal, Carlino assured proponents of the park proposal of his support, but presently appeared as the lawyer for the syndicate that eventually bought the land and developed it commercially.

"And while he was reassuring the conservationists, Carlino was a member of the Assembly's House Rules Committee that killed the bill which would have permitted condemnation of the land for a public park and recreational area.

"The property, 119 acres in Valley Stream and Hewlett, was sold Feb. 27, 1957, for $1,414,500 by the Long Island Water Co., the

IBM Plans New Florida Lab, Mork Is Manager

The Federal Systems Division of the International Business Machines Corporation today announced plans for an expanded technical capability with the establishment of an additional engineering laboratory at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to develop advanced military control and space support systems.

Federal Systems Division President Charles Benton Jr., said "We are leasing this facility in the midst of the growing Florida technical and industrial community concerned with U. S. space and defense efforts. This expansion into a temporary facility—and eventual selection of a permanent location — will continue to make us increasingly responsive to the most advanced government requirements for electronic information-handling and control systems in space and defense."

In by April

Benton stated that a group of Federal Systems Division engineering personnel, specializing in the development of military electronic systems, will begin to occupy the Fort Lauderdale laboratory in April, 1962. In the following 15 months approximately 500 engineering personnel will move into the new center.

Local Job Level Unchanged

Commenting on the new laboratory location for the Federal Systems Division in Florida and its impact on present employment levels in Kingston, Richard J. Whalen, general manager of the local IBM plant, said that it is anticipated only approximately 250 Kingston engineering personnel will be involved in the occupancy of the new laboratory over the 15 month period. Due to the anticipated expansion of Data Systems Division's requirements for the development of large-scale commercial computers, the recruitment of highly specialized electronics engineers for Kingston will maintain IBM's present employment level at the local plant.

Benton announced that Ralph G. Mork, manager of the Kingston engineering laboratory, has been named manager of the Fort Lauderdale laboratory.

The new engineering group will translate government requirements for total mobile and ground-based information-handling and control systems into electronic equipment in such areas as space support, space surveillance, undersea warfare, command and control, and intelligence. This effort will include:

Ground - support equipment, special purpose ground-based and mobile processors for military environments, sensor and display devices, image and signal processing equipment.

The Federal Systems Division will temporarily occupy about 100,000 square feet in the Fort Lauderdale facility, located in the Las Olas Plaza.

Growers to Dine Tonight, Parley Ending Thursday

When the three-day meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society closes Thursday afternoon some 1,000 growers in the Hudson Valley and eastern portion of the state will have viewed the trade and educational exhibits and attended the several seminars, at the State Armory on Manor Avenue.

A banquet tonight at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 6:30 o'clock is one of the feature events of the program.

Alfred Zimmerman of Highland, who will be the toastmaster, is also the chairman for Thursday morning's seminars.

Speakers Listed

Speakers at the banquet will include Lamont W. Marvin of the New York and New England Apple Institute, Dr. Robert Smock and David Blanpied of Cornell University and Joseph Firth of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

Thursday's sessions will open at 9:45 a. m. with a question box by James Clarke of Milton. Research results on Bulk Bins for Fresh Fruit will be discussed by Blanpied and David Ludington of Cornell. How We Use and Empty Them will be told by Norman Thomson of Red Hook, Elliott Smith of Kinderhook, Hugh Davidson of Valatie and Edward Crist of Walden.

Schwenk Is Hopeful of Uptown UR

Mayor, Planning Group Tour Area

Mayor John J. Schwenk, after a tour of the uptown area with planning officials Tuesday, was hopeful today of obtaining urban renewal aid there.

A project uptown, it has been noted, would assist the city in its accomplishment of adequate off-street parking along with rehabilitation of the area without conflicting with plans for downtown.

Others in Gorup

With the mayor on the uptown inspection tour were Roy Cuneo of the urban renewal planning staff in New York, Michael Pine, urban renewal agency field representative, Arthur Sweid, of Raymond & May Associates, city planning consultants, Alexander Yosman, housing authority director and William Klein, Mayor Schwenk's executive assistant.

The uptown area is to be changed through razing of the Washington Avenue viaduct and replacement of the Esopus Creek bridge, through and off street parking project and throgh construction of a shopping center off Fair Street Extension and within city bounds.

Mayor Scwenk today reported prospects for an uptown project

Standard Closes Deal for Store, Plans Big Sale

Acquisition of the former Kingston Theatre site at 323 Wall Street, from Walter Reade Theatres, was announced officially today by William Fienberg, president of Standard Furniture Company. Negotiations for the property formerly occupied by Union Fern, have been in progress for several weeks and Fienberg said today the transaction has been closed, at an undisclosed price. He added that Standard's continued progress in its 23 years in the City of Kingston prompted the expansion.

Giant Removal Sale

With the announcement, came word that Standard will start a giant removal sale at its present location, 267 Fair Street, on Thursday at 9 a. m. According to Manager Jay Melton, prices on many articles have been slashed as much as 67 per cent and he explained that it is the intention of the company to clear out, not only the store, but the warehouse to the bare walls. He added that the firm plans to pass on to its customers the saving of the cost of packaging and moving and also, as is the company custom, there is free delivery and no charge for credit.

Chamber to Hear College Head at Banquet Monday

Guest speaker at the annual banquet of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce next Monday night at Governor Clinton Hotel will be Dr. Thomas H. Hamilton, president of the State University of New York.

Dr. Hamilton will speak on The Establishment and Influence of Community Colleges.

Ticket Deadline Saturday

John W. Egbert, chairman of the Banquet Committee, suggested today that all reservations for the dinner be made promptly. They will be accepted until noon Saturday.

The Chamber of Commerce officers for 1962 will be installed and the seven new directors presented at the banquet. Another special feature will be the presentation of a citation to Macdonald DeWitt.

Dr. Hamilton has a very broad and intensive background in college teaching and administration, before assuming his post as president of the State University in 1959. In his present capacity he has general supervision of all state supported colleges and institutes, including community colleges. The committee asked Dr. Hamilton to speak because of the forthcoming establishment of a community college in Ulster County. Anyone interested in attending may make reservations at the office of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Assistant Chicago Dean

Dr. Hamilton attended DePew University and received his masters and doctors degrees from the University of Chicago. From 1943 to 1946 he served as an officer of the U. S. Navy. From

Leaders Lack Power to End It

Soviet-Sino Row Could End in Outright Split

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The row between Russia and Red China over Communist strategy for communizing the world has become so intensive neither the Soviet nor the Chinese leaders have the power to put an end to it.

U.S. officials said that the dispute could lead to an outright split between the two huge Communist powers although they do not think this is at all probable, at least in the forseeable future.

Relations to Worsen

What they do expect is a continuation of the bitter argument which has produced a sharp ideological division between Moscow and Peiping with a steady but slow worsening of relations between the two Communist governments.

The U.S. policy toward this cold war within the Red bloc is to sit by and see what happens; officials feel that any open effort to exploit the Communist differences would probably backfire.

Evidence is found in a Moscow broadcast to China last week that the Soviet leaders may now be trying to reach over the heads of the Red Chinese leaders and persuade the Chinese rank and file Communists that Soviet policy is right.

The broadcast, made in the classical Mandarin Chinese which is widely understood in China, demanded in effect that Communists everywhere recognize the primary position of the Soviet Communist party in leading the Red international movement.

JFK Attack Vital

Considerable interest also was aroused here in an editorial from the Chinese Communist newspaper Peoples Daily that made a bitter attack on President Kennedy's State of the Union message.

Among other things the editorial indicated that the Chinese Reds are building up a new anti-American campaign—at a time when Soviet Premier Khrushchev

$500 a Year Per Pupil Too Small Allen Declares

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Diefendorf Committee on Public-School Financing enters the final phase of its work — drafting of formal recommendations — after ending a public hearing here today.

The committee will submit to the 1962 Legislature, its plan for revising and consolidating the many formulas under which the state distributes $800 million a year in aid to education.

The most recent advice on what it should propose included a proposal by State Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. to set costs for determining state aid substantially higher than the $500 a year per pupil recommended by the Diefendorf staff.

Allen said "without much larger amounts" than the $500 suggested by the staff, "it will be virtually impossible for most of our schools to produce the level of educational quality so urgently needed."

Allen commented in a letter, made public Tuesday, in which he told committee chairman Charles H. Diefendorf that, despite some

Full Break Of Ties Is Demanded

Two Other Latin Nations Support Coexistence View

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP)—A leader of the drive for stern punishment of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime in Cuba warned the hemisphere today some nations may intervene in Cuba on their own unless the Organization of American States acts forcefully.

The warning was delivered by Colombia, sponsor of the resolution which produced the Punta del Este conference of inter-American foreign ministers on Cuban communism.

Would Condemn Castro

General debate opened a few hours after Latin America's two most powerful nations, Argentina and Brazil, joined in a commmon front proposing hemispheric coexistence with Cuba while condemning Castro for embracing communism.

Opening the debate, Colombian Foreign Minister Jose Joaquin Caicedo Castrilla demanded a collective economic and diplomatic break with Cuba by all 20 nations sitting in judgment here. His call was echoed by Guatemala.

Caicedo did not say which nations might intervene in Cuba. Countries such as Colombia and the Central American nations have felt heavy pressure from Castro commmunist infiltration tactics.

Gets Prolonged Applause

The Colombian stand expressed feelings of a group, including the United States, which seeks the strongest possible action against Castro. The speech won prolonged applause from the delegates, many of whom have been working for milder action.

Guatemala's foreign minister, Jesus Unda Murillo, denounced Cuban ties with the Soviet Union and Red China and called the current OAS attitude suicidal.

He contended it is farcical to talk about the principle of self-determination with regard to Cuba, a communist state. Guatemala, a target of Cuban attacks, provided one of the training grounds for the anti-Castro force which staged the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba last April.

The agreement between Argentina and Brazil, who have led rival blocs at the inter-American foreign ministers conference, came in the early morning hours in advance of the conference's first full-dress public debate.

Argentina and Brazil pushed ahead with a compromise proposal to bar Fidel Castro's government from a voice in deliberations of the Organization of American States on the ground that the revolutionary regime does not represent the Cuban people. The door would be left open for Cuba to return to the hemispheric fold should Castro change his ways or should an anti-Communist government emerge in Cuba.

Isolation Penalty Mild

Isolation from the OAS is a penalty far milder than the diplomatic and economic sanctions President Kennedy's team had hoped for when it came to the Inter-American foreign ministers' meeting. Despite fears of congressional anger that would produce opposition to Alliance for Progress appropriations, the U.S. delegation

Mahoney Asks Welfare Cuts In Half Billion Program

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney, a leading critic of state welfare policies, called on the Legislature today to seize the initiative and adopt reforms he said would cut the state's annual, half-billion-dollar relief budget.

Mahoney said his plan for mandating changes in the State Social Welfare Department, a frequent target of his, would eliminate relief cheating, encourage efficient management, provide for research into welfare problems and broaden work-relief programs.

Mahoney asked the Legislature to:

1. Establish within the welfare department a Bureau of Frauds to oversee prosecution of welfare cheats, a Bureau of Social Research and a Bureau of Economy and Efficiency to help local districts modernize procedures.

2. Authorize local welfare districts to establish work relief programs for able-bodied adults receiving help under the aid-to-dependent children program, a federally aided plan in which work relief has been barred but is expected to be permissible under pending changes in federal law.

3. Direct the Welfare Department to simplify and condense its rules "to increase efficiency and raise morale in public welfare agencies."

4. Create "intensive, in-service training programs for welfare employes aimed at both improving services and cutting costs."

Mahoney said in a statement that "welfare is a multi-million-dollar business. It's about time we started applying sound, reasonable management principles to better serve welfare clients and the taxpayers who must bear this tremendous cost."

Sen. Henry Wise (R-Watertown) was co-sponsor of the bill.

In other state-government developments:

Deficiency Budget — Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino rallied sufficient Republican votes to pass Rockefeller's $54 - million deficiency budget. The measure had been stalled because of GOP opposition to a $20-million item for buying office-building sites in downtown Albany, a Democratic stronghold.

SCAD—The Assembly gave final legislative approval and sent to Rockefeller Tuesday a bill to increase from 5 to 7 the membership of the State Commission Against Discrimination to handle a growing backlog of cases. The governor had recommended the increase.

Workmen's Compensation — The Assembly Republican majority approved in a party conference Rockefeller's bill to increase from $50 to $55 a week minimum workmen's compensation benefits.

State police notified the woman's husband, Tauno J. Wento, who resides in Whiteport.

Surviving in addition to her husband are two sons, James R. and Nilo J. Wento and a daughter, Cynthia.

Mrs. Wento was employed as a clerk at a New Paltz drug store.

Degree of Supervision Paramount Question

A-B-C's on Background Of Military Censorship

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This week Robert A. Lovett, defense secretary under President Truman, said he feels that "as a government we talk too much (and) give the impression of being unbuttoned."

He told this to a Senate subcommittee which began hearings Tuesday on whether military men are permitted to talk enough. The hearings will go on for weeks, probably get overheated, and will take three directions:

Boils Down to One

(1) Censorship of speeches by military officers before civilian groups; (2) teaching or educating troops about communism, and (3) participation by military men in seminars and public meetings.

All three questions come down to this: How much freedom shall military officers have to speak on matters not directly connected with their military duties?

President Kennedy's administration—like President Eisenhower's before it—has a policy which insists speeches military or other government officials give on national security matters be in line with White House views and the American foreign policy.

The investigation is the result of charges by Sen. Strom Thurmond, a major general in the Army Reserve and a South Carolina Democrat, that the Pentagon "muzzled" anti-Communist talks by military men.

'Direct Moscow Orders'

He said the muzzling was done on orders "direct from Moscow." He wouldn't elaborate on that one.

Two former high-ranking officers are most frequently mentioned in discussion of this case: Adm. Arleigh Burke, former chief of naval operations, and Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, former commander of the 24th Army Division in West Germany.

When Kennedy took office last year Moscow decided to release two American fliers held prisoners for 18 months after their plane had been shot down in the Barents Sea off northern Russia.

The Kennedy administration and Moscow consulted in some form on this release because on Jan. 25 Kennedy and the Russians issued simultaneous statements on it. That was five days after Kennedy took office.

About that time a speech by Burke was censored. Kennedy explained later that no one in this country knew at the time whether the fliers would be released.

JFK Lays Down Policy

The President said: "Therefore, there is some value in coordinating statements made by high-ranking responsible officials. It is the policy which must be followed by this administration."

Walker's case was different. He lectured his troops in Germany on anti-communism and a publication, Overseas Weekly, said he also described "as definitely pink" Truman, Dean Acheson, former Secretary of state, and others.

The Army investigated and reprimanded him, according to Army Secretary Elvis J. Stahr Jr., "for taking injudicious actions and making derogatory statements about prominent Americans."

The Army record showed he refused to answer—taking the equivalent of the 5th Amendment—when asked if he acted contrary to military regulations by advising his men on American political matters.

Opposed Action

Walker, relieved of his command, quit the Army, began making speeches, and last week announced he has become "the symbol of patriotism for this country."

Thurmond said later he didn't know all the facts in the case but still didn't think Walker should have been bounced. At the same time he said officers should stay out of partisan politics.

Everybody seems agreed that military men must be subordinate to the civilian leaders of the government. The dispute is over how much they should be allowed to say.

General Eisenhower issued a long statement Tuesday which went around and around but did say "let our informed military speak, always under properly established policies and the general—not petty—supervision of their civilian superiors."

But, since it's this very degree of supervision which is under investigation, Eisenhower didn't solve anything.

Kennedy said last year he knows of 65 efforts by Eisenhower's administration "to make sure that speeches by members of the military were in accordance with the general objectives of American foreign policy."

Canadian Animal Food Makers Held For Smuggling

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. customs agents have arrested and accused a Canadian animal food dealer of smuggling more than 230 tons of meat into this country since last March.

Arthur L. Lorenz, 37, of Durham, Ont., waived examination Tuesday after his arrest and was ordered held in $10,000 bail by U. S. Commissioner Thomas J. Ryan Sr.

Lorenz was charged with smuggling beef into the United States at the Peace Bridge in 20 separate truckloads. The agents said the meat was trucked to Allentown, Pa., where it was made into dog food. Lorenz evaded payment of $13,908 in duty, the agents charged.

They said the beef was hidden under large quantities of horsemeat, which is admissible, duty-free, to the U. S. The value of the smuggled meat was placed at $59,092 while the value of the horsemeat was $20,700 agents said.

Agents said Lorenz' last shipment was seized several weeks ago after a joint investigation by the agents and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

$264,000 Award to Walkers Slated for Payment Jan. 30

A $264,000 verdict awarded Milton F. Walker and wife in the Court of Claims for lands taken by the State of New York for relocation of the Sawkill road and the Albany Avenue arterial route spur, will not be appealed it was learned Tuesday.

Notice has been received from the Attorney General's office by John E. Gotelli and John E. Egan, attorneys for Walker, that there will be no appeal from the judgment and that payment of the award will be made on Jan. 30, in accordance with the verdict which was obtained last November in the New York State Court of Claims.

Deprived of Land

For the eight acres of land taken an action was commenced in 1959 in the Court of Claims. It was alleged that the owners had been deprived of developing the lands for a shopping center. After trial of the action, in which it was contended the owners had been deprived of putting the land to the best use, that of a shopping center, the award of over a quarter of a million dollars was made. The judgment carries interest from March 6, 1959 and the total amount which will be paid to the petitioners is $288,687.82.

It was alleged that the best part of the farm, which had been in use for many years as a market garden, were the eight acres of land taken for the highway improvements and that the remaining acreage was now useless for a shopping center site.

Largest Area Award

Relocation of the Sawkill road, closing of the Brabrant road along Esopus Creek and the taking of lands for the new alignment of Sawkill Road and the Albany Avenue Arterial Route spur it was alleged had destroyed the right to the best use of the land, that of a shopping center.

At the time the Court of Claims awarded the large sum to the Walkers, it was believed an appeal would be taken to the Appellate Division, Supreme Court, in an effort to review the judgement which is believed to be the largest ever awarded in Uister County for land taken for highway purposes.

Counsel for plaintiffs were notified on Tuesday that no appeal would be taken and that the judgement would be paid with interest on Jan. 30.

The award of $264,000 for the eight acres taken for relocation of Sawkill Road and the Albany Avenue Arterial spur, does not include payment for lands taken for the Thruway and Route 28 traffic circle. Awards for this taking had already been made.

Final Action on Postal Increase Expected Today

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has tentatively approved a bill raising postage a penny per letter and increasing "junk mail" rates. Final action is expected today.

The House added $79.2 million to a rate increase bill worked out by the Kennedy administration and House Democratic leaders, producing a measure that would bring in $700 million if accepted by the Senate. There is some doubt on that score, however.

The bill raises first class and air mail rates by a penny, to 5 and 8 cents, for a total increase in those categories of $455 million. It also calls for $53 million more in the rates paid by newspapers and magazines, $171 million more in third-class rates—those used mostly by direct mail advertisers—and about $20 million more in miscellaneous increases.

All increases would be effective next July 1.

It was in third-class rates the administration got more than it asked for. The administration and the House leadership, in a compromise bill, had asked for third-class increases totaling $93 million, which would have covered about 85 per cent of the handling cost of such mail.

Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W. Va., offered an amendment increasing the total to $171 million, covering full cost. A surge of resentment against bulk mail advertising—some called it "junk mail"—carried his proposal by a voice vote.

Garment Workers Named in Lawsuit

NEW YORK (AP)—Three women's wear industry groups and a local of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union have been accused by the federal government of conspiring to fix prices and allocate business.

Named Tuesday in a federal civil antitrust suit were the Greater Blouse, Skirt and Neckwear Contractors Association Inc. and the National Association of Blouse Manufacturing Inc., both of New York; the Slate Belt Apparel Contractors Association Inc. of Bangor, Pa., and Local 25 of the ILGWU.

The action parallels an indictment on criminal antitrust charges that was returned against the same defendants in 1959.

The government charges the defendants conspired from 1949 to 1959 to fix prices and from 1949 until the present to allocate business.

The 300 member firms in Greater Blouse and the 100 in Slate accounted for half—or $175 million worth—of 1957 wholesale blouse sales in the United States, the government said.

Red-U.S. Film Planned

NEW YORK (AP)— Plans are under way to produce a joint Soviet-American motion picture.

Producer Lester Cowan announced Tuesday that both American and Russian actors would be in the cast and scenes would be filmed in both countries.

Tax Relief Bill Passed to Slash Taxes on Stock

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a measure that would cut millions of dollars from the tax bill of Du Pont stockholders in the event they receive $3.5 billion in General Motors stock from an antitrust decision.

Senate passage late Tuesday, after a week of debate and months of maneuvers, completed congressional action on the legislation. The House passed it last September. President Kennedy's approval was considered certain.

The Supreme Court has ruled that Du Pont's possession of 63 million shares of G. M. violates antitrust laws and that the chemical firm must dispose of it.

Du Pont said it would prefer to do this by distributing the shares to its stockholders but could not because of the heavy taxes under present law, which would require the recipients to pay on the full value of the G. M. stock at regular income tax rates.

The tax relief measure would permit them to pay at capital gains rates—half the normal income levy up to a 25 per cent maximum—and only on the difference between what they paid for Du Pont and what the G. M. now is worth.

This means an estimated two-thirds of the 200,000 Du Pont stockholders would not have to pay a tax on receipt of the stock.

The bill would reduce the taxes on such a distribution from more than $1 billion to about $470 million.

28 More Flee To West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — An informed source reported at least 28 people from Communist territory broke through to West Berlin Tuesday night. About half were women and there were three children.

It was the largest number reported in many weeks. Details of the breakout were withheld, and official sources would not confirm the report.

Rejects Hoffa's Bid

CLEVELAND (AP)— The Bakery & Confectionary Workers Union (B&C) convention has turned down three proposals concerning the independent union's future—including a personal invitation from James R. Hoffa that they merge with his Teamsters Union.

Now the 365 delegates to the union's 26th convention turn their attention to a proposal from an anti-administration group which wants to return to the AFL-CIO. Drafted by the Local Unions Reunification Committee (LURC), the fourth proposal calls for negotiations with the AFL - CIO American Bakery and Confectionery Workers (ABC) "for the purpose of effectuating merger and unification."

THERE WENT A CONTINENT

This is an era when men talk casually of death to the millionth power. The champions at the casual approach are the weapons scientists, who seem accustomed to thinking of people as statistics to be blown sky high in this manner or that.

The other day an expert on missiles and space vehicles suggested that after 1970 the generals may have at their disposal a so-called asteroid bomb whose power to destroy would make hydrogen bombs look like popguns. The idea is to aim an asteroid at the earth—hopefully, that part of the earth you want to smash into rubble.

"This unusual weapon system," said the scientist, "shares with the biological weapons the possibility for masquerading as a natural catastrophe." Tricky, eh? No blame, afterward. But let's just hope that when they shatter a continent with an asteroid bomb they'll be a bit careful about which continent they're shattering.

Some men make a hobby out of restoring old model autos. Others make wrecks out of new models.

OVERSEAS LUNCHES

A Department of Agriculture study shows that this year countries inhabited by almost two billion people will be short of food. At the same time, storage bins in the United States will be bursting with food. The dilemma is a familiar one, and it cannot be resolved as simply as is sometimes imagined.

One program, however, is direct and has no adverse effect on domestic or world markets. This is the plan to provide school lunches. George McGovern, food for peace director, is placing a high priority on expansion of the overseas school lunch program and hopes that within five years this undertaking will supplement the diet of some 500 million children.

No aid program has more appeal. None will be more profitable, in the long run, to this country or to the world's youth. The overseas school lunch program not only offers an effective way to reduce U. S. food surpluses; it also promises great nutritional —and, indirectly, educational—benefits.

The Internal Revenue Service has launched an attack on tax bribes. We'd also like to see an attack on tax increases.

CATHOLIC CHARITIES

New York Catholic Charities this year embarks on its 43rd annual fund appeal. The financial drive will be held from April 1 to 11 in 402 parishes of the New York Archdiocese. This year's goal has been set at $3,392,254.

Through the central organization itself and through its 193 affiliated health and welfare institutions and agencies over half a million persons in the community annually benefit by Catholic Charities services.

Some 17,000 volunteers will make a house-to-house canvass of Catholic families in the Archdiocese, which includes Ulster County and embraces an area of about 4,000 square miles.

The extent of the service achieved by this organization impels continued generous support from the public.

IT'S A GAMBLE

A couple of Kentucky towns hit hard by new federal antigambling laws, plus a local crackdown, are appealing to Washington for help. It seems a good many people employed in gaming establishments are out of work.

What the two towns are hoping for is to have placed in their midst one of the four new income tax processing centers projected by the Internal Revenue Service.

There is no strong indication that the two localities, Newport and Covington, will be so favored.

If the bid to IRS fails, perhaps the Area Redevelopment Act can be made to apply, on the ground that the unemployed gamesters' present skills are out of date and they need retraining.

THE TARIFF

President Kennedy's proposal to reduce the tariff could eliminate certain industries altogether. Some American companies, which have exported huge sums to Common Market countries, or to Great Britain or Canada, for the building of industries there would benefit by exporting their products from those countries to the United States. It would appear that they are competing with themselves. Actually, they are not competing with themselves because while we speak of exporting capital, what has been exported are jobs and what is imported without tariff protection is goods manufactured by cheaper labor costs, cheaper tax costs and even cheaper raw material costs.

How can American jobs be safeguarded under such conditions? There can be no question but that President Kennedy seeks to build up the economy of Western Europe as an offset to the building up of the economy of the Soviet Universal State. But while that is being done, what becomes of the American economy? Certain industries would inevitably be shut tight within the United States because they have no export market and cannot compete in the American market unless protected.

We face here a dichotomy which is not answered by a rule of political necessity. It is necessary to find a solution which answers both problems; namely, 1. How to continue to build West European and Japan's industries so that the United States has effective allies, and 2. How to sustain jobs in the United States so that the American worker is protected.

In any discussion of the tariff, Americans are accustomed to speak of protecting infant industries. But the industries are no longer infants. What we are dealing with today is the protection of jobs, with the social problems of maintaining a uniform standard of life, with the avoidance of peaks and valleys of production so that there will be no depressions.

To achieve this constructively, we must be able to maintain an export ratio which will keep our people at work or we must stimulate the domestic consumption of goods so that we will keep our people at work. Unemployment is socially intolerable. Equally, the reduction of our standard of life is intolerable.

We face therefore a very serious social problem which cannot be solved by politics alone. This problem requires an immediate acknowledgement that the center of American domestic and international politics depends upon the availability of jobs in the United States and the value of the money that those jobs bring to each family. If the family is accepted as the unit for consideration, it is impossible to tolerate unemployment for any reason whatsoever. The concentration of planning must be focussed on jobs.

Unemployment is not likely to produce a revolution in the United States such as a famine produces in an Asiatic country. The reason is that in the United States we can eat even if we are forced to barter food for manufactured goods or if we become dependent upon the state. But a depression would force upon our people price controls and price controls eventually mean controls of every economic media. We have had enough experience with that to know that it results in social unrest and unnecessary changes. How long such controls can be exercised without an unfavorable concentration of power, no one can estimate. A concentration of power stimulates political strife.

Of course, political changes are moving so rapidly that much happens while one discusses what might happen. This swiftness is frightening and it has the curious effect of producing a political apathy which tends to fool the politician that the public is satisfied with his conduct. But is it a political apathy or is it a waiting period for a new leadership? This too needs to be studied, for much of President Kennedy's strength comes from the inherent weakness of the Republican Party which has no leadership, and no program. Should the Republicans come to life, the Democrats might be shocked by an exhibition of their own weakness.

It is possible that it is not the people who are apathetic as much as it is that all leadership has disappeared except that of President Kennedy, which means that in a two party country there is only one party. When there is only one side to take, the people often take no sides. For President Kennedy it would be better if the Republicans had something to say and someone to say it.

A Complex Computer Is Right Under Your Hat

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Suppose we were being shown around the laboratory where they keep Univac or some other of the electric computers. And suppose I told you I was going to press a button somewhere to see what would happen. Any button. I rather imagine you'd do what you could to restrain me.

Yet you have a three-pound electronic computer just beneath your hat. It contains something between 12 and 14 million cells, each acting as a sort of vacuum tube or transistor. Each of these is capable of sending electric impulses of sufficient intensity to be measurable by detecting machines (electro-encephalograms).

Engineers estimate that these cells operate on the equivalent of less than 100 watts. They also tell us that a manmade machine that contained that many transistors would need 100 million watts. That is to say, all the power generated by Niagara Falls. And to cool the tubes in this manmade machine, you'd have to use all the water that descends from the Falls.

We now have in our possession drugs that influence our computer brains. They're called "mood drugs." Some of them calm and tranquilize. Others are pepper-uppers. How they act and where they act to do what they do, no one of us knows at this moment.

Yet, knowing no more about them than I'd know if I stood in front of Univac, and having little more knowledge of what might happen than I'd have if I pressed a button somewhere on Univac's panel board, millions of us are dosing ourselves with calmatives, tranquilizers, pep-up pills to delay fatigue and overcome sleepiness, and "brain stimulants."

This is not to deny the usefulness of these drugs in the treatment of patients who have severe mental illnesses.

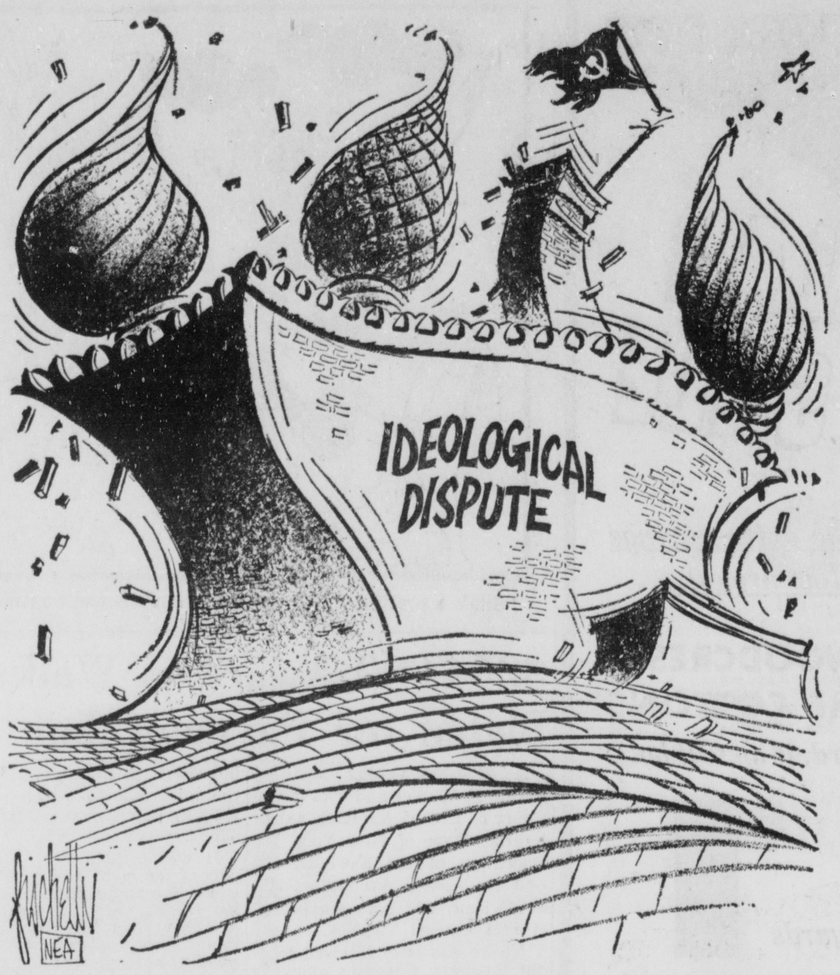

But it is meant to call to your attention the folly of self-prescribing or taking mood drugs of uncertain action any time you feel a bit tense, nervous, or down in the mouth. Or because you're intent on driving those extra few miles to get wherever it is you want to get.

WASHINGTON, (NEA)—Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy came out of his office with a group of foreign visitors, all bearing hardcover, autographed copies of his book, "The Enemy Within."

Said a friend waiting in the outer office:

"I'd like one of those myself. All I've got is the paperback edition I bought."

"A paperback!" exclaimed Kennedy. "How can I make anything from the book if people go around buying paperbacks?"

HOW CALIFORNIA'S "Pat" Brown got his nickname was revealed by President John Cosgrove when the governor appeared before the National Press Club.

"Mr. Brown grew up as 'Edmund Gerald,'" Cosgrove explained, "but during the war, at a rally sponsored by Liberty Bonds, he cried, 'Give me liberty or give me death!' And it's been 'Patrick Henry Brown' ever since!"

BROWN GOT A FEW laughs himself when he remarked that in keeping with President Kennedy's wishes for a fitter America, he had joined Chief Justice Earl Warren on a recent duck hunt.

"You may have heard that he shot his limit of five ducks while I got only four," said Brown. "It probably was the first time in history a Chief Justice took the fifth."

When the laughs died down, Brown added: "But there was some precedent for my performance. I gave the fifth duck a commutation."

WHEN ASKED IF Richard Nixon—Brown's probable opponent for California's governorship this fall—was also keeping in shape for the campaign, Brown answered that Nixon had to delay training until he finished his book, "My Six Crises."

"Most of us thought there were only four crises," Brown cracked, "and they all took place on television in the season of 1960."

A SOUTHERN SENATOR, chatting with a Washington cab driver, told him he might be debating Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota on radio or TV.

"You'll be a fool if you do," advised the cabbie. "He rode in my cab a few days ago, and you can't get a word in edgewise."

NOW THAT Averell Harriman is back in Washington full time as assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, a story is being revived about his campaign tactics in the New York governorship race against Nelson Rockefeller.

After waiters, bellhops, cab drivers and the like received one of the Democratic millionaire's "John D. Rockefeller dimes," and registered the natural facial disgust, the story goes that Harriman would always say, "Now remember. Be sure to vote Republican."

LATEST CRACK on the Peace Corps is that the young men and women it sends overseas to teach will learn a great deal, if nobody else does.

Only trouble is, the secretary spells his name "Stahr."

Kennedy Economic Message Described as 'Gobbledygook'

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Three hundred pages of "gobbledygook" on how the Kennedy administration intends to operate, if it can, a managed economy reminiscent of the 1930s have been submitted in a message to Congress. Part of it is a statement signed by the President, and part of it is a report to him by the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

The net of it all is that the executive branch of the Federal government intends to use its monetary powers, its controls of credit, its public-works appropriations and its powers of taxation to influence the operations of American business. But not the slightest measures of restraint is to be exerted upon labor-union monopolies which bring about inflation and depreciate the dollar's purchasing power.

Congress has yet to concur in the recommendations of the message, but there are many powers already vested in the executive branch of the government that can make all the difference in the world between having a recession or depression and having prosperity. Typical of the astigmatism of the Administration is the following excerpts from the President's message:

"When better plant and equipment enable the labor force to produce more in the same number of hours, there is more to share among all the contributors to the productive process—and this can happen with no increase in prices. Gains achieved in this manner endure, while gains achieved in one turn of the price-wage spiral vanish on the next.

'Productivity Benchmark'

"The nation must rely on the good sense and public spirit of our business and labor leaders to hold the line on the price level in 1962. If labor leaders in our major industries will accept the productivity benchmark as a guide to wage objectives, and if management in these industries will practice equivalent restraint in their price decisions, the year ahead will be a brilliant chapter in the record of the responsible exercise of freedom."

But what is the "productivity benchmark?" The President's Council of Economic Advisers, in the very same report, puts it this way:

"How is the public to judge whether a particular wage-price decision is in the national interest? No simple test exists, and it is not possible to set out systematically all of the many considerations which bear on such a judgment. However, since the question is of prime importance to the strength and progress of the American economy, it deserves wide-spread public discussion and clarification of the issues. What follows is intended as a contribution to such a discussion."

Subject of Unions

But "what follows" is limited in scope and significantly omits all references to the irresponsibility of trade unions and the monopoly power they wield through industry-wide bargaining. Somehow the entire document, including the President's part of it, shows a timidity, if not a fear, about dealing with the touchy subject of union excesses. Instead, there is emphasis on management's tendency to increase prices to absorb labor costs, as if this were a sin.

Both the President and his economic consultants, however, would have been well advised to study what happened in New York a week ago and take its lesson to heart. The Washington Star, in an editorial last Sunday, called attention to a fundamental weakness in the economy when it said:

"The 'settlement' of the electrical workers" strike in New York City is a perfect example of what's wrong with the construction industry in this country. Originally, the union demanded a twenty-hour week. Now it has 'compromised,' settling for a twenty-five-hour week plus an increase in hourly pay and assurances of five hours in overtime. Under the old contract an electrician worked six hours a day at $4.40 an hour and a seventh overtime hour for $6.60. Under the new agreement he will work five hours at $4.96 an hour and the sixth hour at $7.44. Should there be more than five hours of overtime he will make more for a twenty-five-hour week than he did for a thirty-hour week. . . .

"The simple explanation for this result is that the union, with a monopoly of workers in short supply and entrenched behind its statutory immunity from the anti-trust laws, can get away with just about anything it pleases. Had an association of business men tried to work any such gouge as this, the Department of Justice anti-trust lawyers would be sweating day and night to put them in the pokey. But in the case of the electricians not a voice of protest has been raised in official Washington."

Can Affect Others

This trend in the construction industry, just at a time when there is a lot of talk about the Government subsidizing more housing, can gravely affect one of the nation's key industries and can spread to other unions.

On matters of this kind, the President's economic report treads lightly. Obviously the politician doesn't want to alienate his principal source of support in political campaigns—the trade unions and their financial contributions.

This is the kind of materialism which tends to negate the professions of high idealism that are sprinkled through the Administration's messages to Congress. It's one reason why all the rosy predictions of economic prosperity in the President's latest message are accompanied by requests for power to deal with expected recessions, if not depressions, as well as with inflationary trends in recovery periods that can weaken the purchasing power of the dollar.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Imogene Stanley died January 6 in the Baptist Memorial Hospital in San Antonio. She was one of the most beautiful young women who ever lived when, in the fall of 1923, she bewitched the Prince of Wales in the public dining room of the Chateau Frontenac in Quebec and danced with him until the orchestra put away its gear and the party was over.

A Quebec society girl, Miss Phyllis Burstal, had had the first dance. Then General Gerald F. Trotter, a veteran of the war in France, who had lost a forearm in battle, smacked his heels, presented himself and asked Gene for the next dance. She was sitting with an American woman and her daughter whom she had known in New York. They had met in the elevator and, by this miraculous luck, Gene was able to join their table at the rim of the floor. She was chaperoned. When this dance ended, Trotter asked permission to present her to Baron Renfrew, the Prince's incognito in those days.

Imogene had been assigned by the new, rapscallion New York News, that terrible tabloid, to buy a new dress on the expense account, go to Quebec and, on her own initiative, break into the prince's confidence and write the story. She never did write it. And when, late that night, Phil Payne, the city editor, threatened to have it written in the shop and to run her name over it, Gene said, "If you do, I will deny it to The New York Times and sue you for libel."

The dress was green. It had cost $35. Gene's home in New York was a furnished room on lower Fifth Avenue. That address may have impressed Trotter.

In recent years, Gene had worked for a radio station in San Antonio. She was ill. The world had passed her by. In the interim after the night of dancing with the prince, she had buried herself in a crossroads huddle of 'dobe houses, huts and hovels near Chihuahua City, Mexico. Her sister had married an American who was making the desperate venture of running a small bunch of cattle down there. When the sister had a baby, Gene pulled her stakes in Hollywood and gave herself to them. The baby was a boy who was born unlucky and died wretchedly. The sister's husband died.

After that disaster, Gene tried to carry on as head of the family. She delivered Indian babies. She helped cows with their calves. She spoke Spanish like a native. After ten years of this she guided the little family back to San Antonio and went to work in the limited field of journalism as local reporter and stringer and writing radio scripts. Just after the Second War she tiptoed back to New York where she had been a triumph and tried a small job with Sam Pryor of Pan-American. But her heart was dry inside her. Gene was still beautiful. Her profile, her straight, graceful bearing were still the craracteristics of the blonde who had vamped the Prince of Wales. She quietly vanished again.

I told her that Julie and I had dined at 21 with the Duke of Windsor and Wallis and that when Julie had mentioned her, the Duke had exclaimed happily, "Gene! How is she? Do you see her?" and Wallis had asked, not grimly, but with interest nevertheless, "Gene? Who might she be?"

Imogene went to Washington as a yeoman of the Navy late in the First War. Lowell Mellett hired her for the Washington Daily News strictly on her beauty and vivacity soon after the amistice. To her own astonishment, she was a great reporter. But though she read everything, she never quite lived up to herself as a writer. In Hollywood, Charlie MacArthur and Gene Fowler helped her, but the producer always wanted her for an actress or clothes-horse.

Once she wrote, "There are moments when I ask myself what does my worth consist of? Beauty is a mere configuration of bone and skin, with which one has been endowed. It is not earned."

I wrote her last year about Fowler's funeral and of the hummingbird poking into the yellow roses and of Jack Dempsey, Ben Hecht and others whom she had known trying to improvise Fowler's own jest at that. She replied: "From Gene Fowler, who so defiantly and gleefully waved a wand of spaghetti in the faces of unprofessed gods, to say he became a Catholic 'because I want to go to Heaven' seems almost to be mocking in the familiar Fowler fashion. God rest his sweet soul.

"I myself am seeking faith. I am troubled by grief and feel very much alone. I am no longer young or confident or gay. Life presses down."

At last, some months ago, alone at night, I suddenly realized that Imogene was a great soul; flippant, outwardly confident and so beautiful that her trappings veiled the nobility of the girl who abandoned her own world, her life, to live for her sister in squalid poverty among ignorant, dirty peasants in a strange land.

I sponged my eyes, dragged myself to the typewriter and told her so.

HARRISBURG (AP)—The compromise congressional reapportionment bill neared the halfway mark in the special legislative session today, virtually assured of final passage by early Friday morning.

The Senate meets this afternoon to receive the bill after House approval. The timetable in the upper chamber calls for readings today and Thursday and the final action at a postmidnight session early Friday.

Both houses also scheduled meetings of the regular 1962 session today, but little of importance was expected to develop.

The special session was called by Gov. Lawrence because the ed to consideration of fiscal afregular meeting this year is limitfairs.

The reapportionment bill reduces the number of Pennsylvania's congressional districts from 30 to 27, based on 1960 census figures.

Reports Given At Christmas Group Meeting

NEW PALTZ — The New Paltz Christmas Committee held its annual meeting recently when Mrs. Edna Beatty, treasurer, gave the yearly report on the committee's finances. Present balance is $1,123.79.

The committee was greatly pleased that the treasury can afford to take care of any emergency that may arise in the community. They also appreciate the 10 to 20 per cent discount extended them from local merchants for services and supplies secured.

The vice chairman reported 20 family visitations with 46 adults and 72 children served. Nineteen food baskets were delivered in addition to eight fruit baskets. Clothing was given 18 families, and toys to all children in 13 families, as well as supplies furnished for children in foster homes in the county.

Mrs. Gertrude Elliott gave a report as the committee's contact member for the men and women at the County Home. Ten women and 39 men were recipients of some 350 gifts all wrapped and packaged. Miss Grace Elliott and Mrs. Ogden Harding aided Mrs. Eliott in the wrapping.

Mrs. Douglas Snow reported for the Jayncees. Birthdays of eight children cared for in October and November, two in the Christmas distribution, with $25 of the Christmas fund still on hand to be administered by the Jayncees.

Central School News

Miss Joanne Barg, a senior at New Paltz Central High School, has won second place in the American Legion Oratorical Contest. Miss Barg competed with six other schools in Ulster County. The contest this year was conducted at Rondout Valley Central School last Wednesday. This is the second consecutive year that she has come in second. However, last year there were only five schools represented. Mrs. Harriet Cunningham of the English Department was her coach.

Miss Barg is a member of the National Honor Society. She has been active in music organizations throughout her four years of high school.

She has recently been accepted at New Paltz State University College of Education for the fall term.

Miss Linda Blue, a member of the class of 1962 at New Paltz Central School has qualified as a candidate for the 1962 National Honor Society as a result of receiving a high score on the preliminary scholarship aptitude test given Oct. 17. Further consideration for the scholarship will depend on scholastic high school record, personal record and recommendation by the principal.

H. Gardlin, field representative from the Social Security Office in Kingston, gave a talk recently for selected freshmen and business education students at New Paltz Central High School.

He outlined the major benefits under the law as revised in 1961. These include disability, unemployment, aid to dependents, and retirement. The latter is the only type administered solely by the Federal Government, he said.

Gardlin was introduced by Mrs. Alyce Littlefield of the business education department.

Operation Deep-Freeze took place last weekend at which time the troop participated in a two-day camp-out.

Starting Jan. 25, Troop 172 will hold its regular meeting Thursday 7:30 p. m. in the basement of the Education Building of the Reformed Church. Anyone interested may attend meetings.

Pennsy to Push 'Project 70' for Recreation Plans

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania has begun a drive to preserve outdoor resources for the recreation and enjoyment of its people.

The drive is entitled "Project 70," a plan which Gov. Lawrence said, "provides for the conservation and development of our magnificent scenic and natural resources."

"It aims for a healthier, more pleasant, more prosperous Pennsylvania," the governor said recently when he introduced the project to the General Assembly.

The General State Authority is in the process of buying park land with funds appropriated in the 1959-61 budget.

The high cost of the land—not only in southeastern Pennnsylvania but throughout the state—creates a sense of urgency within the administration. For the longer it takes the state to purchase the land, the higher the cost may soar.

And Project 70 must be approved by the people of Pennsylvania since they must approve a constitutional amendment which will increase the state's debt ceiling by $70 million—the revenue necessary to put the project in motion throughout the state.

Why We Say--

ADD INSULT TO INJURY

A FABLE: When someone adds "insult to injury" he is not apologetic after inflicting injury. The saying goes back to the fables of Aesop who tells the story of the bald man who swatted a fly on his head, but raised a bump by hitting himself so hard. The fly got away as an added insult to his injury.

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Big stars who cause costly delays on movies aren't colorful, "They're no better than thieves who steal money."

That's director William Wyler, one of the industry's all-time great moviemakers, speaking.

Assails Attitude

He was commenting on a rash of over-budget productions such as the costly "Mutiny on the Bounty" which is in its second year of production—and second $20 million of cost.

"The industry is being hurt by a lack of professional attitude on the part of some new stars," says Wyler.

He cited the case of one top star who gets a million a picture. When he didn't show up one morning, the studio dialed him. He explained that he couldn't find the keys to his car—also he couldn't remember where he parked it.

"The price of a taxi would have saved his studio thousands of dollars," says Wyler. "But he wouldn't call one until the studio called him, hours after he was due at work.

"Even then he insisted that someone meet him at the gate to take care of the fare. He said he didn't have any money."

When such an attitude becomes chronic, Wyler says costs mount into the thousands.

Non-Pros Not Worry

The director says he has no trouble with non-professional stars.

"When I made 'The Children's Hour' for the Mirisch brothers, I was hired first because the Mirisches put their money on the picture maker, not the stars.

"They believe that if you are going to cook a good dinner, you first hire a good cook. The waiters who deliver the food come second in their planning.

"I knw before I start a picture that I will do it only with professional stars. If, half way through a picture, a star becomes non-professional, they know I walk out."

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— Liberace tossed a party Tuesday night to show off his $275,000 Hollywood Hills home, a symphony in gold that he will live in just five weeks a year.

The mansion, off Queen's Road above the Sunset Strip, is so big that even the rooms have rooms.

Liberace said so far he has counted 29 rooms in the 32-year-old house, whose former owners included Ann Harding and Rudy Vallee.

The pianist traded a $100,000 apartment house for it.

"When I moved in," Liberace said, "the decor was early Gloria Swanson so I spent $175,000 redecorating."

The result is a miniature Versailles, done in French provincial style.

"I saved some money by building the living room valances myself," he said. He also built a French provincial china closet.

"I'm away on concert tours 47 weeks a year, so I don't have time to build anything else myself," he said.

The house has five pianos but, unlike his Sherman Oaks house, the swimming pool is a normal rectangle.

"No more piano-shaped pools," said Liberace. "Every time I felt like a swim, the pool was out of tune."

There is a hi-fi set built into an antique harpsichord, reminiscent of the old Liberace. Theme of the decor is elegance. The color scheme is gold—gold on white, gold on black and gold on gold.

Chamber Lists 2 More Cooperating in B-E Day

This is another news release in the series, prepared by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, outlining information about some of the cooperators in the seventh annual Business-Education Day sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. On B-E Day, Friday, Jan. 26, Twenty-five area businesses will entertain 250 teachers of the school system.

Kingston Trust Company

The Kingston Trust Company was founded in 1836 as the Kingston Bank. Last year it celebrated its 125th year of service to the Hudson Valley region.

Soon after the Erie Canal linked the Great Lakes and the Hudson River, and nearly 20 years before Commodore Vanderbilt sent his first train up the "Water Level Route," the Kingston Trust Company, started to play an important part in the development of our area.

Through six wars, in spite of economic trials of severe panics and depressions Kingston Trust Company has been a helping hand to the steady progress of industry, housing, schools and culture of the Hudson Valley.

After the Civil War, the Kingston Bank became a National Bank and so continued until 1919 when it received a charter from the New York State Banking Department as the Kingston Trust Company. At that time total assets were just over one million dollars.

In 1920 the Central Branch was opened at 518 Broadway. The success of this location has been outstanding and its sphere of service is reflected in the modern building of two stories employing more than 40 persons in that office.

In 1953 further expansion of the bank's services took place by the establishment of a branch at Phoenicia, to take care of the needs of depositors in that area.

Kingston Trust Company provides every modern banking service for its many customers—checking and savings accounts, business and personal financing, mortgages for homes and commercial enterprises, Trust Department facilities with resources of $11,000,000 now held, complete safe-deposit and safe-keeping departments, Christmas and Vacation Clubs, two drive-in windows at both Kingston offices, and this year, the latest electronic bookkeeping equipment has been installed for greater speed and accuracy.

The directors and officers of Kingston Trust Company are all community-minded citizens, with many years of practical banking experience. Under their leadership the bank has grown so that its statement of Dec. 31, 1961 shows assets of over $24,000,000. Capital funds and reserves now exceed $2,660,000 and total deposits of over $21,000,000 represent over 16,000 separate accounts.

Kingston Trust Company can be proud of its steady progress in its long history. Its energies are now directed toward the future, with confidence of even greater opportunities for growth and service.

Kingston Savings Bank

Kingston Savings Bank, which will be host to five teachers on Business-Education Day, has for many years worked closely with schools and education authorities. A pioneer and continuing leader in the servicing of School Savings Accounts in this area, Kingston Savings Bank now offers loans for higher education, sponsors broadcasts of Kingston High School football and basketball games and has helped provide school bus waiting shelters in several locations in the consolidated school district.

As a Mutual Savings Bank, Kingston Savings is operated solely for the benefit of its depositors. Its chief function is to encourage thrift by offering the highest return on savings, consistent with safety of principal, that is permitted by the State Banking Department. Most of the funds entrusted to its care are invested within the area in first mortgage loans on real estate, thus making it possible for thousands of area residents to own their own homes.

Kingston Savings Bank has a wide range of other services for the entire family, including the new, low cost Savings Bank Life Insurance; Christmas Club and All-Purpose Club accounts; travelers' checks; safe deposit boxes; personal money loans; FHA and GI mortgage loans; passbook loans; U. S. Savings Bonds; convenient customer parking and postage-paid banking by mail.

Established in 1874, Kingston Savings Bank today has assets totaling more than $34,000,000. Total savings on deposit exceed $29,800,000, of which more than $21,500,000 is invested in first mortgages on real estate.

HEAR ANNUAL REPORT—The annual report of services extended by the Salvation Army, Kingston, during 1961 was heard at a dinner meeting Monday night at Bethany Hall of Old Dutch Church. Listed in the report were community services to the transient, to families, summer camp, to the hospitalized, emergency and disaster service, and included religious and character building activities of the Kingston Corps. An elaborate Christmas program was also reported. Principals at the dinner were (l-r) Dewey Logan, vice-chairman; William S. Keyser, chairman; Mrs. Dewey Logan, secretary; Mayor John J. Schwenk and Major Foster Meitrott, commanding corps officer. (Freeman photo).

Debris Searched For Victims in Hotel Collapse

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Rescue squads today continued a frantic search for more victims in the ruins of a nearly completed resort hotel that collapsed at nearby Pineda, killing at least eight workmen and injuring 83.

Estimates of the number of workers in the eight-story hotel at the time of the two-stage collapse Tuesday varied between 140 and 200. One official said he feared as many as two dozen more victims would be found.

3 Youths Accused In Store Robbery At Poughkeepsie

Three Poughkeepsie teenagers have been accused of participating in the recent robbery of a city grocer of $13, according to police in that city.

Herbert Lester Roger, 17, of 43 North Perry Street, Poughkeepsie, was taken into custody Tuesday on a charge of first degree robbery. City Judge Milton Haven adjourned the case until Tuesday, Jan. 30, when Roger also will appear on a charge of rape, a misdemeanor, involving a 16-year-old girl.

Daniel Edward Davis, 19, of 117 Church Street, charged with conspiring with a 15-year-old boy to commit the robbery at the Louis J. Eramo grocery store at 112 Church Street, Poughkeepsie, last Wednesday, waived preliminary hearing yesterday before Judge Haven, who referred the case to the grand jury.

Detectives Edward McLaughlin and Jack Benton, who made the arrests said the 15-year-old boy will be petitioned into Children's Court.

Police Seek Vandals After Plaza Stores Are Damaged

Poughkeepsie Town Police today were endeavoring to uncover clues that might lead to the apprehension of persons responsible for a costly wave of window smashing in several stores in the township, Police Chief Vincent Smith told The Freeman.

"We are doing everything possible to end this rash of vandalism," Smith said, "and the persons responsible, when apprehended, will be dealt with severely in court."

Smith said he would ask for jail sentences and full restitution if the vandals are taken into custody.

Smash Store Windows

Most of the damage was done at stores in the Poughkeepsie shopping Plaza, South Road, near the IBM property, the police chief noted.

Some time Friday or early Saturday, vandals threw a large waste dispenser through a plate glass window at the Thom McAn store in the shopping plaza and removed display manikin legs and an unestimated number of new shoes.

Smith said some of the shoes were later found strewn around on Beechwood Avenue, and some shoes are still missing.

Ash Barrel Used

The police chief said a large galvanized ash container was hurled through a plate glass window at the Grand Union Store in the shopping plaza. Smith stated that considerable damage resulted when an ash barrel was thrown through a large window at the Robert Hall Clothing store in the South Road plaza.

Windows in other stores have been smashed in town stores in the same manner, the chief said.

A complaint was received from Frank Lombardi, a Highland contractor, who reported someone dumped sugar in the gasoline tank of a bulldozer which had been left at a sewer project in the South Gates Estates, Town of Poughkeepsie.

A plate glass window in the Jetco Auto Seat Cover establishment on South Road north of the Poughkeepsie Shopping Plaza was smashed recently.

Need More Police

Chief Smith said the vandals throw cans, containers, boards, rocks and other articles through the windows.

Police Captain Hugh Dakin said the recent vandalism damaging business places in the town definitely shows the need for more town policemen, which presently was 27 men to patrol 36.6 square miles. Dakin noted the City of Poughkeepsie has 72 policemen to cover 4.7 square miles in the city.

Dakin said there are 161 miles of roads in the township. The captain said Federal Bureau of Investigation national statistics recommended a minimum of 1½ policemen for every 1,000 people, and explained that in figuring this way the town police department should have a force of at least 50 men.

The captain noted that the township had a population of 33,248 and estimated the present town population is about 35,000, while the City of Poughkeepsie population in 1960 was 38,384.

American, Eastern Favor Giant Merger of 2 Lines

NEW YORK (AP) — American Airlines and Eastern Air Lines will combine into the nation's biggest system if stockholder and government approval is forthcoming.

They announced plans Tuesday to merge.

The consolidated line would be called American Airlines, erasing the name of the pioneer Eastern Air Lines from the roster of American carriers.

Comprises 39,000 Employes

The proposal to create a system with $900 million in assets, 39,000 employes and 400 aircraft will be submitted to stockholders of both companies and the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The board, which has generally encouraged mergers, had no immediate comment.

There was no mention in the announcement of Eddie Rickenbacker, 71, famed World War I air ace who is chairman of the board and chairman of the executive committee of Eastern.

An Eastern Air Lines spokesman said only that Rickenbacker would continue to hold those posts as long as Eastern remained an entity.

The merger would be another step in the quickening scramble to tie together competing transportation lines in an effort to pull out of a financial morass.

United Air Lines and heavily-in-debt Capital Airlines merged last May, making United the biggest of the domestic carriers. On the rail front, the New York Central and Pennsylvania systems agreed last week to merge. Other proposed combinations are being pushed.

The 11 trunk air carriers lost an aggregate of about $30 million in 1961. Eastern went deeply in the red while American earned $6.8 million.

Eye Stronger System

C. R. Smith, president of American, and Malcolm A. MacIntyre, president of Eastern, jointly announced that the aim of the merger was to provide a stronger system "which can survive today's financial crisis, meet its obligations to the public and cope with the technological demands of the future."

They estimated savings of $50 million a year could be effected by eliminating duplicating flights and other services and by better utilization of equipment and facilities.

Smith would be chairman and chief executive officer of the Eastern-American combine with McIntyre president and second in executive authority.

The merger terms provide that Eastern stockholders would receive for each Eastern share held 1.3 shares of American, plus warrants good for five years to purchase an additional one-third share of American at $28 a share.

American, now No. 2 in size behind United, basically is a transcontinental line but also serves points in the Midwest, border, middle Atlantic and New England states and into the Southwest as far as Dallas-Fort Worth.

Fourth-ranked Eastern's routes are concentrated mainly along the Eastern seaboard. It also flies northwest to Minneapolis-St. Paul, southwest to Dallas-Fort Worth, to Miami, Fla., Bermuda, Puerto Rico and Mexico City.

The lines serve 30 cities in common.

Finding of Crew Remains Touches Off New Search

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The finding of the remains of some members of the four-man crew of a B47 jet bomber that crashed in the Adirondacks touched off a concentrated search today for the other fliers and the plane's fuselage.

A 20-man search party was prepared to camp on 4,585 - foot Wright Mountain, where the plane crashed, until it had accomplished its mission.

Continued bad weather, however, could force the searchers to return to their headquarters near the base of the mountain.

An Air Force spokesman, who reported Tuesday night that some remains had been found, said it might be some time before identification is possible.

The six-engined bomber, flying out of Plattsburgh Air Force Base, crashed early Jan. 16. Pieces of the wreckage were sighted Sunday.

Searchers have fought below-freezing temperatures, freezing rain and snow whipped by winds up to 80 miles an hour since then.

The plane was manned by 1st Lts. Rodney D. Bloomgren, 26, of Jamestown, N.Y., Melvin Spencer, 28, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., Albert W. Kandetski Jr., 25, of Sunnyvale, Calif., and Airman 1.C. Kenneth R. Jensen, 22, of El Cajon, Calif.

JFK Is Hopeful Of Ike's Aid in Trade Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy hopes to draw heavily on former President Dwight D. Eisenhower for support of the new international trade program he is sending to Congress Thursday.

Administration officials are girding for what may be a four-months struggle to win authority for the President to negotiate tariff cuts in dealing with the European Common Market.

It is Kennedy's intention to plug this program as a nonpartisan approach toward a pressing and complex economic problem.

In line with this he hopes Eisenhower will help influence Republicans to go along, just as the former president gave him some aid last year in getting authorization for the long-range development loan program.

Eisenhower heartened administration leaders with a statement last month in which he gave guarded approval for action which would provide "sufficient flexibility" for tariff negotiations to reduce restraints on U.S. exports.

On the other hand, the administration harbors the suspicion former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 GOP presidential nominee, may wind up critical of the Kennedy proposals. So far, Nixon has made no public comment.

Says Rockefeller Will Win in 1962

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller will be re-elected in November "no matter who the Democrats put up against him," Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz says.

In an interview Tuesday the attorney general said the Republican Party's big problem in the coming election would be "to get over to the public. . .the accomplishments of the Rockefeller administration in the last three years."

He said the party had been "remiss" in that vein.

He said Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, described in some circles as a leading candidate," is already showing signs of losing prestige as a result of developments in New York City." He did not explain what he meant by "developments."

Trudeau on Pentagon Gag

Notes Wonderment On Censor's Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau testified today that changes made by censors in some of his anti-Communist speeches have "caused me to wonder" but "have not prevented me from getting across my basic message."

Trudeau, head of Army research and development and former chief of Army intelligence, made the statements in testimony at a Senate investigation of charges that Pentagon censorship has muzzled military men.

Sources Unknown

He said the State Department was responsible for some changes or suggested changes in his texts, but that he did not always know the sources of the changes.

Trudeau quoted changes called for by censors in one of his speeches, adding that there also were changes in others "with the source (of the suggested changes) unidentified, which gave my staff and me cause for wonder about the motivation involved."

In the text of a Trudeau speech prepared for delivery Nov. 19, before the American Ordnance Association in Washington, he said, the State Department suggested that he should not say "the tenets of Marx and Engels and Lenin are as firm a part of the Communist doctrine as when they were announced."

The general said: "The Department of State's comment to this suggested change was, and again I quote:

" 'They (the Communists) have jettisoned many of these tenets, unfortunately, because tenets were retarding industrial expansion.' "

Mindful of Duty

The general said he always was mindful of a soldier's duty when confronted with censorship—A soldier does not question the policies and decisions of higher government authority. He accepts them."

Censoring of Trudeau's speeches by the Defense Department was one of the main examples cited by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., in forcing the investigation by a special Senate Armed Services subcommittee.

Thurmond complained of 10 instances in which, he said, anti-Communist statements had been stricken from speeches by the military to public groups. He didn't say who made the speeches.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said later that all 10 had been cut from speech texts written by Trudeau. The secretary added that Trudeau had made 54 speeches in the year.

Trudeau will be followed on the witness stand by Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Ike's Letter Included

A letter from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower suggesting a change in the policy on the censoring of speeches was inserted in the record as the hearings began Tuesday.

"I question the desirability of requiring the topmost government officials, whether military or civilian, to submit to censorship of content—as distinguished from security matters—prior to their utterance," Eisenhower said.

This was done under his and preceding administrations, the former president said, but added that after thoughtful reconsideration, "I incline to the view that when responsible and respected officials feel compelled to submit to censorship, we are smothering the concept of personal responsibility under the practice of heavy-minded and unjustified staff supervision."

But he also said there must be a "rule of reason" in applying policies.

Retired Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, former chief of naval operations, warned against "too much emphasis" on censorship of military men's speeches.

Thurmond argues that this censorship is muzzling and hampers officers in efforts to inform their troops and the public on communism.

McNamara maintains it is not muzzling. He says the editing of speeches was designed to keep military spokesmen's public views in line with national policy.

Bombs Rock Paris

PARIS (AP)—Seven bombs presumably set by the European secret army exploded in rapid succession today in widely separated parts of Paris.

Targets were Frenchmen who oppose the terrorist campaign to keep Algeria French in defiance of President Charles de Gaulle's plans for independence.

Four apartment houses were damaged, but there was no report on injuries.

All the explosives were believed caused by plastic bombs, favorite weapon of the Secret Army Organization.

Publishers Will Hear Macmillan

CHICAGO (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Great Britain has accepted an invitation to speak to American newspaper publishers at their annual dinner in New York April 26.

Announcement of Macmillan's acceptance to speak was made today by Russ Stewart, executive vice president and general manager of the Chicago Sun-Times and Chicago Daily News and chairman of the board of the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Postal Rate Voted

The bill, one of the administration's high priority measures, was passed by voice vote. It now goes to the Senate.

Space Quints AttemptFails

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Rocket failure today ruined an attempt to boost five satellites into orbit simultaneously to probe a number of space mysteries.

The space quintuplets hurtled into the sky at 4:30 a.m. cradled snugly in the nose of an 80-foot Thor-Able-Star rocket. The first stage of the 55-ton rocket performed normally and observers at the Cape saw the second stage ignite.

Upper Stage Fails

But 20 minutes after launch the Defense Department announced that the upper stage failed to build up sufficient thrust after ignition and the entire rocket assembly plunged in the Atlantic Ocean far downrange.

Officials said the $3.5-million vehicle fell into the sea "well south of Cuba."

The failure wrecked the United States' most ambitious multiple payload experiment to date. Attempts have been made previously to send three satellites aloft with one booster, but never as many as five.

The five satellites were to have been sprayed into orbit by spring devices much like the pellets from a shotgun charge. Because of this, project officials nicknamed the project "Buckshot."

This was to have been the first of three major U.S. space efforts scheduled this week. On Friday, an Atlas-Agena rocket is slated to hurl a Ranger 3 payload to the moon to take closeup television pictures and land an instrument package on the lunar surface.

The attempt to orbit astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. is set for Saturday.

Doomed by Failure

Doomed by today's failure were: SR-4 (for Solar Radiation 4) to study X-ray radiation from the sun and possibly learn how storms raging across the sun's face affect space near earth.

Injun II to examine the relationship between the outer Van Allen radiation belt and auroral phenomena such as "northern lights."

Lofti II (for Low Frequency Trans-Ionospheric) to study radio wave propagation in the ionosphere in an experiment aimed at devising better earth and space radio communications systems.

Secor (for Sequential Collation of Range) to test techniques for future satellites which will map the earth.

Surcal (for Space Surveillance System Calibration) to study means of improving the Navy's satellite detection system stretching across the Southern United States.

16 Die, 80 Hurt In Caracus Riot; 8 Buses Burned

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Sixteen persons were reported killed and 80 wounded Tuesday in left-wing violence in which military police battled snipers.

Bombs exploded in scattered parts of the city and eight buses were burned during the fighting in the second day of clashes brought on by leftist agitators against the government of President Romulo Betancourt.

Twenty-three persons have been killed and more than 100 injured in the disorders which coincided with the meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers at Punta del Este, Uruguay, to consider action against Fidel Castros Cuba.

The violence was accompanied by a nationwide transit strike called in defiance of the government.

Caracas appeared fairly calm this morning after a night in which heavy gunfire was heard in many sections of the city.

Caracas' Central University, where police said pro-Castro extremists holed up and fired on them, was cleared of its students by university authorities.

Two hundred persons were reported arrested.

All government schools were ordered closed to prevent students from being used by pro-Castro elements in disorders.

Khrush Kin Visit

WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Kennedy will have the daughter and son-in-law of Soviet Premier Khrushchev as luncheon guests at the White House Tuesday.

The son-in-law is Alexei Adzhubei, editor of the Soviet government paper Izvestia, who interviewed Kennnedy in November. The interview was published in his paper.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Adzhubei and his wife, Rada, are in Havana, planning to go to Mexico City and then to Brazil by way of Washington.

Seminar Groups Will Hear Talk On Solar System

Students participating in the Ulster County Senior Seminar will hear and discuss the subject of Man's Exploration of Space and the Solar System, Saturday, Jan. 27, at 10 a. m. at the State University College at New Paltz.

The seminar will be conducted by Captain Walter F. Ulmer Jr., who is presently assistant professor in the Department of Earth, Space and Graphic Sciences at West Point Military Academy. Due to his excellent presentation on this subject with last year's seminar students, this will be Captain Ulmer's second visit to Ulster county.

Captain Ulmer is a native of Maine, was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point in 1952, and has served in assignments with armor, airborne and amphibious forces in the United States and Far East. During the past three years he has attended graduate courses and professional seminars, toured the space facilities of the National Aeronautical and Space Administration and the Department of Defense, and consulted with U. S. Space program officials in preparation for the organization of a new course at West Point in Descriptive Astronomy and Astronautics which is presented to all cadets during their first year at the academy. He is a member of the American Rocket Society and the American Astronomical Society.

George Fernandez, coordinator of the seminar stated that major topics of this seminar will be Introduction to the Space Age, Earth Satellites and Manned Earth-Orbiting Bases and Manned Exploration of the Moon. Special emphasis will be given to the area of Manned Explorations of the Planets; consideration for interplanetary travel; problems of a manned space vehicle on long duration voyages and future consideration and the possibility of other solar systems.

The senior seminar is a special project of the central schools of Ulster County. It is jointly sponsored by the Board of Cooperative Educational Services of Ulster County and the State University College at New Paltz.

Presently there are approximately 50 students from the central schools of Ellenville, Highland, Marlboro, New Paltz, Onteora, Rondout Valley and Wallkill. The seminar project is under the planning and direction of the secondary principals of these schools.

NYC Asks Strike Bar

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Central Railroad joined the Pennnsylvania Railroad today in seeking court action to bar a strike against the two lines.

The Transport Workers Union said last week it would strike the two carriers Feb. 4 unless assured a proposed merger would not put any TWU member out of a job.

The Central, in federal court action, asked for an injunction forbidding the union from striking or threatening to strike, and for $20 million in damages from the union's strike threat.

Reds Approve Draft

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany's Parliament approved a military draft today without a dissenting vote.

Men between 18 and 26 will be called up for 18 months of training. The defense minister, Gen. Heinz Hoffman, said the draft was introduced "at the demand of the workers" as a shield against Western aggression.

East Germany has so far relied on volunteers for its armed forces. Considerable pressure was applied to youths to make them sign up.

Rowan Gets New Bid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Carl T. Rowan, Negro deputy assistant secretary of state, has been invited to return to Memphis, Tennn., where he was refused service in a restaurant Jan. 20, and be principal speaker at a club dinnner.

In reply Rowan said he appreciated "your expression of regret" but previous commitments would not permit him to accept.

"We deeply regret the recent incident," the Omnibus 100 Club wired Rowan.

AZA Chapter Told Of Teaching Plan

An illustrated talk on Wiltwyck School for Boys highlighted the meeting of the Black-Dubin Chapter of AZA at the Tamud Torah building. M. Lionel Freedman, former chapter advisor and a teacher at Wiltwyck showed a half-hour film and discussed the problems of a young, disturbed boy, at Wiltwyck for the first time. He also explained the methods of teaching and the rehabilitation program at the school.

Following the talk, a question and answer period was held.

The chapter furthered plans for a Monte Carlo Night and a dance in the near future. Two new members were announced, Steve Abelove and Pete Goldfarb.

Driver Accused After Collision

A Port Ewen motorist, Joseph Genther, 26, of 174 Tilden Street will appear before Justice of the Peace Allan S. Dargie Jr., of Esopus tonight as the aftermath of an automobile accident in Port Ewen Tuesday at 8 p. m.

According to Deputy Sheriff Thomas Mayone, a car operated by Genther heading north on Canal Street, sideswiped a car operated by Ralph F. Carpino, 35, of Hoyt Street, Port Ewen, which was headed in the other direction. Both drivers halted, Mayone said, but when Carpino went into a nearby home to call police Genther took off. He was picked up later and was ordered before Justice Dargie tonight at 7 to answer charges of leaving the scene of an accident and being an unlicensed operator.

Intervention Is

could do little in the face of the opposition from Brazil, Mexico, Argentina and Chile to stiff penalties.

A joint proposal to isolate the Castro government from OAS activities was reported worked out early today after a three-hour conference of the foreign undersecretaries of Argentina, Brazil, Mexico, Chile, Ecuador, Bolivia and Haiti, a group which has come to be known here as the "outer seven."

The proposal was to be submitted today to the seven nations' foreign ministers and then to the Central American delegations for their concurrence before its introduction before the conference.

Differences Resolved

A Chilean spokesman reported all differences within the outer seven had been resolved but declined to give details. It was understood the proposal would draw a difference between the Cuban government and Cuba as a nation because Brazil and some other nations contend Cuba is still geographically in the American family and cannot be read out of the organization.

Few if any delegates looked for any change in Cuban policies as a result of the conference's action, and Cuban delegates scoffed at the idea of the Havana regime being shelved in the OAS.

"We just do not care about that trash," said a member of Castro's delegation.

Any Action Victory

Any action taken by the conference unanimously is certain to be hailed publicy as a signal victory for the anti-Communist cause. The argument was heard that even holding such a meeting on Cuban subversion would have been politically too risky six months ago, before the Alliance for Progress program was adopted and before Castro publicly embraced Marxism-Leninism.

Privately many observers wonder whether the United States will emerge with a result which could prove worse than nothing.

Cuba already has been excluded from the OAS Defense Committee and deliberations of any other sensitivie OAS body. U.S. sources say the proposed quarantine will not exclude the Castro regime from such humanitarian activities as hemispheric health and sanitation consultations. Therefore, while on the record Cuba may be eliminated from OAS bodies, actually nothing will happen which was not the case before.

Observers speculate that the whole business could boomerang by giving the Castro regime excuse to heap ridicule on the OAS as now constituted and to point out that the Inter-American alliance has been powerless to take any action with teeth in it against the Communist government of Havana.

Produces Violence

The conference continued to produce public violence at various Latin-American points.

Sixty-five miles from this Atlantic beach resort and its diplomatic visitors, thousands of pro-Castro demonstrators marched through the main street of Montevideo shouting "Cuba si! Yankees non!" The demonstration apparently was linked to a meeting of Latin-American leftist leaders set to open in the Uruguayan capital today.

In Venezuela, a country that has broken with Cuba, the toll from two days of clashes in Caracas climbed to 13 dead and more than 30 wounded.

An authoritative source said Defense Minister Gen. Jose Antonio Briceno Linares had called on marine and parachute units to reinforce troops and police who fought pitched battles with snipers and machine gunners in Caracas Tuesday. Army patrols were ordered into Caracas after a bomb blew out a section of the front wall of the U.S. Embassy Monday.

Bombs in Caracas

More bombs exploded in scattered sections of Caracas and eight buses were reported burned. More than 200 persons were believed under arrest.

The clashes accompanied a nationwide railway strike called in defiance of President Romulo Betancourt's anti-Castro government.

In Maracaibo, Venezuela, American evangelist Billy Graham was hustled out the back door of the state legislative hall after a crowd shouting "Yankee non! Castro si!" pounded on the front door during a speech he was making to the assembly. Graham later preached to a crowd of 4,000 at a baseball park without interference.

A fire in the apartment of Nicholas Krause, 303 Hasbrouck Avenue, damaged an area between a kitchen range and a cabinet this morning. It was quenched by Andrew Schrader, of Griffin Drive, a plumber who was in the area, but a unit from Central Station answered a call at 9:50 a. m. and firemen inspected the fire area.

Wilson Reviews County Measures With Rockefeller

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson (R), of Woodstock and Governor Rockefeller yesterday exchanged views on State and County matters at a breakfast for key legislators at the Executice Mansion in Albany.

Assemblyman Wilson stated that there was a frank and clear interchange of opinions between the chief executive and himself.

"As a result of such contact and discussion the Governor now has a distinct picture of conditions and matters being acted upon in our county and he has expressed a deep interest in them," Assemblyman Wilson said today.

Rockefeller emphasized to Wilson that on the State level, "the practice of sound government at Albany reduced unemployment below the national levels, achieved 450,000 new private-industry jobs in three years, increased state aid to public schools by $300 million and encouraged constructive social legislation for the needy aged and our senior citizens."

Dem Pleads for Unity

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—Michael Prendergast, embattled Democratic state chairman, says he feels Republican Gov. Rockefeller could not be defeated "at this time" in the state "by the Democratic party because of the shape we are in."

"People have become disillusioned, loyalties have been divided and the organization has deteriorated," Prendergast told reporters Tuesday night after a dinner here in his honor.

He said someone of national prominence might turn back Rockefeller in the latter's bid for re-election "if we pull together in the Democratic party."

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Surprise findings that conflict with popular conceptions about aging and religion and adoption and motherhood figure in the medical news.

Aging and Religion

There is a popular impression that the older persons grow the more religious they become.

To test the validity of this belief, Dr. H. L. Orbach studied the relationship between age, religion and church activity in a cross section of 6,911 adults in the Detroit metropolitan area between the ages of 21 and 84.

His conclusions as reported in the publication Geriatrics:

"But results have shown that there is no adequate proof to substantiate the view that people become more religious as they age. Studies of the relationship between age and religion do not support this common view and suggest that older people's religious behavior is determined by more direct social and cultural factors."

Fertility and Sterility

Another popular assumption is that if a childless woman adopts a baby, she vastly improves her chances of giving birth later.

To test this possibility, Drs. A.L. Banks, R. N. Rutherford and W. A. Coburn of Seattle, Wash., made follow-up studies of 31 infertile couples who were treated at a clinic and later adopted one or more babies.

They reported in the publication Fertility and Sterility that only one woman in the group subsequently gave birth to a child.

They concluded: "The fact that only one pregnancy occurred in this study agrees with the results of other investigations which indicate that the belief that normal dicate that the belief is false."

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Second Chance Is Childs' Opportunity to Prove Self

Soon after we bought our new car our 17-year-old boy wanted to borrow it to drive some friends to an out-of-town football game. He scraped a fender. Last Friday because his father wouldn't lend it to him again, he left the house and spent the weekend at a friend's. This morning at breakfast when he said he was thinking of leaving school and getting a job, he and his father had another quarrel about the car . . . .

ANSWER: It is generally mistaken, I think, to withdraw a privilege from an adolescent child who has once misused it.

A 17-year-old person can look like one. But he is not one. So he is seldom able to manage a new responsibility successfully. He drives our new car for the first time—and scrapes its fender. He gives his first big party—and permits guests to get out of hand. He uses our charge account—and comes home with a bad bargain. When we roar at him "Never again!" we profoundly discourage him. For we are condemning him to a permanent state of incompetence. Shaken by our distrust of his ability to grow and learn from his mistakes, he will become defensive and hostile—and deny his mistake.

If you two people want your boy to learn to use your car responsibly, I suggest you give him another chance to prove that he can.

If you say, "O.K., we'll confide our new car to your care again" he probably will be moved to confide in you. You will learn why and how he scraped its fender. Your son will be so grateful that he not only will be moved to acknowledge it to you but also will earnestly commit himself to its improvement.

At this point, even if you are insured, you might propose that he contribute some money to your car's repair bill. Insurance companies do not pay our car repair bills because they love us but because we pay them premiums. My arithmetic tells me that your boy owes you a contribution to this repair bill, and if I were you, I would ask him for it.

You see, what this column is about is values. If an unscraped car is more vaulable to us than a child's thoughtful acknowledgement of a mistake, it will be namby-pamby nonsense to us. We will maintain that "Never again!" with its condemnation to permanent carelessness—and keep our car unhurt and shining. We will have forfeited, however, a near-man's sober realization of fault that is the essential step toward its correction. We will have forfeited a son's admission, "Yes, it's true. I wasn't watching. I should have kept my eyes on that side road . . . "

Man Is Accused Of Murder Plot

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—A 46-year-old man, accused of offering another man $500 to kill a waitress, was under indictment today on a charge of attempted first-degree murder.

An Oneida County grand jury indicted Frank C. Cicero of Utica Tuesday. He is in the county jail.

Louis Pagani, a special agent from the state attorney general's office, had testified at a preliminary hearing that Cicero had instructed him to kill Mrs. Sophie Moorehead, 47, last Dec. 20. Pagani said he had established contact with Cicero by posing as a gunman from New York City.

Mrs. Moorehead, also of Utica, had testified that she had no idea why anyone wanted her killed. She said she once had lent Cicero money, when he was "in trouble."

Would Protect Against Trading Stamp Failures

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A Republican lawmaker proposed today that trading-stamp companies be licensed in New York State and required to post a bond to protect the housewife from "improper trading-stamp practices."

"There has been no attempt in New York State to protect the public from a trading-stamp company who issues several thousand dollars in trading stamps and then goes out of business," Assemblyman Hayward H. Plumadore, R-Franklin, said in a statement.

He introduced in the Legislature a bill that would require:

1. Trading - stamp companies operating in the state to post a bond equal to 10 per cent of its annual gross business in the state.

2. All such companies to be licensed and pay fees equal to 1 per cent of their bonds.

"It is not the intent of this legislation to prohibit or hamper the use of trading stamps," Plumadore said. "It is the intent...to offer the consumer certain safeguards and protection from improper trading-stamp practices and irresponsible persons who may issue trading stamps without resources to redeem its issued stamps."

To protect stamp-saving housewives from companies that failed to redeem their stamps, Plumadore proposed that housewives be reimbursed from the bond. He also said the housewife should have the option of accepting the stamps at the time of purchase or the value of the stamps in cash.

The Saranac Lake legislator also proposed that the value of the stamps, in cents, mills or fractions, and the month of and year of issue be imprinted on the stamps.

"Trading-stamp companies are 'big business' today," Plumadore said, "and they should be regulated as 'big business' with proper safeguards to the consumer public."

Aligns With Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Grange has aligned itself with President Kennedy's request for wider leeway in negotiating foreign trade agreements, including lower tariffs.

Noting that agriculture depends greatly on sales abroad, the Grange said in a statement "it is obvious that tariff legislation is farm legislation."

Now...the kind of protection for doctor bills you asked for ...much more coverage for only a little more money!

Would you like to increase many of your benefits for doctor bill protection? Would you like important extra benefits you may not have now? Read how this expanded protection can be yours for only a few pennies more a day than the cost of Blue Shield's old $2,500—$4,000 Standard contract!

There's no need to tell you that better health care today is making the cost of being sick or injured go up—and up. You may even be among the Blue Shield members who have asked for a plan to help you keep up with the growing cost of today's surgical and medical advances.

Then here's welcome news! For Blue Shield's "EP" (Expanded Protection) offers just such protection. And this more comprehensive coverage is available to you in a choice of contracts.

For instance, if you now have Blue Shield's old Standard contract, you can increase your benefits for most surgical procedures by moving up to Blue Shield's High Option "EP"—the contract most new subscribers are choosing. You may even become eligible for paid-in-full benefits! And you get seven additional benefits besides! Yet all this extra protection is yours under the High Option "EP" at a small additional cost of only 3¢ a day for individuals—about 8¢ a day for an entire family. Or, for little more, you can have the even higher benefits of the Special Indemnity contract.

How to check your coverage

It's easy to find out if you have this improved, broader coverage. Just ask whoever handles your group—or look at the front page of your Blue Shield contract. Unless it says "$4,000-$6,000 Service Contract" or "Special Indemnity Contract," you're still without this expanded protection that gives you so much more coverage for only a little more money!

More than a million New Yorkers have already chosen this modern "EP" coverage to give their families better protection before—not after—they need a doctor's services. Isn't this the kind of coverage you should have, too? For more details, just write Blue Shield, 2 Park Avenue, New York 16—or phone MU 9-2800. Ask for our new "EP" booklet. If you are a member of a group, be sure to include the name of your company with your inquiry.

Here are a few of the ways "EP" gives you more coverage for your money

Check these examples of higher maximum benefits the High Option "EP" gives you compared to the old Standard Blue Shield contract:

- Higher Allowances—as much as 100% more in some instances—for most surgical operations, with paid-in-full "service benefits" for those who qualify.
- 75% to 100% increases in daily allowances for medical care by doctor while in hospital—up to a maximum of $895, a total increase of as much as $443.
- 50% to 66⅔% increases in allowances for radiation and electro-shock therapy, in or out of the hospital.
- New general anesthesia benefits—from $20 to $100—equal to 20% of allowance for surgical or maternity care specified in contract.
- Up to 40% higher allowances for maternity care in cases of Caesarean Section, Ectopic Pregnancy and Miscarriage. (Maternity care allowances not available to Non-Group members.)

Plus these 7 Extra "EP" Benefits

Community rated "EP" subscribers are entitled to allowances for these additional types of care:

1. In-hospital medical care for premature infants.
2. In-hospital medical care for pulmonary tuberculosis.
3. In-hospital medical care for mental and nervous conditions.
4. Higher allowances for specialist consultation.
5. Radiation therapy for benign—as well as for malignant conditions.
6. Higher allowances for 15 types of serious illnesses.
7. Diagnostic X-Ray examinations. (Offered on a 1-year experimental basis.)

But Asks for Better Relations

Soviet Claims Single Blow Could Ruin U.S.

MOSCOW (AP)—Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky asserted today Soviet rockets could blast all U.S. "industrial and administrative-political centers" into the heavens in a single blow. He also called for better U.S.-Soviet relations.

Malinovsky coupled hard words with soft in an interview with the Communist party paper Pravda in which he sharply assailed U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Malinovsky said McNamara's declaration before the Senate Armed Services Committee that the United States is capable of destroying selected Soviet targets was boastful and was "directed not at the improvement of relations between the Soviet Union and the United States, but at inciting passions of war hysteria, and in the final analysis stepping up the arms race. And the arms race has always been the road that led mankind to war."

Malinovsky charged that secretary McNamara and other U.S. administration officials are whipping up war hysteria because they hope that corporations for which they once worked will make great profits.

He said Rockefeller has been "exploiting unscrupulously the peoples' fears" with a campaign for the construction of nuclear shelters.

"Tremendous sums are spent on this which are transferred from the pockets of taxpayers into the safes of monopolies engaged in this profitable business," Malinovsky said. "But every sober minded person realizes that shelters against atom and hydrogen bombs are nothing but a coffin, a grave prepared in advance."

Carlino Is Tied

original owner, to Edgerton Associates, a 'dummy' corporation.

"Louis A. Friedman, Carlino's law partner, was vice president of the corporation which immediately resold the property to a syndicate. Less than a month later, Carlino represented the syndicate in a rezoning case."

The Post quoted Mrs. Roland Berch of Cedarhurst, described as an influential Republican civic leader and conservationist, as saying "Mr. Carlino's role as attorney for the syndicate and the death of the legislative measure seemed to be a clear case of conflict of interest. While we naturally assumed he was interested in saving the land for a park, he was representing the interests of the developer."

Changed Twice in Day

The Post said the land changed hands twice on the same day. The first sale, the paper said, was to Edgerton Associates and the second to the syndicate that later sold the land to a firm of real estate developers.

The amount paid by the syndicate was not indicated on the deed, the newspaper said, adding that Nassau County clerk's office experts termed the omission "unusual."

The Post said that "county clerk's records show the land was sold to the Edgerton firm, of 52 E. Park Ave., Long Beach," and that Edgerton has "the same address as Carlino's office."

The Post account said further:

"The legislation which would have permitted a referendum to designate the syndicate's property as park area came to Carlino's attention in March 1957 at the time he represented the syndicate in a zoning case in Hempstead."

Army Boss Notes Tough Spot, May Have to Fight

BOSTON (AP) — Army Secretary Elvis J. Stahr Jr., told a Boston audience today "we must all face up to the fact that we're in a tough spot, and before we work our way out of it, we may have to fight; and if we do, somebody will get hurt."

He was addressing a joint meeting of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce and the Association of the United States Army.

"It's up to us to see that the United States and its friends, and generations yet unborn, aren't the ones who suffer fatal consequences," he said.

All areas of the city are dealt with in Raymond & May's Comprehensive Development Plan" or master plan, which was delivered to former Mayor Edwin F. Radel and members of the Common Council last October.

Parking Vital Factor

The report on uptown, in part, indicated a definite feeling among merchants that long-term, off-street parking must be provided, and it noted that means exist to provide it.

A majority in the area, it noted "were in favor of a landscaped shopping mall, if ample off-street parking were provided. They felt it would attract more people to the area. Some were not certain, but none expressed objections to a mall." The report also noted that "Improvement of the merchant's lot behind North Front Street would help a good deal as it would make available more space for short-term parking."

The city last year obtained $94,250 toward getting the downtown project known as "Broadway East" started. It is planned to rehabilitate an area between lower Broadway and Hasbrouck Avenue part of which has been cleared in conjunction with the Colonial Gardens housing project.

Mayor Schwenk, who recently discussed urban renewal with officials in New York, last week named Ward B. Tongue the city's urban renewal director.

Kennedy has put his stakes on a split of the Socialist camp," the editorial said. "He and his ilk gloated over the dark clouds that temporarily overcast the Socialist camp; they openly indicated that the prospects were more encouraging than previously to the Western world."

Argue Over Control

What intrigued the government experts was the admission that "dark clouds temporarily overcast the Socialist camp." Just how dark they are is something that even the best informed men in the U.S. government are unsure of.

But the tendency in official quarters here is to discourage any hope of any real weakening in the Communist bloc or any early gain for the rest of the world from the dispute.

The reason is that Moscow and Peiping are really arguing about the best way to try to bring the rest of the world under control.

reservations, the Education Department felt the general approach taken by the committee staff would "provide an excellent foundation upon which the state could build a financial program adequate to the educational needs of our times."

Today's session by the committee was on the staff report. More than 40 school officials from Central and Western New York and representatives of various education groups were on the list of speakers.

Many of the views prepared for submission at the hearing coincided with those the committee heard at a session last week in Albany —the $500 limit should be raised, more attention should be given unique problems of big cities and new guides, in addition to property values, should be found for measuring the ability of a school district to meet its own educational needs.

The committee will meet in closed session to weigh the various views and adopt its final recommendations. No date has been set for this meeting.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to backslide in quiet trading early this morning.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .60 at 253.50 with industrials down 190, rails up .10, and utilities off .30.

Losses of most key stocks went from fractions to about a point while more volatile or higher priced issues declined considerably more.

Du Pont and General Motors showed only minor reaction to the Senate's adoption of a bill to soften the tax consequences of the court-ordered distribution of 63 million shares of GM stock owned by Du Pont.

American and Eastern Airlines declined on news that directors had approved a plan to merge the two systems.

Steels, utilities, aerospace issues, tobacco and chemicals were among the losers.

Rails were steady on balance, showing a narrowly mixed pattern. Motors also were mixed but Ford was down more than a point. Chrysler and General Motors were fractionally higher. Du Pont was off a fraction.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 5.95 at 692.59.

Two Men Escape Crash Injuries

A two-car accident near Mirror Lake Lodge on Route 9W in Esopus Tuesday at 4:10 p. m. caused minor damage to both vehicles, the sheriff's department reported today.

According to Deputy Sheriff Frank Neri Jr. a car operated by Thomas J. Gaffney, 19, of Tuckers Corners Road, Highland, turned out to pass a truck operated by Bobby F. Murray, 30, of Anniston, Alabama, just as the truck turned out to pass a car in front of it. The Gaffney vehicle and the truck were involved in a collision, causing damage to the rear fenders of both vehicles.

Vets Are Advised On Exemptions For Tax Purposes

Veterans of the armed forces were reminded today by Charles L. Culver, N.Y.S. veteran counselor, NYS Division of Veterans' Affairs and John B. Tyler, director, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, that in order to take advantage of the State law granting tax exemption for real property purchased with eligible funds, they would do well to establish the amount of their exemption as soon as possible. Veterans who desire to take advantage of this benefit afforded them by New York State must file a "verified" application with the local assessor on or before Grievance Day in the particular locality where the property is located.

The exemption applies to all state, county, city, town and village taxes, but not to school taxes or to levies made by special districts. However, Culver and Tyler pointed out that there are various restrictions and limitations to the amount a veteran can claim as exempt and to the type of funds which are eligible for application to the exemption.

Unless the veteran has already established the amount of exemption to which he is entitled, he should contact Charles Culver, of the NYS Division of Veterans' Affairs Office or John Tyler, director of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 32 Main Street, Kingston, as soon as possible in order to check eligibility, procedure, and limitations under the law.

Hudson River Tow Traffic on Upgrade

More Barges on Order to Meet Aggregate, Cement Output

Heavy area production of lightweight aggregate and cement in the near future is due to boost Hudson River tow traffic, it was learned today, and many new steel barges are being built or are on schedule for construction to transport the output.

One of the larger craft, "Feeney No. 1" now being built by the Reliance Marine Transportation & Construction Corp., 615 Abeel Street, is due to be launched Feb. 2 and seven or eight more are to be built by summer, Thomas J. Feeney, president of the corporation, revealed today.

A spokesman for the Callanan Road Improvement Co. of South Rondout and South Bethlehem, also reported today the construction of five steel barges under construction at Port Deposit, Md., for the hauling of the company's stone output and other products, including lightweight aggregate. Due to be delivered in New York by March 15, they are being built by the Wiley Manufacturing Co.

The Feeney No. 1 is one of the larger boats of its type ever built. It will be 140 feet long, 43 feet wide, and will have a hauling capacity of 1,750 tons. Most barges of the type are some 120 feet long and from 36 to 38 feet wide with a hauling capacity of some 1,400 tons. The capacity of the Callanan barges was reported at 1,300 tons.

The Atlantic Cement Co. in the Ravena area recently reported use of the larger type barge.

Lightweight aggregate is being produced or is due to be produced in plants in the Kingston and Saugerties areas and further up the Hudson. Expansion of cement production is also planned for upper Hudson Valley plants.

The $2,000,000 Nytralite plant in the Eddyville area is due to be ready for production within weeks.

The time of deliberation of a city court jury was inadvertently reported as 10 minutes Tuesday. The jury was out for more than two hours, having retired at 3:05 and returned at 5:10 p. m. It came back at 4:30 p. m. for instructions.

The defendant was arrested last Nov. 22 on Broadway near Adams Street. She chose to pay the fine after sentence today.

Attorney Elmor Nathan appeared for the defendant and Ward Ingalsbe for the district attorney's office.

Graham Eludes Pro-Cuban Mob

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP) —Evangelist Billy Graham spoke to a crowd of 4,0000 at a baseball park here Tuesday night after ducking out the back door of a hall to avoid a pro-Cuban mob.

Graham was spirited out of the state legislative hall by local officials when his speech to them was interrupted by a crowd banging on the front door and chanting.

Several legislators said they thought the crowd was out to overthrow the local government, not to get Graham.

Elements favorable to Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro in Caracas, the Venezuelan capital, have been rioting daily since the start of the Punta del Este, Uruguay, conference.

Graham is making a tour of five Latin-American countries.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Buying Land No Sure Thing, Involves Risk

Q) "We are a 27-year old couple wih a 3-year old son. My husband and I know little about investing. We are now considering buying land, being almost certain that investments in land don't involve much risk. An advertisement offering tracts of unimproved land in Florida prompted us into thinking along these lines. We doubt if we'd ever actively use the property ourselves. before we put our name on the dotted line and make payments, we'd like your advice." T.P.

A) Land is one of our basic forms of wealth and can be an excellent way to invest. However, it is certainly no sure thing. Like all other forms of investment, land must be analyzed thoroughly before commitments are made.

You should consider such things as taxes, interest charges, possible assessments, the surrounding property, zoning laws, the distances away from other already established areas, and the reputation and financial strength of the developers involved.

I'd be particularly reluctant to sign for any property before seeing it firsthand.

Buying unimproved land is usually a form of speculation rather than investment. Income may be a long time away, but taxes, interest charges and assessments must still be paid. Your property could turn out to be in a area of heavy demand and skyrocket in value, but it could also lie dormant for years, with its money-making potentials steadily declining.

In short, be extremely careful and be sure you get all the facts first.

Q) "A cousin of mine passed away in the Orient last year and left me 250 shares of McDonnell Aircraft. Is this a good stock?" G. B.

A) I certainly think so. McDonnell Aircraft (NYSE) produces aircraft for the military and is also a big participant in our manned-space program. The company's earnings record has been very good, and I regard the issue as one of the best in its group.

Says Racketeers Being Checked on Stock Market Try

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said today the Justice Department is investigating what he called attempts by "major racketeers" to move into the stock trading business.

He emphasized in an interview that the probe does not involve the over-all operation of any stock exchange and is not connected with a Jan. 6 report by the Securities Exchange Commission charging abuses by officials of the American Stock Exchange.

"There have been some efforts by major racketeers to get into the stock field," Kennedy said.

"Now, I'm not saying that stock exchanges are controlled by racketeers," he added.

He did say crime figures have branched out into stock dealing, in keeping with their pattern of investing in legitimate businesses with money obtained from gambling and other illegal enterprises.

Kennedy did not detail the illegal nature of any stock market activity by underworld elements. Other Justice Department sources said, however, it sometimes involved the manipulation of stock prices.

One department official said the operations were in line with "ganster infiltration of real estate, vending machines, night clubs, beer distributorships, produce, trucking, hotels and motels, manufacturing and construction businesses."

Kennedy said his department had been checking on the move into the stock field for some time.

"But I think it's become more pronounced in the last several years," he said. "It's not a matter that has swept the country. It does exist in several cities."

Phone Service At Clintondale Back to Normal

Service to some 600 telephone users in the Clintondale area was back to normal today after being disrupted for about 12 hours Tuesday as the result of an early morning house fire.

Flames, which destroyed an old vacant building, burned out telephone cables and cut service between Clintondale and Highland and Clintondale and New Paltz, as well as disrupting toll service between Clintondale and Poughkeepsie.

Two line crews, five cable repairmen and four installation repairmen worked hurriedly throughout Tuesday to return service in the area to normal by 7 p. m.

TWU to Fight Airline Merger

NEW YORK (AP)—A plan to combine American Airlines and Eastern Airlines into the nation's biggest air carrier was barely off the ground today when storm clouds began to gather.

The Transport Workers Union, which has threatened a strike Feb. 4 in protest against the proposed Pennsylvania-New York Central railroads merger, indicated it also would fight the airlines plan.

Matthew Guinan, a deputy to union President Michael J. Quill, and James F. Horst, head of the TWU Airline Division, called a news conference a spokesman said is "not to applaud" the proposal.

The TWU represents several hundred mechanics and maintenance workers of American across the country, including those at Tulsa, Okla., where American maintains a huge overhaul and repair base.

The union word followed quick criticism from a rival carrier, Trans World Airlines, and also came before expected objections from other carriers.

American Airlines opened on the New York Stock Exchange today at $23.62, off 25 cents, and later widened the loss to nearly $1. Eastern was up 12 cents at $27.50 at the start, but soon fell into the minus column.

The surviving system, with annual revenues of well over $700 million, would be the country's fourth largest transportation enterprise, topped only by the Pennsylvania, New York Central and Southern Pacific railroads.

Claims Hospital Understaffed at Time of Deaths

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The director of a state hospital for epileptics says the institution was in an understaffed condition last September when five young patients perished in a heat tunnel.

Dr. Vincent I. Bonafede of the Craig Colony at nearby Sonyea said Tuesday that 22 of the 44 employes assigned to the west wing of the hospital were on duty on the day of the tragedy. He said the ideal force for the wing was 60 employes. Half of the workers were on leave or days off, he said.

The director was a witness in a Court of Claims case in which the state is being sued by the victim's survivors for $307,740. The survivors claim negligence and lack of supervision led to the deaths.

The five boys disappeared Sept. 7, 1960 and their bodies were found two days later in the heat tunnel.

Boys Not Found, Workers to Try New Mine Probes

CLEARFIELD, Pa. (AP)—Workers began new exploratory probes today at an abandoned clay mine as days of excavation work failed to find two boys presumed trapped by a cave-in.

Larry Husted, 10, and Wesley Lowe, 13, have been missing since Jan. 14 when they were last seen entering the old mine where they had a secret clubhouse.

Special equipment designed to lower cameras into probe-holes was being brought to the mine from the Birdwell Division of the Seismograph Service Corp. of Bradford. It was hoped that photographs taken deep inside the probe-holes would help map the tunnels and terrain.

Progress Noted In Park Program

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state's $75-million program to expand parks and recreation areas made rapid strides last year, the Conservation Department reports.

Commissioner Harold G. Wilm said Tuesday that $20 million set aside to acquire additional land for state parks had been completely committed.

In addition, he said, agreements were made last year to acquire campsites, fishing rights, boat - launching sites, hunting areas and other recreation areas. An allocation of $15 million was made for these phases of the program.

Wilm also said municipalities seeking grants under the program had obligated $30 million of the $40 million available to them.

The program, approved by the voters in 1960, is being financed by a bond issue. The money will be repaid through fees collected from persons using the facilities.

Governor to Hear Plea for Young Slayer Jan. 31st

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller will hear a plea for clemency next Wednesday on behalf of Salvatore Agron, 18, scheduled to die next month in Sing Sing's electric chair for slaying two youths in a Manhattan playground in 1959.

Rockefeller also will hear a plea that same day in behalf of Nathan Jackson, 26, who is to die Feb. 23 for the slaying of a policeman during a 1960 holdup of a hotel in Brooklyn.

The pleas to the governor constitute the last chance of both men for escaping the electric chair.

Agron, 16 at the time of the crime, was among 15 teen-agers who sought revenge on another group. The group with which Agron and his companions clashed, however, was not the group they were seeking.

Agron's execution is set for Feb. 15.

The State Court of Appeals upheld both convictions.

Moderator Named For Presbytery

SCARSDALE, N.Y. (AP)—The Rev. Dr. William J. Wiseman, minister of the White Plains Presbyterian Church, has been elected moderator of the recently organized Presbytery of Hudson River.

He was chosen Tuesday to serve for a year as head of the presbytery, which embraces 113 churches in seven counties north of New York City.

Other officers elected included the Rev. Ellis Gregg of Washingtonville, first vice moderator, and The Rev. Lee Fairfield of Mount Kisco, second vice moderator.

The presbytery was founded by a merger of the Westchester, North River and Hudson presbyteries.

The welfare problems of Newburgh were discussed at the meeting of 150 clergymen and laymen.

They adopted a resolution advocating greater church activity in the social and economic rehabilitation of needy persons. The resolution recommended that more clergymen and church laymen serve on welfare boards.

New Teacher Salary Schedule Is Adopted by Onteora Board

In an effort to attract and retain good teachers, the Onteora Board of Education has adopted a new salary schedule beginning at $5100 for teachers with Bachelor's Degrees.

In adopting the new schedule at the board's January meeting, members were unanimous in their belief that good teachers are the basic ingredient for good education.

The schedule was created for the two year period ending June 30, 1964, and is a culmination of three months or combined faculty, administration and Board of Education study.

As a basis for this study, the first step was to determine the basic objectives the salary schedule aimed to a accomplish. It was agreed that the salary schedule should encompass the following factors:

1) be based on the number of years of professional experience with full credit for educational preparation and for prior teaching experience in the same field for whicl a teacher is hired.

2) provide a salary that would enable this district to compete favorably with those schools that traditionally attract the better teachers and also provide a salary that would be an incentive for those teachers already in the system to remain there

3) provide additional financial recognition for all teachers as they are placed on tenure and at periodic times thereafter, it should continue to grant increments after the automatic maximum is reached to all teachers rendering satisfactory service in the judgment of the administration

4) recognize advanced education beyond the Bachelor's Degree with additional compensation for those holding advanced degrees.

5) Recognize by additional compensation and/or reduction of teaching assignments the fulfillment of special duties which require more than a reasonable amount of time beyond an annually defined "basic teaching load."

6) Should be developed cooperatively by teachers, administrators and school board members.

7) Permit no discrimination as to grade, grade level, subject taught, creed, race, sex, marital status, or number of dependents.

8) Provide separate pay formulas for substitutes part-time teachers, home teachers, and adult education teachers.

Helps New Teachers

Teachers with experience also profit from the new salary program, the Board of Education pointed out. For example, a teacher with 4 years college preparation can advance with $200 annual increments to $7700 over a period of 14 years, if service to the district is satisfactory. The range for teachers with a Master's Degree for the same 14 year period is from $5600 to $8200 with $200 annual increments, if service is satisfactory.

All major districts in the state are obliged to conform to the mandated minimum salary law established by New York State legislation which requires that fully certified teachers with a Bachelor's Degree receive at least a minimum salary of $4200 and must be automatically advanced by $200 annual increments to $6200. The state also places the minimum teacher's salary for the Master's Degree at $4500 extending to $6500 and the minimum salary for teachers with Bachelor's plus 30 hours to $4800 extending automatically to $6800.

During preliminary study by the board of education, it was discovered that the Onteora district was 23rd out of 32 schools in the Mid-Hudson area in the amount of money paid as a beginning salary to teachers. In addition, it was 13th of the same 32 schools in payment of maximum salaries. The average minimum salary for Bachelor's Degrees in the 32 schools during 1961-62 school year was $4641 and the average maximum for the same schools was $7760.

Best Play Will Lose

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Here is another hand from the Houston tryouts. South's seven-diamond contract is a good one and can be made, but no one did make it. The reason is that the best play loses.

This is it. Win the club opening in your own hand. Lead a spade to the ace, ruff a spade low, lead a diamond to the queen, ruff a spade high.

At this point if spades had broken four-three, dummy's spades would have been good and you would simply draw trumps and make your contract. But spades broke five-two and you have to draw trumps and eventually try the heart finesse which would not have worked.

The play that wins is decidedly inferior if you aren't looking at all the cards. You win the club in your own hand and go after the hearts by playing the ace and ruffing one. Return to your hand with a club, ruff another heart, get back to your hand by playing the ace of spades and ruffing a spade; ruff another heart with the ace of diamonds, overtake the queen of diamonds with your king, cash the jack of diamonds dropping West's ten while you discard a spade from dummy, cash your nine of diamonds and discard dummy's last spade and make the last two tricks with dummy's ace of clubs and king of spades.

Long commercials may yet drive people back to the good old days of wondering what to do all evening.

At meal time a husband doesn't worry as much about what he stands for as what he sits down to.

The real trouble with some folks is the long list of troubles they're always telling their friends.

Some Reminders While You Drive

In my auto, the meter read,
As I stepped on the gas, I said,
Forty five miles is quite a speed,
"Highways are happy ways," indeed.
And as I travelled on this day,
I drove along on a highway,
Now fifty-five, and all alone.
I felt like "Heaven was my home."
At sixty-five, I'm going good,
And for seventy-five, if I could,
Now I hear, directed at me,
The song, "I hear you calling me."
At seventy-five, came loud and clear,
The music seemed so very near.
The old refrain, so dear to me,
The song, "Nearer my God to Thee."
I don't know what came over me,
I tried for eighty-five, you see,
No longer do I care to roam,
So sing to me, "I'm coming home."

* * *

Schmoe—A sponge.

Merchants Young Son (looking up from his newspaper) — Papa, it talks here about scientific salesmanship — what does that mean?

Papa—That could be defined many ways, my son, but what it really means is selling a dress suit with all the trimmings to a man who came in for a pair of work gloves.

Assuming they were ready to take off, a perky stewardess on a commercial airlines plane in Memphis, Tenn., glanced into the pilot's cabin, then ran red-faced to the entrance door which she had just closed, leaving the pilot outside and all the passengers carefully locked in.

Little Bobby was sitting with his mother in church during the wedding of her eldest daughter. Halfway through the service, he observed his mother crying.

Little Bobby — Why are you crying, mama? I's not your wedding.

Uncle Amos Tash finally decided that his birthstone was a grindstone.

NEW YORK (AP) — Imports rising faster than exports can put the United States $3 billion behind this year in its financial dealings with the rest of the world—the fifth straight annual deficit in its balance of payments.

That's the estimate of more than 40 economists and financial officers of leading U.S. corporations with exporting, importing and international financial dealings.

Could Embarrass JFK

The deficit could further embarrass the administration in its battle to bring such a loss to a halt, ward off any threat of new outflows of U.S. Treasury gold or of new doubts abroad about the strength of the dollar.

The experts—the Balance of Payments Group of the National Foreign Trade Council—say the $3-billion deficit could be brought down if advance payments on military contracts are made by Germany and possibly other nations. This could hold the deficit to around $2.5 billion, roughly the same as is estimated for 1961. Such advance payments helped hold the 1961 deficit down.

The worry over a continuing deficit of any magnitude comes from the 1960 experience when a $3.9-billion deficit set off a $1.7-billion loss of gold. This and fear of dollar devaluation sent the price of that metal from its official $35 an ounce to a brief $40.60 on the London free market late in October 1960.

Brought on Action

It caused both the outgoing Dwight D. Eisenhower and incoming President Kennedy administrations to take measures to halt the outflow and trim the deficit. They sought to boost exports, cut spending abroad, and raise interest rates here high enough to keep short-term money here—in 1960 some $2 billion of this went overseas to get higher returns.

International payments get out of balance when the outflow of dollars for imports, foreign aid, military committments, investments, travel and the like exceeds the return flow of dollars for our exports and returns on investments.

In the first three quarters of 1961 the over-all deficit had been cut to an annual rate of $1.5 billion. But rising imports toward the end of the year and overseas movements of short term capital sent the deficit up again.

The Council's Balance of Payment Group estimates that imports in 1962—helped by increasing business activity here—will rise to $16.3 billion, compared with $14.5 billion last year and the previous record of $15.2 billion in 1959.

The group looks for commercial exports to rise to $20.5 billion from the 1961 record of $19.9 billion. While this trade will leave the United States with a surplus, it won't be enough to offset the other outlays of dollars abroad.

Medical Training Course Scheduled In Albany March 5

New horizons in voluntary health work demand new skills for staff members of national, state and local tuberculosis associations, president Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr. of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, Inc. said this week in announcing local participation in a medical training course.

He said that Miss Hazel M. Steed, RN, executive director of the association, will attend a three-day session on "Medical Background for Respiratory Diseases" at Albany, starting March 5.

"As we in Ulster County move into the area of respiratory diseases including TB," Dr. Holcomb said, "it is imperative that our health workers know as much about this field as they do about TB.

"Since respiratory disease involves the family doctor to a far greater degree than does TB," he continued, "we must increasingly acquaint ourselves with his problems, much as we have with public health physicians in TB-control. The institue will cover basic medical terminology, the anatomy and physiology of the circulatory and respiratory systems, the causation of disease, and an introduction to diagnostic and therapeutic possibilities."

The training program will be conducted by Dr. Eric R. Osterberg and Dr. Albert J. Beckmann of the Columbia University School of Public Health and Administrative Medicine. In addition, George R. Williams, chief of the respiratory disease program of the National Tuberculosis Association, will relate the medical material to activities being developed in the field of lung-disabling illnesses.

The regional training course is one of four being conducted throughout the state, initiated by the New York State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health in cooperation with Columbia University's program of continuation education in public health and the National Tuberculosis Association.

The first session was held in New York City in January. Following the Albany meeting, there will be similar presentations in Elmira April 25, 26, 27 and Rochester May 9, 10, 11.

Ulster County TB and Health Association is a voluntary organization supported by the Christmas Seals Campaign. It is affiliated with the state committee and the National Tuberculosis Association.

Syria has a population of about 4,500,000 spread over 72,000 square miles. Egypt has about six times the people and more than five times the land.

Newly Organized Episcopal Men Elect Officers

The first meeting of the newly organized Episcopal Men's Club of St. John's Church, Albany Avenue, was held Thursday with Charles Arnold, deputy director of civil defense as speaker.

Arnold discussed the history of civil defense, structure and purpose in the county and the reason for having fallout shelters.

Officers elected at the business session were Harry Kapreilian, president; Harold Liberty, secretary, and Frank Northcutt, treasurer.

Plans were made for the next meeting, Thursday, Feb. 17, at 7:30 p. m. at the church hall. The club also plans a communion breakfast during the Easter season.

Refreshments were served.

It's later than you think. If you start right now, you'll have barely enough spare time to get garden tools and furniture ready for the outdoor season.

A Passion for Growth

Turns Borrowed $2,500 Into $40-Million Firm

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (ap) — "Success begins at home," said Jeno F. Paulucci, who in 15 years built a borrowed $2,500 into a $40-million food empire.

"No matter how depressed the area you live in may seem, if you look around you can find idle resources you can develop. Growth is possible anywhere."

$400,000 First Year

At 13 he earned $2.50 a week in a grocery store and remembers "sometimes I had to take my pay in spotted fruits and vegetables."

At 17 he became a wholesale grocery salesman, slept in his car at night, ate his own food samples to cut down expenses.

At 27 he borrowed $2,500 to grow beansprouts. His office was a rented quonset hut, and the first year he took in $400,000. This year he expects to gross exactly 100 times that figure — or $40 million.

At 43, Jeno has become far more than America's beansprout king. As president of the Chun King Corp., headquartering in Duluth, Minn., he is the nation's largest manufacturer of American-Oriental foods.

He also packages Italian delicacies. He has a food empire that stretches from Minnesota to Florida. He has six plants, some 1,600 employes, a fleet of 40 trailer trucks. He raises or processes everything from mushrooms to blueberries, wild rice to celery — on more than 700,000 acres.

Must Create Service

He even markets potting soil, sod and moss. He has just started a nationwide chain of Chinese drive-in restaurants.

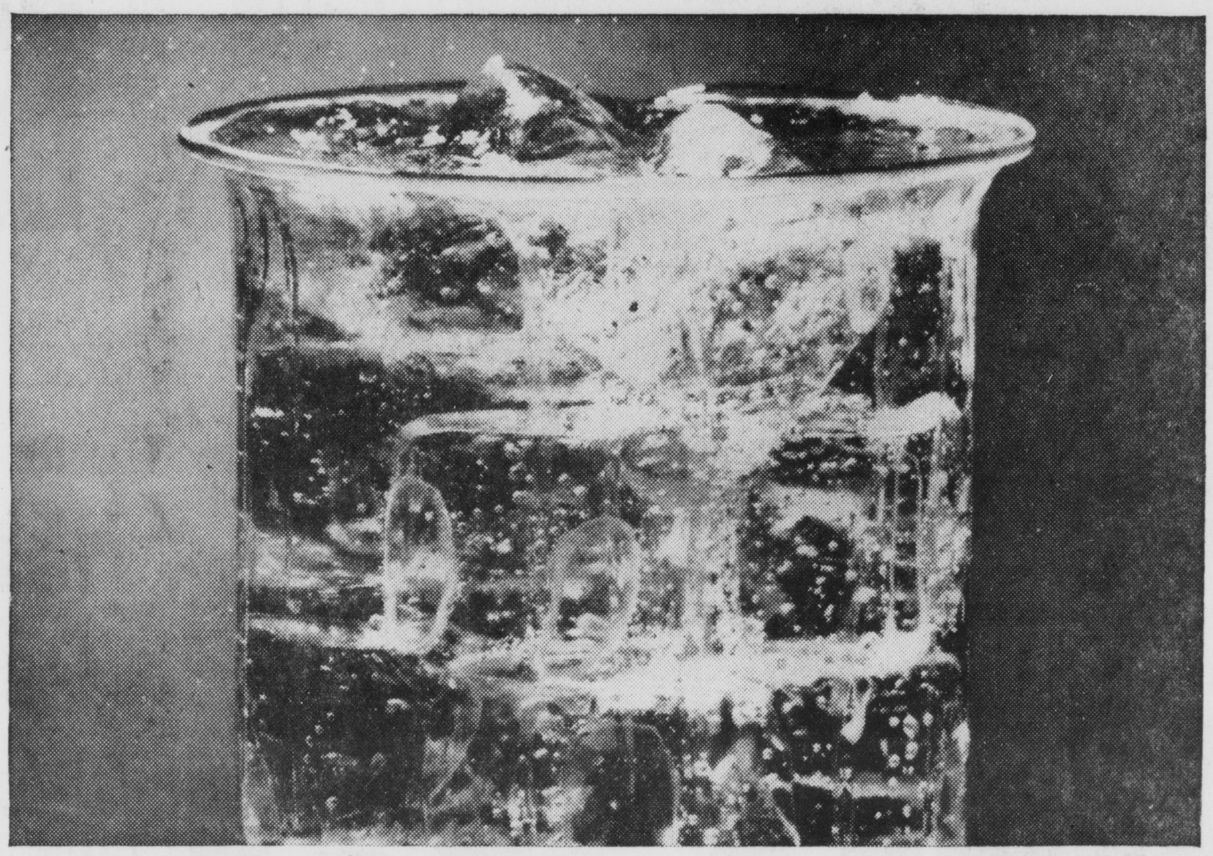

One thing led to another for Paulucci, a slender, blue-eyed man with a passion for growth.

"Just as a farmer must plow something back into his soil, so must a businessman. He must create a service, or make something grow where nothing grew before," he says.

"There is a tremendous satisfaction in building a business against odds in a geographical area where other industries have failed.

"You turn a handicap into an advantage — that's one of the great secrets. It unlocks your mind and makes you alert and creative. Handicaps strengthen your organization."

Butane boils and bubbles even though beaker is filled with ice cubes. It is rapidly turning into vapor—the way boiling water turns into steam. Butane's ability to vaporize at low temperatures helps Super Shell gasoline give you quick starts in cold weather.

One of Super Shell's 9 ingredients can boil on ice. Helps your car start fast for top performance on coldest days.

EVEN in zero weather, a car in good mechanical condition should start in 3 or 4 seconds.

If it doesn't, could be that your gasoline isn't vaporizing fast enough. Winter can have that effect on gasoline.

Shell scientists take care of this problem by including an ingredient called Butane in Super Shell's 9-ingredient formula.

Butane can hardly wait to vaporize. It will even boil on ice and turn to vapor (see picture above). Fast vaporization, fast starts. It's that simple.

Note: in very cold weather, Super Shell gets an extra dose of Butane.

Quick-starting Butane is only one of Super Shell's cold-weather ingredients. There are three in all. Read how the other two can also help you when winter's doing its worst.

Pentane mix—for fast warm-ups

The Pentane mix in Super Shell's winter blend helps speed the "warm-up" process inside your engine. Pentane mix works like kindling in a log fire. It ignites easily—gets everything going faster.

"Anti-icer" fights icing stalls

The third cold-weather ingredient in Super Shell's winter blend is an anti-icer.

Its job is to fight carburetor icing. This phenomenon can lead to sudden stalls when you least expect them.

Shell's "anti-icer" coats vital carburetor parts with a very thin chemical film. This film discourages critical ice buildup and cuts your chances of icing stalls.

How Super Shell's other ingredients help you get top performance

Now you know about three of the nine ingredients in today's Super Shell. Here's how the others help to give your car top performance.

TCP* additive helps restore the power that combustion deposits can take away.

"Cat-cracked" gasoline is for smooth, even power with a purr.

Gum preventive helps keep carburetors clean inside.

Anti-knock mix gives extra resistance to knock.

Platformate is for extra mileage.

P.S. When you drive in for a tankful of Super Shell, ask your Shell dealer to check your anti-freeze. It's a small precaution, but it could save you a lot of trouble.

*Trademark for Shell's unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U.S. Patent 2889212.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The Kingston City Directory—be it the 1858 one loaned to me by O. A. Goodsell of 43 Crane Street or the 1954 one given me by Charles J. Turck, Insurance agents of 110 Prince Street—all show the changes that take place constantly in Kingston.

I just started down on Broadway and Ferry Street in 1954 and see for instance at 6 Broadway Judge J. B. Sterley and Dr. W. B. Dean, dentist, and the Homeseekers' Savings and Loan Association have all moved away. W. S. Skelton's barbershop of 13 Broadway, and S. Kline's ladies clothing store, are gone. Martin's Broadway Market and Charlie Pavlidis of the Broadway Oyster and Chop House, as well as Goldman's dress shop have moved up to Kingston from Rondout.

Packer's Paint Supply of 36 Broadway, Coopers' Confectionery of 40 Broadway, Dr. A. J. Segal, optometrist, Morgan Linen Co. Inc. of 52 Broadway and Singer's Dry Goods store of 60 Broadway are all gone from Rondout. The Coopers are now in Monticello. The Singers are vacationing in Florida; Dr. Segal has his office in his home on Washington Avenue.

North Front Street has had some changes too. Both Mr. Levine, the tailor, of 41 North Front Street and his son, Mike Levine, the jewelry shop are no longer there. The Levine family were on that street for many years. Kantrowitz Sportswear are now in their handsome new building on Wall Street. Hymes men's furnishings and Suntag Drugs were on North Front Street also for many years. The late Sam Marcus, was pharmacist and owner of Suntag's until his death.

Going further up Broadway, no doubt many used to enjoy an ice-cream sundae at D. J. Maroon's at 448 Broadway. They retired several years ago. Samuels and Son's fruit market at 583 Broadway, corner Cedar Street was a popular place which is no longer there. Strauss Auto Supply Corp. was at 594 Broadway in this book, and later went to Albany Avenue and just recently closed. Remus Wholesale Cigars and Candy used to be at 612 Broadway, now is owned and run by Willis Locke on Furnace Street. Willis Locke, is a former fighter pilot of World War II.

I remember when M. Reina, air conditioning, was down in Stock and Cordts building, in Rondout, then later at 616 Broadway. N. Stock's Sons Inc. from their building in Rondout went to 661 Broadway and are now retired. Watrous electrical appliance has been for a number of years in the interesting octagonal shaped building at 693 Broadway where his color scheme is green. He always has a charming flower arrangement all summer long. The Interchange at Albany Avenue brought about many changes indeed, and perhaps some of Mr. Watrous's talent for flowers could be put to use to enhance that triangle. He certainly knows what grows things in this climate of ours.

Now it is going to be interesting to watch the changes which I imagine will take place in the coming few years with our large new shopping centers on the outskirts of town, a new trend is happening all over. One prominent architect said several years ago, that there will be no centralized cities for shopping, only for necessary public buildings. Homes and housing will be connected with big roads and shopping centers. The automobile has certainly changed river travel, train travel, into every family for himself by private car for shopping and pleasure and business. The future of course is a mystery.

Community Notes

The Forest Glen Home Demonstration Unit met at the home of Mrs. Ivan Ostrander Wednesday afternoon with 14 members present. Mrs. Kenneth E. Hasbrouck, chairman, presided. After the routine business, plans were made for a Valentine party at the Ulster County Home and Infirmary, New Paltz. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Frederick Heider will celebrate their wedding anniversary Feb. 1 Mrs. Heider, who is president of the Gardiner Fire Department Auxiliary, will celebrate her birthday on the same date.

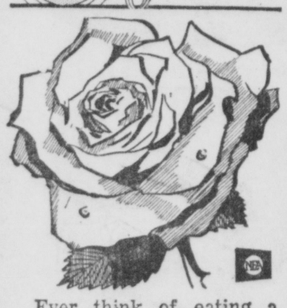

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nitsch Sr., visited his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nitsch of Yonkers last week.

Miss Henrietta Lyons of Jersey City, was a weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. James George.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Schiro and son Donald, of New Paltz, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Clinton Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Soules and family of Poughkeepsie, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Soules' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy.

matter of fact

Ever think of eating a rose? Hundreds of people send roses to their favorite people, but how many have thought of eating them? Well, rose petals are used quite often in cooking; particularly, in making confections and flavoring desserts.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The television show that Ernie Kovacs put together and taped a few weeks before his death on Jan. 13 was shown by ABC Tuesday night. Happily, it contained a typical and wide assortment of the things that Ernie—and most of the rest of us—thought were funny.

There were the wordless, short sight gags—the beautiful lady of the harem who drops her veil to reveal a Vandyke beard; the house of cards that drops through the concrete foundation as the last pasteboard is put in place; an art restorer working on Lincoln's twitching nose at Mt. Rushmore, to mention a few.

There were fine sketches demolishing phony avant garde poetry, painting and sculpture done in "Person-to-Person" style. In the first, Kovacs, playing the interviewer, conducted an arty interview with a poet who was persuaded to read his new epic, "Dearth:"

"Dearth, dearth, dwack
"Oh, sheaves of weed the wind"
"There's a lot of truth in that," said Kovacs in reverent tones.

It was adroit, imaginative nonsense. The sponsor omitted the commercials, and at the end an announcer quoted the clergyman at Kovacs' funeral, "We loved this man. He gave happiness, joy and gaiety to the world." And he did, including Tuesday night.

Hugh O'Brian, who after all those successful years playing a bold, intrepid Western lawman in "Wyatt Earp" has managed to pull out of the type-casting rut, so feared by performers, in jig-time. This fall he starred in a Broadway play, a family drama, and now he will play the hero in an upcoming NBC "Theatre '62," adaptation of "Spellbound," a role about as far away from a quick-draw cowtown marshal as an actor can get.

Although TV inherited a number of radio's habits and devices, including its rigid method of splitting the hour into 15-minute, half-hour and one-hour shows, it has developed its very own conventions in dealing with weather reports.

Where radio usually handles climate conditions adequately with a brisk sentence or two at the end of its news reports, TV has developed special weather shows and they last a full five minutes.

What most of us want to hear can be delivered in split seconds: what is it doing now and what will it be like tomorrow?

But TV has gussied up weather reports with charts, chalk-talks, pretty girls, selections from almanacs and reminders of important dates in history, discussions of high pressure systems moving down and low pressure systems moving up and a sampling of temperature highs and lows all over the country.

Why? So the station can sell a five-minute weather show package to sponsors, that's why.

Rocky Is Silent On How Far He'll Go for Carlino

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller took a guarded position today on the extent of the role he will play in next week's public hearing on the conflict-of-interest charge against Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino.

Carlino, who has been a close political ally of Rockefeller's, is accused of a conflict of interest in the Rockefeller school-fallout shelter program passed at a special session of the Legislature last November.

When the bill was passed, Carlino was a director of a firm manufacturing shelters.

Assemblyman Donald A. Campbell, R-Amsterdam, chairman of the Assembly Committee on Ethics, announced Tuesday that Rockefeller had requested an opportunity "to present a statement to the committee on the evolution and development of the state's civil defense program and fallout-shelter legislation."

The governor's office said later Rockefeller would make a statement to the committee and "it will be public."

But the governor's office turned away all other questions.

A newspaper had reported that the governor would appear personally in defense of Carlino at the hearing, which opens in the Senate Chamber Feb. 1.

In any case, the wording of the announcement from the Ethics Committee indicated that Rockefeller's statement would be limited to how the fallout-shelter legislation was drawn and would not deal with the alleged conflict of interest.

Assemblyman Mark Lane, D-Manhattan, who brought the the charge against Carlino, has said a fallout shelter firm with which Carlino was associated had advance knowledge of the shelter legislation.

Carlino and firm officials have denied this.

The bill provided $100 million in state assistance for construction of fallout shelters by schools, colleges and universities.

Ice Cream Colors, Easy Going Tweeds Are Spring Offering

By GABRIELLE SMITH

PARIS (AP) — Guy Laroche rang in this third day of spring and summmer Paris fashion openings with an eminently wearable collection that had its luscious moments as well.

Completely wearable were the tweed suits with small jackets, easy skirts that rose a bit above the waist in front and cowl-necked silk blouses.

Lusciousness came in with crepe dresses in sherbet colors you could eat, glimmering many-rowed colored necklaces and bell-bottomed shantung trousers, to wear at home of course.

The suits tend to be straight backed and very light looking. Some have "V" necks filled in with triangular masses of beads, or splashes of color in a bias collar that falls in a fold to look like a scarf. Coats are smooth, simple and almost straight. One navy blue model repeated the cowl-necked effect in its lapels.

Striking was an orange coat over an apricot silk dress with a bloused back. With it was worn a matching bowler hat tipped on the back of the head. The whole effect was lighter than gauze.

Color harmonies were one of Laroche's highlights. An orange transparent organza coat over a baby pink dress, the whole topped with a pink and apricot straw hat, looked like something you could order at the soda fountain.

EASTERN STAR INSTALLATION—Kingston Chapter No. 155, Order of the Eastern Star, gave a reception for their Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron on Friday, Jan. 19. Identified at press time were the following: front row (l-r) Marion Radcliff, associate conductress; Robert Green, associate patron; Shirley Pendell, Worthy Matron; Arthur Aldrich, Worthy Patron; Elsa Rockefeller, associate matron, and Alma Clark, conductress. Second row (l-r) Charlotte Teetsel, color bearer; Kathryn Barnum, chaplain; Beatrice Strobel, treasurer; Christina Wilson, secretary; Sadie Feldman, trustee; and Georgiana Brown, sentinel. Others include Pansy Hudler, musician; Jean Johnston, Adah; Mary Greene, marshal; Mary Diehl, historian; Anna Marie Dittus, Ruth; June LaConture, Esther; Florence Nettleton, trustee; and Anna Hartman, assistant marshal. NAACP Representatives Are Guest Speakers At YWCA Public Affairs Group Open Meeting

Two representatives of NAACP were guest speakers at the YWCA Public Affairs Committee open meeting Monday night at the YWCA.

Everette Hodge, president of the local chapter, and Carl Roach spoke about the aims of the national organization and its methods of working through the courts of the land for the rights of the Negro. Since its inception, the NAACP has brought 37 cases up through the courts to the U. S. Supreme Court, 36 decisions favorable.

Prior to the organization's founding, lynchings averaged 200 per year. Today lynching is practically stamped out.

Locally the Ulster County Chapter is working toward encouraging the Negro boy and girl to go on with their education — finish high school, go to college—in order that they can be prepared to accept better jobs, raise their economic level. And at the same time the NAACP is working toward opening up fields of endeavor to the Negro boy or girl who has the education and skills to do the job.

The problems of housing, jobs, education and financing were discussed during the question and answer period.

The Public Affairs Committee plans to have a series of meetings on inter-racial subjects to find out how the YWCA as a Christian organization embracing all creeds, races and backgrounds, can be most effective in the community.

DECLINING A PROFFERED GIFT

Q: Is it ever permissible to thank a friend for a proffered gift and at the same time to decline it? I have done this several times over a period of years, but always wonder if it is correct. Two different friends offered me earrings which I do not wear, another friend wanted to give me perfume which I do not use. Each time I asked that they pass the gift to someone who could use it. Apparently I have not so far offended anyone by these tactics but feel uncomfortable, fearing it is not the kindest thing to do. Please advise me.

A: No one should be offended by your frankly saying, "Oh they're lovely and you're very kind to offer them to me but earrings are unbecoming to my face and I would never be able to wear them. Do give them to someone who will enjoy them."

Q: My husband died six weeks ago. My niece is to be married next month. I am very fond of her and feel sad at having to miss the wedding, but I do not think it would be proper for me to go under the circumstances. What is your opinion?

A: Considering the bride is your niece it would not be improper for you to be present at the church ceremony, and certainly no one would criticize you for going to the reception for a short time to greet your family and wish the bride and groom happiness.

Q: Recently we have had a series of weddings among the people in our office, and most of them have sent an invitation to the office which was posted on the bulletin board. Some people think this is sufficent; others feel that they would hesitate to go to a wedding to which they had not been sent a personal invitation. What is correct in this instance?

A: A blanket invitation to an office group is entirely proper and no one should hesitate to accept it.

Concert of Chamber Music Is Slated At West Point

The U.S. Military Academy Band will present the second chamber music concert of the season next Sunday, 3:45 p. m. in the Pershing Room of Cullum Hall, West Point. The program will be devoted to contemporary music for brass instruments by six composers, all of whom are living in America.

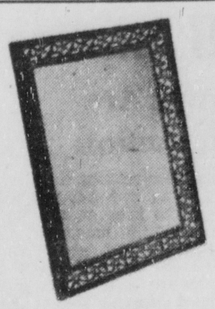

The concert is open to the public free of charge.

A featured performer will be Val Hayworth, who will play two numbers for tuba and will be joined in a trio for horn, tuba, and piano. A new solo for euphonium will be performed by Edward Carroll, the band's euphonium virtuoso. Major William H. Schempf, director of music and commanding officer of the USMA Band, will round out the program by conducting works for larger ensembles.

The complete program is as follows:

Rondo for Brass, Henry Cowell, Major William H. Schempf, conductor; Concert Piece, Roger Vaughn; Andante, Alexander Tcherpepnine, Val Hayworth, tuba; The Call of the Seasons, Philip Catelinet, Edward Carroll, euphonium; Suite for Horn, Tuba, and Piano, Alec Wilder, Aubrey Bouck, French horn, Val Rayworth, tuba, Robert Spillman, piano; Octet, Igor Stravinsky, Major Schempf, conductor.

Kitchen arithmetic: Count on using at least half a cup of medium white sauce to a cup of cooked diced vegetables or chicken for a creamed dish.

We The Women

Frequent Job Moves Are Gals' Ambition in Action

RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A business executive complains that unmarried women show lack of ambition because they shift from job to job, depending on the availability of eligible men.

Of course they want to work where there are eligible men around. But that's not lack of ambition. That's ambition of the most fundamental kind, from a woman's point of view.

After all, the lifetime career that appeals to most women is marriage. So from an unmarried woman's point of view—no matter how well paid or how responsible her job—if she never comes in contact with an eligible man it is a futile job, no matter how good her chances of promotion.

So it is rather unfair for a man to judge a woman's ambition or lack of it from a purely masculine viewpoint.

The girls who leave jobs because they don't bring them contact with eligible men can't be compared to young men who change jobs frequently for reasons that have nothing to do with advancement. The men who keep on the move may be lacking in ambition.

But the girl who moves from job to job until she finds one where there are a few unmarried men around has plenty of ambition, from a feminine point of view.

She isn't letting anything—a pay check, the promise of advancement, or security—keep her from heading for her major goal of marriage.

So let's not call her "unambitious." Let's admit she is a smart girl who knows exactly what she wants out of life, one who isn't going to waste years in an office where she doesn't have a chance of finding a husband.

YW Membership Campaign Gets Underway With Workshop Session, Luncheon Tuesday

The YWCA is launching an all association membership campaign under the general direction of Mrs. John W. Hill, membership chairman. The campaign got underway Tuesday with a workshop session and President's Council luncheon at the YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue.

With the theme, Every Member Bring a Member it is the aim of the campaign to double the present membership of the association. February has been designated as membership month and the present campaign will end Feb. 23. The five women bringing in the most members during the specified time will be given their choice of awards.

The aim of the membership campaign is not only to enlist members for the clubs now in existence but to bring to the general membership an increased number of electors. When the local organization was chartered some 35 years ago approximately 1,000 women were enlisted as charter members. Over the years many have been lost through death, transfer to other localities and interests.

The present facilities of the YWCA have been used by many groups outside the membership and are always available. With the Community Chest expanding its functions to include the outlying areas of the county, it is the hope of the association that many women from these areas will be interested in the organization. " Joining the YWCA said Mrs. Hill, "does not necessarily mean becoming a club or committee member, but rather a means of expressing an interest in the total purpose of the YWCA." Executive Director, Mrs. Eleanor Booth, gave a general history of the association.

In addition to the large number of youth and adult activities offered by the YWCA, it also offers a convenient place to drop in while waiting for an appointment, a place to freshen up for the business person or even a meeting place for a small group who might be in need of a meeting room. Also the YWCA offers babysitting service with a qualified person in charge three days a week.

Interested persons who would like to join the YWCA now during membership month may contact the YWCA office or any member.

In attendance at the meeting were, in addition to those listed, the Mmes. David Snell, R. R. Empringham, Harold Davis, Miss Florence Cordts, Mrs. Richard Goetsch, Mrs. Richard Joseph, Mrs. Paul Hoverman, Mrs. Herbert Kaufman, Mrs. William Keith, Mrs. Donald Hulsair, Mrs. Elsie Ford, Mrs. Agnes Wagner, Mrs. John Warren, Miss Marcia Clark, Miss Bertha Waterman, Miss Matilda Martin, Mrs. Mary D. Short, Mrs. Fred Port, Mrs. Eleanor Booth, Mrs. John Greco, Mrs. Richard Culver.

Mrs. Elga Curtis and Mrs. Lewis Short were in charge of the luncheon.

Measure Would Cut Dinner Deductions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The traditional business lunch or dinner seemed safe today as a full income tax deduction — but the prospects were dimmer for a round of night clubs with a customer.

The House Ways and Means Committee, looking for more revenue from tighter tax laws, Tuesday ordered a legislative section drafted that would permit deduction of only 50 per cent of most business entertainment expenses—and require proof of the expenses.

Such draft orders usually mean substantial agreement in the committee, which handles tax matters.

The version the committee ordered prepared for a final vote presumably would tax much business entertainment money which is exempt under present law, although there were no firm estimates. It falls considerably short of President Kennedy's recommendations, which would have completely eliminated deductions for most business expenses.

Education Change In State Blocked By Regents System

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—An educational change in the state's public schools is being blocked by the traditional system of Regents examinations, an Education Department consultant maintains.

He proposed an experiment to modernize teaching methods and suggested a suspension of the Regents tests while the experiment was being tried.

Dr. Henry M. Brickell criticized the examination system and outlined his recommmendations Tuesday in a report of a year-long study on bringing more effective teaching methods to the state's elementary and secondary schools.

Pupils must pass statewide Regents examinations to qualify for an academic diploma, usually sought by students intending to go to college.

Brickell, assistant superintendent of schools in Manhasset, said in his report the inhibiting influence of the examinations was "beyond any question whatsoever."

He said hundreds of high schools were visited last May and June and that copies of previous Regents exams constituted at least 10 per cent of the curriculum in the typical high school academic course.

The experiment proposed by Brickell called for establishment of two agencies to encourage new instructional programs in the public schools.

He suggested that the Board of Regents create:

A semi - autonomous research agency to design educational programs in various sections of the state.

A school-development unit to disseminate information programs worked out by the research agency.

The research group's programs would be tested and, if found successful, recommended to proposed regional school-development units.

These units would be made up of between 10 and 20 school districts. Each large city would have one such unit. New York City would have 25. All school districts would be required to participate.

POLLY'S QUIZ

By POLLY CRAMER

Imaginative Use of Sheets Helps Create Outstanding Room

Here is a recipe for a budget bedroom worthy of today's homemaker or a bride-to-be. Ingredients:

- Two single sheets to curtain each window (in any spring flower color).
- Two striped single sheets to make the dust ruffle for the bed.
- One full size striped sheet to make the slip cover for a boudoir chair.
- One full-size sheet (like those at the windows) to quilt for a bedspread.
- Then add a dash of imagination. For example, apply the leftover strips of the striped sheets as bands on the curtains.

Plus: so little time that you'll never miss it.

Dear Polly: We were fortunate enough to get the essential pieces of furniture included with the house we recently bought. Now, I must make it come to life, make it ours. The living room has spice beige walls and natural woodwork. Sofa and chair in beige are to stay as they are. Lounge chair and barrel chairs have to be done over. Draperies are light beige. We would like to use persimmon but on what and how? Floors are hardwood so we are going to use cotton throw rugs. — Mrs. M. S.

Dear Mrs. M. S.: First, make sure that those throw rugs are large enough and firm enough so that they won't crumple up every time someone walks across the floor. Cover the chairs with the same gay floral chintz, possibly a light avocado green ground with lots of persimmon color, some brown and gold or cream in the pattern. Add two rows of fringe or braid, persimmon and green, down the inside edges of the beige curtains.

Dear Polly: I have a large kitchen with brown and yellow tile floor, knotty pine cupboards and wood work with natural finish. What color for walls and curtains? I would like yellow but thought it would make the room look too big. Appliances are white. How could I decorate one wall without putting on wallpaper? — Mrs. R. A.

Dear Mrs. R. A.: Yellow walls would not make your kitchen seem too large; this color always looks cozy and warm. Curtains in a big brown-and-white check would be pretty. Make an interesting grouping on the wall with black iron trivets, framed herb charts or some of those beguiling dish towels (framed) that the shops are now showing.

Correction Made On Holcomb Talk

Officers of B'nai B'rith Zephaniah Lodge 131 were quick today to correct certain statements attributed to Dr. Frederic Holcomb Jr. in Tuesday's report of his talk before B'nai B'rith at their annual medical meeting. Inadvertently, some confusion was caused by certain statements attributed to Dr. Holcomb which were contrary to those originally and actually expressed.

In order to clarify the situation, Dr. Holcomb was asked for a statement concerning the article which appeared in last night's Freeman.

The statements attributed to Dr. Holcomb were taken from a release submitted to The Freeman by a spokesman of B'nai B'rith Lodge in reporting the events at the meeting. (Editor's Note.)

"I am quite concerned," said Dr. Holcomb, "That I was misquoted in the report of my address to the B'nai B'rith. I am certain that the errors were unintentional, but feel I must make corrections. My primary intention was to describe the basic functions of occupational medical programs, and my references to our local IBM regulations were merely illustrative. I indicated that some industries incorporated the so-called 'executive medical examinations', but that at present we confined our periodic medical examinations to certain employes working in key assignments."

"I am even more concerned about the report of my statements concerning the proposed federal legislation to link medical care for the aged to the Social Security program. I initially made it clear that in my comments in this regard, I was speaking as a practicing member of the medical profession, and not as a representative of any industrial organization. I stated that the medical profession, as represented by the American Medical Association, was unalterably opposed to the plan under consideration by Congress as the King-Anderson Bill. I urged all those present who were in sympathy with the philosophies I expressed, to write our congressional representatives urging them to oppose any such legislation. This viewpoint is obviously quite the opposite of that reported in the Tuesday paper."

"I would like to reiterate that I consider it most constructive that a group such as B'nai B'rith would set aside an annual meeting to acquaint themselves with the principles of medical specialties, and was honored by their invitation to address their 1962 medical meeting.

Institutions Praised

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon says the individual American, working through voluntary organizations, will provide the great differential in the struggle against communism.

The former vice president, now a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, praised what he called nongovernmental institutions in a speech Tuesday night at the annual installation banquet of the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce.

He described as nongovernmental institutions the churches, the press, philanthropic organizations and trade associations.

April Earliest Date Possible For School Vote

The vote on the proposed school bond issue will be deferred until at the very earliest it was learned at a meeting Monday night of the Citizens Advisory Committee to the board of education.

Sarkis Arkell, representing the architects, told the committee and four members of the board of education in attendance that several delays have made it necessary to defer the vote to either April or June.

He indicated that it is not likely that new buildings will be ready for occupancy before the end of December 1963, unless present plans are accelerated.

In the hope of contributing to acceleration, the advisory committee voted almost unanimously to confirm its previous recommendations to the board and, to limit its representation at future meetings of the Board to the chairman and vice chairman of the committee rather than attempt to have the entire committee present—at least until such time as the board of education requests opinions from the committee on problems that may present themselves. Miss Grace Anderson is chairman and Norman Nitschke is vice chairman.

The previous recommendations which had been made by the advisory committee to the board and which were confirmed Monday night were that the board should proceed with its plans to construct a 14-room building at Katsbaan; and should also construct the nucleus for a junior high school building on the present high school site. The addition would consist of ten classrooms, nine of which will be on the second floor of the addition, the tenth on the first floor. The remaining area on the first floor would consist of a cafeteria, a homemaking suite, an art room, and two science rooms. The special rooms are planned in accordance with recommendations of the State Education Department.

It is the assumption of the board and committee that when the junior high school nucleus is added to in future years, it would include the other essential features and facilities for a 1,000-pupil junior high school building as follows: a two-station gymnasium and lockers, a shop contiguous to the present ones, music rooms, additional classrooms, administration suite, health suite, library, and other features.

The plans for the proposed building at the Katsbaan site include 12 regular classrooms; a kindergarten room; a special classroom; administrative area; an all-purpose room to be used as a gymnasium, auditorium, and lunch room; a small instrumental music room; an area for the art instructor; and a health room.

The Katsbaan site which is on the southwest corner of the Jensen Preston property has been surveyed and the architects will now determine the best location for the building and take test borings; also explore the water supply. An option has been secured from Mrs. Verna Elliott on a small strip of land which lies between Route 32 and the Preston property in order that an entrance may be provided to the property from Route 32.

Some members of the advisory committee once more expressed concern over the fact that a shortage of classrooms in the local district will place over 700 boys and girls on a reduced-time schedule beginning next fall. These include the boys and girls in the second, third, and fourth grades throughout the system.

It is feared by the board of education that the following year some part of the high school may have to go on an abbreviated schedule; also, that approximately an additional 400 pupils in the grades will have to be placed on a half-time schedule each year. This would mean that in the school year 1963-64 approximately 1100 grade pupils would be on a part-time schedule along with part of the high school student group.

St. Mary's P-TA Has Address on Behavior

St. Mary's of the Snow School held its first Parent-Teacher Association meeting of the year, Sunday night, at which time Sister Marie Loretta, SC, Administrator and educational coordinator of St. Vincent's Child Evaluation Clinic, New York City, discussed Behavior Problems. A question and answer period followed. The meeting was opened with a prayer by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward Plover.

Sister Bernard, principal of St. Mary's School, announced to the parents that the Heaf Tuberculin test will be given to pupils in grades 1, 2, 3, and 6 Tuesday, Feb. 6.

She also reported that the SRA Reading Program is progressing very favorably and the pupils interest is exceptionally keen. It is hoped the program will induce the students to continue reading worthwhile literature.

The P-TA will sponsor a dance on Feb. 10 in Columbus Hall, more details will be announced at a later date.

Lions Hear Plans For Malden Park

At the Monday night meeting of the Saugerties Lions Club at the Flamingo Restaurant, Frank Greco described the possibility of a state supported recreational area for Malden. It would be ideal for beach facilities and play area, but insufficient in acreage for a state park he said.

After a discussion of the advantages to the community of a nearby recreational area, the members decided to write to Senator Ogden Bush and Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson expressing their wish to promote the project.

Charter Night will be observed at next week's meeting at which time the Rev. Raymond Kullman of Schenectady, a former member of the local Lions Club, will be guest speaker. All members may attend the annual event.

In addition, Miss Sterling will take tours of some local industries in order to become acquainted with manufacturing methods used here. She will be the guest at meetings of some social, fraternal and political organizations, and will be entertained in the homes of some Saugerties residents.

While in Saugerties, Miss Sterling will live in the home of Mrs. Elsie Ketelaar, 27 Robinson Street, a member of the English department of Saugerties High School. Mrs. Katelaar, Mrs. Lynnette Flewelling, Miss Agnes Sheff, and Miss Frances Larned will act as her hostesses to arrange plans for her visit.

Harner Is Top Money Winner At Monticello During 1961

MONTICELLO — Old driving pro Levi Harner was the biggest money earner among Monticello Raceway drivers in 1961, and finished an impressive 27th in the country, according to final figures released by the United States Trotting Association.

The 52-year-old reinsman from Bloomsburg, Pa., earned $170,854 for owner T. J. Zornow of Pittsford, N. Y.

Of course, Harner's bread-and-butter performer was Free-for-All pacer Tar Boy, holder of the Monticello track record for a betting race of 1:59.4. Retired champion Adios Butler actually was clocked in the fastest time—1:59.2—in a time trial.

Harner won 65 dashes during the season for 46th place among all drivers in the nation. At the Mighty M, Harner made the winner's circle 20 times in 104 trips. He had 23 seconds and 19 thirds for a .376 in-the-money percentage, second best at MR.

Driving champion Harold Dancer Jr., posted a leading .377 mark. He won the most races at Monticello (47) and overall had 64 victories for 49th spot in the country.

In 67th Place

Dancer, of Holmdel, N. J., had earnings of $86,559 which placed him 67th in the dollar race. He had a winning percentage of .237 at Monticello, slightly less than Fairfield, Conn., driver Russ Palmer's top .238 performance.

Frank Popfinger and Austin Galentine also were big dollar earners. Popfinger's stable banked $94,803 and Galentine's $94,089 for 53rd and 56th spots respectively throughout the nation.

Popfinger, of Wexford, Pa., was the busiest driver at Monticello starting in 261 races. He trailed Dancer in dashes won with 33, and altogether captured 51 starts for 75th place.

Galentine, driving almost exclusively for the Clukey Stable of Harrington, Del., was a 55-time winner for 69th spot. His barn was headed by such aged pacers as Winbee and Scotch Abbe, and Meadow Vision, the track's three-year-old pacing champion.

Uhl Gets 37 As Trailways Wins Rec Tilt

Jumpin' Joe Uhl, home for a short vacation from Boston University, rimmed 37 points Monday at the Municipal Auditorium to lead Trailway Cafeteria to a 79-74 Rec League win over Carroll's Bait Box.

Byrne Chevrolet forfeited to Adolph's of Red Hook in the scheduled second game.

Uhl scored 16 baskets and had five free throws in pacing the Cafeteria five. He also did a good job on the backboards. John Kelly, a former teammate of Uhl's at Kingston High, had 25 points for the winners.

Bill Lacomb, Tom Waters, Andy Juhl and Lloyd Tice were in double figures for the Bait Box but they couldn't overcome the one-two punch of the Trailways.

The boxscore:

Foss Challenges National League To Title Contest

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Commissioner Joe Foss of the American Football League again has thrown down the gauntlet in a direct challenge to the senior National Football League.

On the basis of a banner year in signing rookies and improved television money, Foss, the former Marine air ace, said the young league would be ready for championship contention with the NFL in 1962.

"We're ready for a pro championship game with the National Football League right now," Foss said Tuesday. And with another year of competition, he said, the AFL will be equal to the NFL, top to bottom.

Conceding the loss of six of the AFL's eight top draft choices to the rival league, Foss said the NFL devoted its major energies to doing just that.

"Out of the top 100 boys on our draft list, as of yesterday (Monday), we had signed 43. From last year's top 100, we signed 35 all together."

Of the 200 collegians drafted by the American League, the eight teams had signed 79 to date, whereas only 71 with signed last year from a list of 240, he added.

The commissioner said he expected the American Broadcasting Co. to announce it was picking up its AFL television option well before the April 15 deadline.

Play in the AFL will be televised into 200 cities this season, he said, compared with 137 last year.

It remained hardly likely that a playoff game could be agreed to as long as the younger league continues to press its law suit against the National Football League. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle continually has stated no inter - league professional championship would be arranged as long as the suit stands.

Giants Lose, 11 to 1 In Court, That Is

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco morning newspapers headlined today: "Giants lose, 11-1."

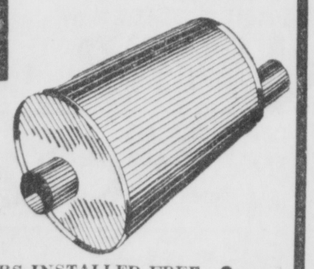

The story behind the baseball season banner: A jury of 10 women and two men voted 11-1 Tuesday that the Giants were guilty of breach of warranty.

Attorney Melvin Belli was awarded $1,597 in damages, the price he paid for boxes at breezy Candlestick Park for the 1960 season. Belli's suit charged the Giants had advertised boxes with radiant heat but he said he "found the seats uninhabitable" because they were so cold.

The Giants said they planned to appeal.

Bob Feller and Jackie Robinson Named to Hall of Fame

BOSTON (AP) — Jackie Robinson, first Negro to play in the major leagues, today is the first of his race ever elected to baseball's highest honor—its Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y.

The graying former Brooklyn Dodgers infielder was enshrined Tuesday along with Bob Feller, the quiet farm boy from Iowa who blazed a fast ball through the American League for nearly 20 years.

Both won election to the hall the first time they were eligible, a five-year retirement from baseball being mandatory. It was the first time the Baseball Writers of America had named anyone on their first eligible shot since the original five — Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Walter Johnson, Honus Wagner and Christy Mathewson—were tapped in the first election, in 1936.

Candidates needed 75 per cent of the 160 votes cast. Feller, now an insurance executive in Cleveland, received 150 votes.

Robinson, vice president of a restaurant and coffee company, got 124 votes, four more than the minimum needed.

"It's a once in a lifetime thrill," said Robinson at his Stamford, Conn., home. "It's hard to describe my feelings fully at this time. I am pleased and honored. My family is so excited no one wants to eat."

Feller Pleased

Feller, typically, was less emotional but nevertheless just as thrilled.

"Naturally, I'm happy about it," he said. "But now it's almost as if I had nothing to look forward to—except going to Cooperstown this summer. I thought I might have to wait longer. Joe DiMaggio had to go around a couple of times. But then maybe the competition was rougher then."

Robinson broke baseball's color line in 1947. Branch Rickey, then general manager of the Dodgers, had startled the baseball world the year before when he signed Jackie to a Brooklyn farm contract. Robinson, who had been an outstanding football player for UCLA, was with the Kansas City Monarchs of the Negro American League at the time. He spent one year of seasoning at Montreal, leading the International League in batting and fielding and then joined Brooklyn as a second baseman.

Quiet, hard working and always both an offensive and defensive threat, Robinson flirted with the .300 mark his first two seasons and batted a lusty .342 in 1949 to lead the National League.

Great Baserunner

His fielding and baserunning always were joys to behold. In one season he committed only seven errors, still the major league record, he participated in 137 double plays that same season, 1951, setting a National League mark.

Jackie was the most feared baserunner around in the decade from the late '40s to the late '50s. Once he stole home in a World Series game.

"I think it was recognition purely on merit," Rickey said of his protege's selection to the Hall of Fame. "It is well deserved.

"I think it also means a lot to our whole country. We are in serious disrepute in some of our international relations, and I think this will help a lot. All of our people should be very happy."

Feller was a 17-year-old farm boy who had sharpened his eye by throwing at a bullseye painted on a barn when he arrived in the majors in 1936. He was what the game needed—a blazing fastball pitcher who packed in the crowds.

Twenty years later—with four years out for Navy service during World War II in his pitching prime—Rapid Robert Feller had compiled 266 victories.

Fanned 2,581 Batters

Among those wins were three no-hitters, a dozen one-hitters. Only two other pitchers had three no-hit games. No other ever tossed 12 one-hit jobs.

As exciting as Feller's low-hit games were, his strikeouts were even more dramatic. He struck out 2,581 batters, including 15 in his first major league starting job.

"Feller must be ranked among the top five pitchers I ever faced," says American League President Joe Cronin, "Everybody talked about his fast ball but he had a tremendous curve."

Six times Feller won 20 or more games. His high came in 1940 when he notched 27 triumphs. He set the modern mark of 18 strikeouts in a nine-inning game against Detroit, Oct. 2, 1938, though Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers since has tied the record. Feller's 348 strikeouts in 1946 still stands as a major league mark.

The two baseball greats were the first elected to the Hall of Fame by the writers in their biennial polls since 1956 when Cronin and Hank Greenberg were chosen. Billy Hamilton and Max Carey were elected last year by a special "Old Timers" committee.

'Humble' Robinson is Happy Over Election to Hall of Fame

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP)—Jackie Robinson, the first Negro elected to baseball's Hall of Fame, said today he is happiest because of the "effect it might have on humble people like myself."

"I am hoping it will make them realize," continued Robinson, 42, now graying vice president of a national restaurant and coffee packing concern, "that people can come from humble beginnings and with luck and perseverance can move ahead."

Robinson was elected to the shrine Tuesday along with Bob Feller. Like Feller, the former Brooklyn Dodgers' infielder made it the first time he was eligible for the ballot.

Lives in Stamford

Robinson has a luxurious home on the outskirts of Stamford and commutes to his job in New York.

"No one had more humble beginnings than I did," he reminisced in his richly appointed living room while his wife, Rachel, sat by his side. "Why, at one time I was practically a juvenile delinquent. I didn't know where my next meal was coming from.

"And now to end up like this. You have to thank God for having a mother like I have who taught me right from wrong and for guiding me to my wife."

Jackie said that as soon as his wife told him of his election when he arrived home from New York, he telephoned his mother in Pasadena, Calif., and Branch Rickey, who brought him up to the Dodgers and thus broke the color line in the major leagues.

"I felt they deserved this great honor along with my wife as much as I," he said. "I didn't want either of them to find out from anyone else before I told them."

Hall of Famer Feller Gets Fun Coaching Youngsters

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Bob Feller, named to the baseball Hall of Fame at 43, says he gets more fun out of coaching sandlot youngsters than he ever did in his playing days with the Cleveland Indians.

"It's wonderful," Feller said Tuesday after learning he had been elected to the Hall of Fame along with Negro star Jackie Robinson.

"The kids listen to me and I try to help as much as I can. And I stay in some sort of shape by hitting fungos, pitching batting practice and running around a little."

Feller came off a Van Meter, Iowa, farm in 1936 at the age of 17 and pitched his way to baseball greatness with a crackling fast ball and sharp curve.

"I thought I might have to wait longer," said Feller when told he had made the Hall of Fame in his first try.

Feller singled out his father and Cy Slapnicka as forming important influences on his career. It was his dad who taught him baseball on the Iowa farm and it was Slapnicka who signed him and brought him to Cleveland.

Feller said he may have reached the peak of his skills in a game in Philadelphia in 1947. He had struck out nine of the first 10 batters when he slipped off the mound in the fourth inning and tore ligaments in his knee and shoulder. He left the game an inning or two later.

That marked the downgrade as a fastballer for Feller. "It was never quite as easy again," he said.

Player Recalls First 1961 Win

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — This was the week a year ago when South Africa's Gary Player started the surge that won him more money in 1961 than any other golfer collected.

Lightly regarded at the start of the 1961 San Francisco International Open, Player came from four strokes off the pace on a final day to shoot a six-under-par 65 for a 272 total winning the $9,000 first prize.

He shoots over the same Harding Park course starting Thursday in the $50,000 tournament. So far this year, he hasn't been pleased with his scores and didn't shoot well enough in the Bing Crosby even to reach the finals this week at Pebble Beach, Calif.

So he came here early for some practice, and Tuesday finished with a pair of birdies for a one-under-par 70.

"The course was playing very heavy after the rain and snow, but the weather conditions were beautiful," he commented. He added he was putting very nicely compared with his recent work on the greens.

After his San Francisco victory, Player went on to become the first non-U.S. golfer to win the Masters title, and his $64,540.65 was the highest seasonal winnings for any golfer last year.

Today he will play in the pro-amateur preliminary as the pros get in their final pretournament work.

A field of 149 pros and 10 amateurs are set to compete in the 72-hole tournament over Harding, a municipal course measuring 6,672 yards.

'Y' League Tilts

Yellow Jackets Gain OT Win; Hub, Hayes Record Victories

After blowing an early lead, the Yellow Jackets rallied in the fourth quarter to knot the score and finally defeated Eddie's Country Fair, 65-58, in an overtime thriller last night at the Kingston YMCA.

In other league games, Hub Delicatessen stopped Delanoy Fuel, 75-54, behind a 35 point outburst by Don Kamosa, and Hayes-Lincoln Mercury decisioned Doran's, 52-37.

John Burris and Mel Williams led the Yellow Jackets to their hard earned victory. Burris rimmed 19 markers and Williams hit for 17. The winners outscored their opponents, 12-5, in the overtime session.

Kamosa, former Kingston High player, had 15 buckets and five free throws to pace the Hub attack. Ted Bream was the best scorer for Delanoy with 14 markers. Hub trailed, 14-13, after the first period but then put on the pressure the rest of the way.

George Uhl was the ringleader in a well-balanced attack for Hayes with 17 points. Tom Fiore and Richie Amato were also in double figures. Rich Nagele had 10 for the losers, who managed just 14 baskets.

Knicks Tenth Packer Victims

The magic number for the Chicago Packers of the National Basketball Association was 10 and they were beginning to think they never would make it.

More than a week ago, the Packers, holding down last place in the Western Division of the league, had won a total of 9 games for their season's work.

Then they embarked on an 8-games-in-8-nights binge, figuring hopefully that all the work might fatten their average. It didn't. They lost the first six.

But Tuesday night, the tables turned and the Packers whipped the New York Knickerbockers 109-103 and finally reached 10 victories for the season. The Knicks are solidly entrenched in last place in the Eastern Division.

In the other half of the New York doubleheader, the Boston Celtics whipped the Los Angeles Lakers 118-103, while the St. Louis Hawks downed the Syracuse Nats

Lucas Can't Miss Mikan Believes

NEW YORK (AP)—George Mikan, a former great himself, hailed Ohio State's Jerry Lucas as one of the outstanding basketball players of all time, and a cinch to turn professional.

Lucas, a two-time All-America and star of the champion Olympic team in 1960, has indicated in the past that he may enter business after he graduates in June and pass up pro ball.

The Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association, who already have two of the NBA's best in Oscar Robertson (Lucas' teammate on the Olympic squad) and Jack Twyman, are eager to pay Jerry a fortune to play with them.

"Will he turn pro?" said Mikan in repeating a question—"There's no question in my mind that he will. He's already gotten himself an agent in the guy that handles golfer Jack Nicklaus. If you're not going to play for money what do you need an agent for?"

Mikan, now 37, was picked as the greatest basketball player of the half century in an Associated Press poll in 1950. He first starred at DePaul and then with the Minneapolis Lakers. He quit playing in 1954 after hanging up many scoring records. Mikan, a lawyer in Minneapolis, was interviewed while in New York this week.

Marlboro Wins 10th Straight, Defeats Wallkill, 68-49

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

On his own, the personable St. Louis Irishman is one of the world's finest pocket busters with a glittering personality to match. His gifted talents will be on dispay Sunday night at Sangi's Bowlero.

The Budweisers were assembled from all parts of the country but Hennessey was waiting. He was born in the Mound City in 1925 and started bowling there in 1943.

In just 16 years of bowling, Hennessey has firmly established himself as one of the game's brightest stars. On the St. Louis Budweisers, he rolls with such as Don Carter, Pat Patterson, Dick Weber, Billy Welu.

Hennessey was signed by the Strohs Bohemians of Detroit and was a member of the team that won the national team match game championship three straight years, 1952-53, 53-54, 54-55. On that stellar cast were Buzz Fazio, Lee Jouglard, Pete Carter, Ed Lubanski, Tony Lindemann and Hennessey.

When Hennessey returned to his home town to join the Budweisers, it was the same old story — three consecutive national team titles giving him a string of six straight.

Holds Many Titles:

Along the way, Hennessey has picked up a batch of other citations. He shared the BPAA national doubles title with Don Carter in 1958 and 1959. He was an ABC Masters titlist in 1958 and won the Las Vegas Open in 1960. Hennessey was something special in the 1958 Masters where he breezed to the title on seven straight match victories to become one of only three champions in tournament history to emerge undefeated. On his way to the title, he compiled a 209 average and led the field with a 969 high four-game set.

Named King of Bowlers in Detroit for the 1956-57 season, he had a composite 213 average compiled during sanctioned league competition in the 1955-56 season. He then went on to capture three straight Southern match game championships in 1957-58-59.

Hennessey maintained his penchant for threes by capturing the Central States all-events title three consecutive times for a tournament record: 1954-55 (2007); 1955-56 (2035); 1956-57 (1987). As a member of the Budweisers' three-man team he contributed 789 in a world's record 2228. Dick Weber had 757 and Patterson 682. He is also the holder of the record national televised bowling series of 848, rolled against Buzz Fazio at Chicago on Jan. 13, 1957. He did it with 299-258-289.

Personal Citations:

During his hot streak from 1955 through 1958, the Bowlers Journal named him to the All-America team three times running, 1955-56-57-58. He was named to Bowling Magazine's All-America first team in 1958 and 1959; to the second team in 1957 and 1960.

Hennessey averaged 167 in his first season of bowling in 1943. He has since collected seven 300 games and his 846 television series is his career high.

He will come to Kingston from Albany where he will compete in the annual Empire State Open, second leg on the winter circuit of the Professional Bowlers Association. He will be on display Sunday afternoon and Sunday night. Get a good look at him because here is a hunk of bowler.

Old Pro Returns:

Hilda Murphy, who was a sensational bowler during her brief stay in Kingston, came back to town for a flying visit last week. Specifically, it was to consult her teaching professional, Frank (Buster) Ferraro, about a new ball and some minor defects in her splendid all-round game. When she returned to Ithaca last summer, Mrs. Murphy did not leave her bowling talents behind her. She is competing in two travelling major leagues in Syracuse, averaging better than 180 in one and around 178 in the other. She admitted that not even in Syracuse did she find the bowling enthusiasm among women she encountered in Kingston. Which is a large endorsement for the gals of our town.

Third Quarter Spurt Decides UCAL Contest

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Marlboro Central's hustling Dukes went on a 15-2 spurt in the closing stages of the third quarter and then proceeded to bury Wallkill, the defending UCAL champion, 68-49, before an SRO crowd last night at the winners' court.

The win puts the Dukes of Jack O'Donnell all alone at the top of the circuit and also keeps them in the ranks of the unbeaten. The record shows ten straight victories, six of them in league play.

This was a solid team effort. The starting five of Frank Benevento, Vic Mandia, Brian Collins, Jim Woodward and Steve Aurigema played all but the last minute and contributed all the points. The Dukes used some adroit passing to break through the Wallkill zone in the first half and then put their famed speed to use when the visitors were forced to press in the third and fourth periods.

Mooney Is Hurt

Wallkill had misfortune early. Forward Eddie Mooney, playing despite an injured ankle, fell to the floor at the five minute mark in the opening period. He hurt his knee and was unable to appear for the remainder of the tilt. Doug Edebohls, the second leading scorer for the club, picked up his fourth foul at the start of the second half and Coach Jack Higgins had to bench him for the third quarter and part of the fourth period. With both Mooney and Edebohls out of the lineup, the visitors were never really a factor, at least not in this game.

Wallkill never led. The visitors used Mooney's only basket to gain a 2-2 deadlock at the start of the game. They then trailed until there were six minutes remaining in the third period. At this stage, Larry Martinez scored with a jumper to tie the count, 25-25. It was here that Marlboro went on its winning surge.

Mandia, a deadeye from outside, made a jump shot and then scored with a driving layup. Benevento was successful with a free throw attempt and then a set shot by Woodward from behind the key zoomed the lead to seven points, 32-26. Pete Myers stopped the drive with a free throw, the only point Wallkill scored until the home side had tallied eight more.

Doubts Are Ended

It was Aurigemma with two charity tosses, Collins (and what a great game he played) with a driving layup and Woodward with the same kind of a shot. Collins climaxed the rally with another tally from near the basket before Martinez converted a foul for Wallkill. This made the scoreboard read, 40-27, after three periods and ended doubts as to the outcome.

Wallkill came to within eight points at the start of the fourth period but then Woodward, the general in the backcourt, made some foul shots and Collins continued his control of the backboards. The few that Brian missed Benevento picked off.

Woodward led the well-balanced attack of the Dukes with 18 points. Mandia, Collins and Benevento were all in double figures while Aurigemma just missed. Edebohls had 15 and Myers 13 for the defending champs, who are seeking a third straight title.

In a Good Spot

The win puts Marlboro in good position as the red hot UCAL race moves into the second half. It's strictly a three team affair with Wallkill now second and Rondout Valley in third place. Both clubs will have trouble catching Marlboro, at least if the Dukes give some more performances like the one last night.

In the jayvee contest, Bob Wensley hit with a last second shot to give Wallkill a 30-30 tie at the end of regulation time and the visitors proceeded to carve out a 38-32 verdict in overtime. Mike Pascale led Marlboro with 13 points while George Druttman had 11 for Wallkill.

Slanted Rules

Flop or Not, Sharman Says New ABL Helped Basketball

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LOS ANGELES — (NEA) — Even if the teetering American Basketball League should fold, Bill Sharman doesn't feel it has been in vain.

That isn't because he has a three-year contract.

"It's the brand of basketball we played before the public," said the coach of the wavering Los Angeles Jets, now in limbo. "For the first time, the rules were slanted for the spectators."

Sharman's opinion merits attention because he was willing to risk his stature as a star of the Boston Celtics — and more important, a strong five-figure salary — to jump to the tenuous venture.

"It's the three-point play," elaborated Bill. "In so many NBA games, the people wait until the last five minutes for the action to start.

"I remember being in Kansas City early this season scouting a game. Max Perry of Honolulu got the ball right after the opening tap and on the first shot of the game flipped a three-pointer. The people jumped up and screamed. I think the colleges would adopt it if they gave it an honest try."

The ABL outlined half a circle with a radius of 25 feet from the basket. Any shot beyond that line counted three points instead of the conventional two for a field goal.

"Why should a bloop single," asked Sharman, who once was a Brooklyn Dodger outfield prospect, too, "count the same as a home run? A guy takes years and years to develop a skilled outside shot. It should pay off more than a dunk.

"It also brings the defenses out farther. That opens the lane for driving. We weren't selling exactly the same game as the NBA." (As it turns out, they weren't selling much of anything.)

The ABL allowed 30 seconds, instead of 24, for the offensive team to get off a shot.

"Why was (Bob) Cousy popular?" asked Sharman rhetorically. "Why do the Globetrotters draw? For shooting? No, but because they handle the ball. We restored some of that with the expanded time to set up. Maybe it should be even 35 seconds.

"We also played a rougher type of defense, with more contact. The scorers go into the NBA. We got the better all-round players."

Sharman mentioned boys like Bill Bridges of Kansas City, a 6-6 workhorse, and Dan Swartz, the star of his Jets.

"They could help any team in the other league," insisted Bill. "All a kid like Dan needed was a chance."

Swartz is a 6-4 graduate of Morehead State in Kentucky who reported to the Celtics a couple of years ago but left camp after three weeks when he assessed his chances of making the squad.

Guess who the Celtics had then to block his way. Sharman, of course.

Does Bill Sharman have any regrets about cutting short his career in Boston?

"I was sure they were going to put me on the negotiation list of the new Chicago team," he stated. "I'd rather go back to California than Chicago.

"I miss the players. But most of all, I miss the winning. I got spoiled playing wit hthe Celtics. I got so used to winning that it tore me up when we lost two or three."

It tore up the owner of the Jets, too.

He landed in a hospital with a breakdown because no one would pay to see them lose . . . or win.

Frisco Feels Quake

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A gentle rolling earthquake was felt in San Francisco at 7:13 a.m. today.

Residents of Oakland, across San Francisco Bay, said the shock was felt quite sharply there.

Similar reports came from Berkeley and Orinda, in the same general area.

Transkei First In Program for Segregated Area

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd has announced his white supremacy regime plans to give internal self-government next year to a segregated state of two million blacks in the Transkei area on the Indian Ocean.

Verwoerd told Parliament Tuesday Transkei would be the first state set up under his government's program of separate development for Bantu (Negro) states within a South African commonwealth.

Transkei will have a wholly black Parliament and Cabinet with authority over agriculture, education, lands, roads and other internal matters, Verwoerd said. External affairs, defense and certain aspects of the administration of justice will remain in the hands of the all-white South African government for the time being, he said.

Verwoerd's announcement drew fire from Dr. Bernard Friedman, leader of the Transvaal Progressive party. He termed it window dressing to disarm foreign critics of South Africa's apartheid policy of strict racial segregation.

The Transkei is an area of 16,000 square miles on the Indian Ocean south of Durban. The government says it has a population of 2,060,770, all Bantus except for 17,369 whites and 13,716 "colored" persons of mixed origin.

Approval Seen To Have Portugal Halt Harsh Rule

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —U.N. delegates predicted today the General Assembly will give overwhelming approval to an Asian-African resolution calling on Portugal to end harsh rule in Angola and start the West African colony on the road to independence.

The resolution was submitted Tuesday with 40 sponsors and was expected to poll as many as 85 favorable votes in the 104-nation assembly, well over the two-thirds needed for approval.

The draft was assured support from the 51 members of the Asian-African bloc, the 9-nation Soviet bloc and many of the 20 Latin-American states.

The United States, Britain and France have given no indication how they will vote on the proposal, which asks all member states to deny Portugal—a NATO member—any support that could be used against the Angolans.

A U.S. spokesman said the resolution had been sent to Washington for study and that U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson would announce the American position Thursday. Observers predicted he would support the Asian-African draft.

The French and British were still studying the draft.

Algiers Strike Asked by SAO

ALGIERS (AP) — The French tricolor was flown today throughout Algiers' European areas in a massive demonstration of opposition to Algerian independence.

The flag display was ordered by the European Secret Army Organization, which also called for a 75-minute general strike late this afternoon and told the European population to turn off the lights in their homes for the last 15 minutes. The strike was expected to paralyze the city.

The Secret Army Organization used the occasion of the anniversary of the 1960 settlers' uprising to demonstrate anew its hold on the European population and its determination to keep Algeria French.

In sharp contrast to the European flag display, the walls and windows of Moslem quarters were bare.

Police halted traffic on the city's main streets in expectation of disorders. Troop patrols deployed through the city and army helicopters hovered overhead.

Physicians Patch Bulgarian Pilot, Faces New Quiz

ACQUAVIVA, Italy (AP)—Doctors have set Lt. Milusc Solakov's fractures and the Bulgarian is reported nearly in shape for further official questioning about the crash landing of his camera-carrying MIG17 jet.

Dr. Giuseppe Della Corte said it is up to Italian counterintelligence officers to decide when Solakov, 22, will be moved to a military hospital at Bari, 16 miles north of Acquaviva.

Solakov underwent surgery on Tuesday night for repair of fractures of a collarbone and his left arm in the crash Saturday, the end of a flight over a nearby missile base that Italian authorities suspect was a spy mission.

The lieutenant claims he is a political refugee and has asked for asylum. Italian officials turned back to Rome two Bulgarian diplomats who came here to talk to him and view the police-guarded plane wreckage.

St. John's Redmen Heading For Another Tournament Bid

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

St. John's University, consistently one of the nation's leading independent major college basketball powers, once again seems destined for a postseason tournament bid.

The New York Redmen polished off touring Canisius of Buffalo 81-68 Tuesday night for their fifth straight victory and 11th in 14 games. LeRoy Ellis, St. John's 6-10 center, produced most of the scoring punch with 31 points, 21 in the first half. The swift senior also snared 15 rebounds.

The Redmen have appeared in 15 National Invitation tournaments and three times have been selected for at-large berths in the NCAA championships.

With most of the schools taking midyear examinations, action was again sparse in college basketball circles Tuesday night. In games involving major teams, Wisconsin outclassed North Dakota State by 102-50, Auburn throttled Georgia Tech 52-40, Virginia Tech subdued Tennessee 83-73, Chicago Loyola rolled over New Orleans Loyola 96-73, Georgia humbled Georgia Southern 70-58, Ohio University whipped Muskingum 83-68, Akron nipped Kent State 71-70, and Tennessee Tech turned back Middle Tennessee 61-58.

Ellis' 31-point scoring output for St. John's, his season's high, gave him a career total of 1,009, and he became the seventh Redman player to reach the 1,000-point mark.

Wisconsin of the Big Ten ended a two-week layoff in boosting its record to 9-3 at the expense of nonleague foe North Dakota State. Ron Jackson, who will be ineligible in the second half of the season, was high for the Badgers, who led at the half 51-27.

Auburn's shuffle offense clicked in the second half against Georgia Tech, and the Tigers recorded their ninth victory in 14 outings, a game that does not count in the SEC standings. Auburn overcame a 25-23 halftime disadvantage, while limiting the cold-shooting Yellow Jackets to only 15 points after the intermission. Layton Johns of Auburn garnered scoring honors with 15 points.

Virginia Tech switched successfully from a zone to a man-to-man defense for the third straight game, and the maneuver again worked against Tennessee. The victory was the Gobblers' 29th in a row at home and lifted their record to 9-4. Lee Melear provided VPI's scoring impetus with 22 points, and Howie Pardue contributed 21 as the Gobblers led at halftime 41-32. Orb Bowling led the Vols with 18.

Chicago Loyola coasted to an easy victory over host New Orleans Loyola, racing to a commanding 61-31 bulge at the half. Jerry Harkness set the scoring tempo for the Chicagoans with 29 points, and sophomores Les Hunter and Vic Rouse chipped in with 24 points apiece. The Ramblers' record is 11-2.

BIG ONE DROPPED — Doug Ford gives a clenched fist signal after sinking a big eight foot putt on the 17th hole for a par three. Putt allowed Ford to catch Joe Campbell, who bogied the hole, and he went on to win the professional end of the National Pro-Amateur Championship at Pebble Beach, Calif. (AP Wirephoto)

Castoffs Click In AL Basketball

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A couple of players whose best efforts couldn't keep the Los Angeles Jets in the American Basketball League apparently are just what a couple of the surviving clubs needed.

Bill Spivey and Dan Swartz, assigned to the Hawaii Chiefs and New York Tapers after the Los Angeles club gave up for lack of attendance, made notably successful debuts with their new teams Tuesday night. Each led the way to his team's first victory of the second half of the ABL season.

Swartz teamed up with another New York newcomer, Roger Taylor, and paced the Tapers to a 129-123 victory over the Pittsburgh Rens at Commack, N.Y. Swartz scored 31 points and Taylor, acquired from Cleveland for Bob Keller, dropped in 27 as the Tapers outscored the Rens in each of the first three quarters. Connie Hawkins, as usual, led the Rens with 41 points.

Spivey spurred the Chiefs in a strong finish that brought a 106-100 decision over Cleveland in Honolulu.

'Real' Doubleheader Planned at Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Richmond Virginians will open their International League baseball season here Wednesday, April 25, with a day-night doubleheader—at single-game prices.

"In reply to charges that baseball hasn't done anything different in 40 years, this certainly is one move which is not only different but which is accommodating to the fans," said Jerry Waring, general manager of the New York Yankees' triple-A farm club.

Leroy Ellis Passes 1000 for St. John's

NEW YORK (AP)—Leroy Ellis became the seventh St. John's University basketball player to pass the 1,000-point mark as the Redmen tomahawked Canisius, 81-68, Tuesday night.

Ellis was high man for St. John's with 31 points, his season high. The 6-foot-10 center boosted his career mark to 1,009 in the game.

High scorer for the Griffins was Bill O'Connor, with 25.

St. John's has won 11, including the last five straight, and lost three. Canisius has won six and lost five.

Temperature Eases Across Wide Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Zero weather clung to the central Plateau region today but temperatures moderated across most of the nation from the central Rockies into northern New England.

Light snow and rain hit scattered sections of the country.

The zero belt stretched across areas in eastern and southeastern Idaho, northern Utah, southern Nevada and southeast Oregon. In Idaho it was -14 in Idaho Falls, and -10 in Pocatello and Dubois. Salt Lake City reported 5 below.

For the first morning in more than a week many Midwest and Rocky Mountain areas reported temperatures above zero. Readings were generally from 10 to 20 degrees from the central Rockies into northern New England although the mercury edged near zero in some parts of northern Maine.

Mild weather continued in Florida with a reading of 75 in Key West and West Palm Beach and 69 in Miami.

The 40s and 50s prevailed from the western Gulf Coast to the middle Atlantic Coast states. Readings in the Far West were near normal levels.

Network Program Hearing Resumed By Federal Board

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richard S. Salant, president of Columbia Broadcasting System news, said today informational programming for children is "one of the most perplexing and frustrating problems that we face."

Salant, first witness as the Federal Communication Commission's hearings on network programming entered their second day, said CBS has set aside a development fund in this area.

"We have three pilots under way to determine what we can do in the way of effective informational programming for children—one pilot on American history, one on literature, and one on the contemporary world of reality."

Salant was the last CBS witness before the FCC staff and members start asking questions on his and previous testimony.

He said news and information broadcasts on the CBS television network have been increased about 40 per cent over the last television season. These programs Salant said, would total about 690 hours "or about 17 per cent of the total network schedule."

CBS President Frank Stanton and James T. Aubrey Jr., president of the CBS television network, were witnesses Tuesday. The National Broadcasting Co. and American Broadcasting Co. will be heard in the next two weeks.

The FCC study is to determine the scope and character of network television operations, how much control the networks have over what American viewers see, and what kind of regulation is needed.

Chairman Newton Minow noted in his opening statement that while the FCC holds individual stations responsible for their programs, the character of these programs is determined primarily by the networks over which the commission has no control.

Stanton strongly opposed federal regulation, saying the way to better television programming is through competition from more stations and more networks.

Aubrey said networks help stations by providing them with a varied schedule of programs, plus revenues from those programs which are sponsored.

Hodges Sees Tax Cut Possible If Output Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges says a tax cut is "entirely conceivable" if the United States can increase its production by 4 per cent in the next year.

Hodges was asked at a news conference Tuesday whether a cut in the 52 per cent corporate income tax would help the United States maintain industrial leadership over the Soviet Union.

He said if annual U.S. production rises by 4 per cent, instead of the 2½ per cent average annual increase of recent years, "We could cut taxes not only corporate but personal."

Headhunters Return

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The old practice of headhunting in the jungled mountains of east India's Nagaland reportedly has been resumed.

A report today from Shillong, capital of Assam State, said village guards clashed several days ago with Naga guerrillas who are fighting independence from India for their area. The guards killed six guerrillas and cut off their heads to show as proof.

Burglars Steal Coin Collection

Burglars who had a yen for old coins are being sought by Claverack State Police. Some time Monday night the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stoner of Kinderhook was entered and a coin collection valued at between $8,000 and $9,000 was taken. The coins had been collected over a period of 15 years as a hobby. The coins were taken from a metal cabinet in the Stoner bedroom.

The burglars apparently knew what they wanted. A glass bottle with 4,000 pennies was ignored. Stoner is a director of the Berkshire Coin Club in Pittsfield.

Gasoline Blaze

The Centerville Fire Company was called to a blaze at the home of C. A. Canoles on the Woodstock-West Saugerties Road this morning, but the flames had been extinguished before their arrival. Scotty Myers of the Centerville Company said gasoline apparently had spilled on the ground as the Canoles automobile was being started. The fuel became ignited and since the car was parked near the house, the fire company was called. No damage resulted, according to Myers.

Negligence Suit Is Settled Here

A negligence action brought by Fred Gerlach against Theresa Cole as administrator of the estate of her husband, Raymond Cole, was settled after it had been partially tried in Supreme Court Tuesday. The action, resulting from a collision between the Gerlach and Cole cars on Route 32 in 1958, was being tried before Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth and a jury. Represented by Guido Napoletano, Gerlach sought to recover for injuries. John E. Morris was attorney of record for defendant.

Congolese Troops Flown to Kongolo

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Loyal Congolese government troops and a team of U.N. administrators have been flown to the north Katanga town of Kongolo, where troops on New Year's Day massacred 19 white Roman Catholic priests.

The contingent of 160 Congolese troops radioed that the Kongolo airfield was safe for the arrival of Gen. Victor Lundula, the Congo army's eastern commander, who was to fly there today with two Red Cross representatives.

The first message gave no details of the situation in the town, but it was believed the troops who shot the priests before a crowd of terrified schoolchildren had pulled out of the town.

U.N. aerial reconnaissance over the area has revealed troop movements along the road leading out of Kongolo, including to Sola, where they are believed to have overrun another Roman Catholic mission.

In Leopoldville, deposed leftist Antoine Gizenga was transferred under guard to a military camp during the night.

Hudson to Delay School Repairs

Hudson board of education is not going to repair at the present time the Fourth Street school building which was damaged by fire on Nov. 22, 1961.

The board on Monday evening decided to await plans and estimates of construction costs that would eliminate the Fourth Street, Sixth Street and Allen Street schools.

Albert E. Milliken, Kingston architect, has been retained to prepare preliminary plans and determine the cost estimates for renovation of the three elementary schools. He will receive $4,500 for his services.

Last week the Hudson Advisory Council of the Board of Education urged that immediate steps be taken to repair the burned school at a cost estimated at $57,000. That action is now postponed pending determination of cost of the new school program.

The final plan decided upon will be presented to the voters of the Hudson City School District for their decision.

Glenn Following Routine in Line With D-Minus 3

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Relaxed and with a fresh crewcut, astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. today followed his "D-minus 3" routine with all signs pointing to an attempt to orbit him around the earth on Saturday.

Change in Diet

The schedule three days before flight usually calls for rest, relaxation, sun and exercise, sleep and reading and a few technical meetings. There is also a change in diet, to begin eating foods creating little body waste.

Within about 24 hours, experts had located and repaired a leak in the oxygen flow system in Glenn's capsule, putting in a new valve and ducting. This fault had forced a postponement in his flight, once set for today.

Glenn personally checked out the life-supporting systems in the capsule Tuesday. His back-up pilot, M. Scott Carpenter, flew a pretended three-orbit, 4½-hour mission in space.

Everything now looks satisfactory, officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration indicated, with preparations going forward for a launching attempt "no earlier than Saturday."

Weather Is Key

Weather or other unexpected problems could force more delay.

While Carpenter was "flying" the spacecraft, Glenn scooted out of seclusion at the space base to Cocoa Beach for a $1.50 haircut —reading a magazine rather than engage in small talk with his barber.

He also reviewed results of a thorough physical examination with Dr. William K. Douglas, the astronauts' personal physician. Physically, Glenn is set to go, said the doctor. Glenn, a bug on exercise for fitness, went jogging later in the afternoon.

Carlino Is Tied To Land Deal in N. Y. Post Story

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Post said today it had turned up a new conflict of interest charge against Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino.

The Post said the charge concerned Carlino's "apparent espousal of a pro-conservative approach to a Nassau County park proposal—and his participation, at about the same time, in efforts to defeat it."

Carlino, reached at his Albany office, said he had not seen the Post story and had no immediate comment. He said he expected to issue a statement after studying the paper and looking up some documents.

The newspaper gave this account:

"On the land deal, Carlino assured proponents of the park proposal of his support, but presently appeared as the lawyer for the syndicate that eventually bought the land and developed it commercially.

"And while he was reassuring the conservationists, Carlino was a member of the Assembly's House Rules Committee that killed the bill which would have permitted condemnation of the land for a public park and recreational area.

"The property, 119 acres in Valley Stream and Hewlett, was sold Feb. 27, 1957, for $1,414,500 by the Long Island Water Co., the

HEARING ABOUT NEW LAB — Federal Systems Division President Charles Benton Jr. describes the features of the new laboratory location in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to: Ralph G. IBM Plans New Florida Lab, Mork Is Manager

The Federal Systems Division of the International Business Machines Corporation today announced plans for an expanded technical capability with the establishment of an additional engineering laboratory at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to develop advanced military control and space support systems.

Federal Systems Division President Charles Benton Jr., said "We are leasing this facility in the midst of the growing Florida technical and industrial community concerned with U. S. space and defense efforts. This expansion into a temporary facility—and eventual selection of a permanent location — will continue to make us increasingly responsive to the most advanced government requirements for electronic information-handling and control systems in space and defense."

In by April

Benton stated that a group of Federal Systems Division engineering personnel, specializing in the development of military electronic systems, will begin to occupy the Fort Lauderdale laboratory in April, 1962. In the following 15 months approximately 500 engineering personnel will move into the new center.

Local Job Level Unchanged

Commenting on the new laboratory location for the Federal Systems Division in Florida and its impact on present employment levels in Kingston, Richard J. Whalen, general manager of the local IBM plant, said that it is anticipated only approximately 250 Kingston engineering personnel will be involved in the occupancy of the new laboratory over the 15 month period. Due to the anticipated expansion of Data Systems Division's requirements for the development of large-scale commercial computers, the recruitment of highly specialized electronics engineers for Kingston will maintain IBM's present employment level at the local plant.

Benton announced that Ralph G. Mork, manager of the Kingston engineering laboratory, has been named manager of the Fort Lauderdale laboratory.

The new engineering group will translate government requirements for total mobile and ground-based information-handling and control systems into electronic equipment in such areas as space support, space surveillance, undersea warfare, command and control, and intelligence. This effort will include:

Ground - support equipment, special purpose ground-based and mobile processors for military environments, sensor and display devices, image and signal processing equipment.

The Federal Systems Division will temporarily occupy about 100,000 square feet in the Fort Lauderdale facility, located in the Las Olas Plaza.

Alfred Zimmerman of Highland, who will be the toastmaster, is also the chairman for Thursday morning's seminars.

Speakers Listed

Speakers at the banquet will include Lamont W. Marvin of the New York and New England Apple Institute, Dr. Robert Smock and David Blanpied of Cornell University and Joseph Firth of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

Schwenk Is Hopeful of Uptown UR

Mayor, Planning Group Tour Area

Mayor John J. Schwenk, after a tour of the uptown area with planning officials Tuesday, was hopeful today of obtaining urban renewal aid there.

A project uptown, it has been noted, would assist the city in its accomplishment of adequate off-street parking along with rehabilitation of the area without conflicting with plans for downtown.

Others in Gorup

With the mayor on the uptown inspection tour were Roy Cuneo of the urban renewal planning staff in New York, Michael Pine, urban renewal agency field representative, Arthur Sweid, of Raymond & May Associates, city planning consultants, Alexander Yosman, housing authority director and William Klein, Mayor Schwenk's executive assistant.

The uptown area is to be changed through razing of the Washington Avenue viaduct and replacement of the Esopus Creek bridge, through and off street parking project and throgh construction of a shopping center off Fair Street Extension and within city bounds.

Mayor Scwenk today reported prospects for an uptown project

Standard Closes Deal for Store, Plans Big Sale

Acquisition of the former Kingston Theatre site at 323 Wall Street, from Walter Reade Theatres, was announced officially today by William Fienberg, president of Standard Furniture Company. Negotiations for the property formerly occupied by Union Fern, have been in progress for several weeks and Fienberg said today the transaction has been closed, at an undisclosed price. He added that Standard's continued progress in its 23 years in the City of Kingston prompted the expansion.

Giant Removal Sale

With the announcement, came word that Standard will start a giant removal sale at its present location, 267 Fair Street, on Thursday at 9 a. m. According to Manager Jay Melton, prices on many articles have been slashed as much as 67 per cent and he explained that it is the intention of the company to clear out, not only the store, but the warehouse to the bare walls. He added that the firm plans to pass on to its customers the saving of the cost of packaging and moving and also, as is the company custom, there is free delivery and no charge for credit.

Chamber to Hear College Head at Banquet Monday

Guest speaker at the annual banquet of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce next Monday night at Governor Clinton Hotel will be Dr. Thomas H. Hamilton, president of the State University of New York.

Dr. Hamilton will speak on The Establishment and Influence of Community Colleges.

Ticket Deadline Saturday

John W. Egbert, chairman of the Banquet Committee, suggested today that all reservations for the dinner be made promptly. They will be accepted until noon Saturday.

The Chamber of Commerce officers for 1962 will be installed and the seven new directors presented at the banquet. Another special feature will be the presentation of a citation to Macdonald DeWitt.

Dr. Hamilton has a very broad and intensive background in college teaching and administration, before assuming his post as president of the State University in 1959. In his present capacity he has general supervision of all state supported colleges and institutes, including community colleges. The committee asked Dr. Hamilton to speak because of the forthcoming establishment of a community college in Ulster County. Anyone interested in attending may make reservations at the office of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Assistant Chicago Dean

Dr. Hamilton attended DePew University and received his masters and doctors degrees from the University of Chicago. From 1943 to 1946 he served as an officer of the U. S. Navy. From

Leaders Lack Power to End It

Soviet-Sino Row Could End in Outright Split

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The row between Russia and Red China over Communist strategy for communizing the world has become so intensive neither the Soviet nor the Chinese leaders have the power to put an end to it.

U.S. officials said that the dispute could lead to an outright split between the two huge Communist powers although they do not think this is at all probable, at least in the forseeable future.

Relations to Worsen

What they do expect is a continuation of the bitter argument which has produced a sharp ideological division between Moscow and Peiping with a steady but slow worsening of relations between the two Communist governments.

The U.S. policy toward this cold war within the Red bloc is to sit by and see what happens; officials feel that any open effort to exploit the Communist differences would probably backfire.

Evidence is found in a Moscow broadcast to China last week that the Soviet leaders may now be trying to reach over the heads of the Red Chinese leaders and persuade the Chinese rank and file Communists that Soviet policy is right.

The broadcast, made in the classical Mandarin Chinese which is widely understood in China, demanded in effect that Communists everywhere recognize the primary position of the Soviet Communist party in leading the Red international movement.

JFK Attack Vital

Considerable interest also was aroused here in an editorial from the Chinese Communist newspaper Peoples Daily that made a bitter attack on President Kennedy's State of the Union message.

Among other things the editorial indicated that the Chinese Reds are building up a new anti-American campaign—at a time when Soviet Premier Khrushchev

Full Break Of Ties Is Demanded

Two Other Latin Nations Support Coexistence View

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP)—A leader of the drive for stern punishment of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime in Cuba warned the hemisphere today some nations may intervene in Cuba on their own unless the Organization of American States acts forcefully.

The warning was delivered by Colombia, sponsor of the resolution which produced the Punta del Este conference of inter-American foreign ministers on Cuban communism.

Would Condemn Castro

General debate opened a few hours after Latin America's two most powerful nations, Argentina and Brazil, joined in a commmon front proposing hemispheric coexistence with Cuba while condemning Castro for embracing communism.

Opening the debate, Colombian Foreign Minister Jose Joaquin Caicedo Castrilla demanded a collective economic and diplomatic break with Cuba by all 20 nations sitting in judgment here. His call was echoed by Guatemala.

Caicedo did not say which nations might intervene in Cuba. Countries such as Colombia and the Central American nations have felt heavy pressure from Castro commmunist infiltration tactics.

Gets Prolonged Applause

The Colombian stand expressed feelings of a group, including the United States, which seeks the strongest possible action against Castro. The speech won prolonged applause from the delegates, many of whom have been working for milder action.

Guatemala's foreign minister, Jesus Unda Murillo, denounced Cuban ties with the Soviet Union and Red China and called the current OAS attitude suicidal.

He contended it is farcical to talk about the principle of self-determination with regard to Cuba, a communist state. Guatemala, a target of Cuban attacks, provided one of the training grounds for the anti-Castro force which staged the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba last April.

The agreement between Argentina and Brazil, who have led rival blocs at the inter-American foreign ministers conference, came in the early morning hours in advance of the conference's first full-dress public debate.

Argentina and Brazil pushed ahead with a compromise proposal to bar Fidel Castro's government from a voice in deliberations of the Organization of American States on the ground that the revolutionary regime does not represent the Cuban people. The door would be left open for Cuba to return to the hemispheric fold should Castro change his ways or should an anti-Communist government emerge in Cuba.

Isolation Penalty Mild

Isolation from the OAS is a penalty far milder than the diplomatic and economic sanctions President Kennedy's team had hoped for when it came to the Inter-American foreign ministers' meeting. Despite fears of congressional anger that would produce opposition to Alliance for Progress appropriations, the U.S. delegation

$500 a Year Per Pupil Too Small Allen Declares

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Diefendorf Committee on Public-School Financing enters the final phase of its work — drafting of formal recommendations — after ending a public hearing here today.

The committee will submit to the 1962 Legislature, its plan for revising and consolidating the many formulas under which the state distributes $800 million a year in aid to education.

The most recent advice on what it should propose included a proposal by State Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. to set costs for determining state aid substantially higher than the $500 a year per pupil recommended by the Diefendorf staff.

Allen said "without much larger amounts" than the $500 suggested by the staff, "it will be virtually impossible for most of our schools to produce the level of educational quality so urgently needed."

Allen commented in a letter, made public Tuesday, in which he told committee chairman Charles H. Diefendorf that, despite some

Mahoney Asks Welfare Cuts In Half Billion Program

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney, a leading critic of state welfare policies, called on the Legislature today to seize the initiative and adopt reforms he said would cut the state's annual, half-billion-dollar relief budget.

Mahoney said his plan for mandating changes in the State Social Welfare Department, a frequent target of his, would eliminate relief cheating, encourage efficient management, provide for research into welfare problems and broaden work-relief programs.

Mahoney asked the Legislature to:

1. Establish within the welfare department a Bureau of Frauds to oversee prosecution of welfare cheats, a Bureau of Social Research and a Bureau of Economy and Efficiency to help local districts modernize procedures.

2. Authorize local welfare districts to establish work relief programs for able-bodied adults receiving help under the aid-to-dependent children program, a federally aided plan in which work relief has been barred but is expected to be permissible under pending changes in federal law.

3. Direct the Welfare Department to simplify and condense its rules "to increase efficiency and raise morale in public welfare agencies."

4. Create "intensive, in-service training programs for welfare employes aimed at both improving services and cutting costs."

Mahoney said in a statement that "welfare is a multi-million-dollar business. It's about time we started applying sound, reasonable management principles to better serve welfare clients and the taxpayers who must bear this tremendous cost."

Sen. Henry Wise (R-Watertown) was co-sponsor of the bill.

In other state-government developments:

Deficiency Budget — Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino rallied sufficient Republican votes to pass Rockefeller's $54 - million deficiency budget. The measure had been stalled because of GOP opposition to a $20-million item for buying office-building sites in downtown Albany, a Democratic stronghold.

SCAD—The Assembly gave final legislative approval and sent to Rockefeller Tuesday a bill to increase from 5 to 7 the membership of the State Commission Against Discrimination to handle a growing backlog of cases. The governor had recommended the increase.

Workmen's Compensation — The Assembly Republican majority approved in a party conference Rockefeller's bill to increase from $50 to $55 a week minimum workmen's compensation benefits.

She was thrown from the automobile after it struck the truck, which was parked off the road, State Police said.

State police notified the woman's husband, Tauno J. Wento, who resides in Whiteport.

Surviving in addition to her husband are two sons, James R. and Nilo J. Wento and a daughter, Cynthia.

Mrs. Wento was employed as a clerk at a New Paltz drug store.

A-B-C's on Background Of Military Censorship

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This week Robert A. Lovett, defense secretary under President Truman, said he feels that "as a government we talk too much (and) give the impression of being unbuttoned."

He told this to a Senate subcommittee which began hearings Tuesday on whether military men are permitted to talk enough. The hearings will go on for weeks, probably get overheated, and will take three directions:

Boils Down to One

(1) Censorship of speeches by military officers before civilian groups; (2) teaching or educating troops about communism, and (3) participation by military men in seminars and public meetings.

All three questions come down to this: How much freedom shall military officers have to speak on matters not directly connected with their military duties?

President Kennedy's administration—like President Eisenhower's before it—has a policy which insists speeches military or other government officials give on national security matters be in line with White House views and the American foreign policy.

The investigation is the result of charges by Sen. Strom Thurmond, a major general in the Army Reserve and a South Carolina Democrat, that the Pentagon "muzzled" anti-Communist talks by military men.

'Direct Moscow Orders'

He said the muzzling was done on orders "direct from Moscow." He wouldn't elaborate on that one.

Two former high-ranking officers are most frequently mentioned in discussion of this case: Adm. Arleigh Burke, former chief of naval operations, and Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, former commander of the 24th Army Division in West Germany.

When Kennedy took office last year Moscow decided to release two American fliers held prisoners for 18 months after their plane had been shot down in the Barents Sea off northern Russia.

The Kennedy administration and Moscow consulted in some form on this release because on Jan. 25 Kennedy and the Russians issued simultaneous statements on it. That was five days after Kennedy took office.

About that time a speech by Burke was censored. Kennedy explained later that no one in this country knew at the time whether the fliers would be released.

JFK Lays Down Policy

The President said: "Therefore, there is some value in coordinating statements made by high-ranking responsible officials. It is the policy which must be followed by this administration."

Walker's case was different. He lectured his troops in Germany on anti-communism and a publication, Overseas Weekly, said he also described "as definitely pink" Truman, Dean Acheson, former Secretary of state, and others.

The Army investigated and reprimanded him, according to Army Secretary Elvis J Stahr Jr., "for taking injudicious actions and making derogatory statements about prominent Americans."

The Army record showed he refused to answer—taking the equivalent of the 5th Amendment—when asked if he acted contrary to military regulations by advising his men on American political matters.

Opposed Action

Walker, relieved of his command, quit the Army, began making speeches, and last week announced he has become "the symbol of patriotism for this country."

Thurmond said later he didn't know all the facts in the case but still didn't think Walker should have been bounced. At the same time he said officers should stay out of partisan politics.

Everybody seems agreed that military men must be subordinate to the civilian leaders of the government. The dispute is over how much they should be allowed to say.

General Eisenhower issued a long statement Tuesday which went around and around but did say "let our informed military speak, always under properly established policies and the general—not petty—supervision of their civilian superiors."

But, since it's this very degree of supervision which is under investigation, Eisenhower didn't solve anything.

Kennedy said last year he knows of 65 efforts by Eisenhower's administration "to make sure that speeches by members of the military were in accordance with the general objectives of American foreign policy."

Canadian Animal Food Makers Held For Smuggling

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. customs agents have arrested and accused a Canadian animal food dealer of smuggling more than 230 tons of meat into this country since last March.

Arthur L. Lorenz, 37, of Durham, Ont., waived examination Tuesday after his arrest and was ordered held in $10,000 bail by U. S. Commissioner Thomas J. Ryan Sr.

Lorenz was charged with smuggling beef into the United States at the Peace Bridge in 20 separate truckloads. The agents said the meat was trucked to Allentown, Pa., where it was made into dog food. Lorenz evaded payment of $13,908 in duty, the agents charged.

They said the beef was hidden under large quantities of horsemeat, which is admissible, duty-free, to the U. S. The value of the smuggled meat was placed at $59,092 while the value of the horsemeat was $20,700 agents said.

Agents said Lorenz' last shipment was seized several weeks ago after a joint investigation by the agents and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

$264,000 Award to Walkers Slated for Payment Jan. 30

A $264,000 verdict awarded Milton F. Walker and wife in the Court of Claims for lands taken by the State of New York for relocation of the Sawkill road and the Albany Avenue arterial route spur, will not be appealed it was learned Tuesday.

Notice has been received from the Attorney General's office by John E. Gotelli and John E. Egan, attorneys for Walker, that there will be no appeal from the judgment and that payment of the award will be made on Jan. 30, in accordance with the verdict which was obtained last November in the New York State Court of Claims.

Deprived of Land

For the eight acres of land taken an action was commenced in 1959 in the Court of Claims. It was alleged that the owners had been deprived of developing the lands for a shopping center. After trial of the action, in which it was contended the owners had been deprived of putting the land to the best use, that of a shopping center, the award of over a quarter of a million dollars was made. The judgment carries interest from March 6, 1959 and the total amount which will be paid to the petitioners is $288,687.82.

It was alleged that the best part of the farm, which had been in use for many years as a market garden, were the eight acres of land taken for the highway improvements and that the remaining acreage was now useless for a shopping center site.

Largest Area Award

Relocation of the Sawkill road, closing of the Brabrant road along Esopus Creek and the taking of lands for the new alignment of Sawkill Road and the Albany Avenue Arterial Route spur it was alleged had destroyed the right to the best use of the land, that of a shopping center.

At the time the Court of Claims awarded the large sum to the Walkers, it was believed an appeal would be taken to the Appellate Division, Supreme Court, in an effort to review the judgement which is believed to be the largest ever awarded in Uister County for land taken for highway purposes.

Counsel for plaintiffs were notified on Tuesday that no appeal would be taken and that the judgement would be paid with interest on Jan. 30.

The award of $264,000 for the eight acres taken for relocation of Sawkill Road and the Albany Avenue Arterial spur, does not include payment for lands taken for the Thruway and Route 28 traffic circle. Awards for this taking had already been made.

Final Action on Postal Increase Expected Today

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has tentatively approved a bill raising postage a penny per letter and increasing "junk mail" rates. Final action is expected today.

The House added $79.2 million to a rate increase bill worked out by the Kennedy administration and House Democratic leaders, producing a measure that would bring in $700 million if accepted by the Senate. There is some doubt on that score, however.

The bill raises first class and air mail rates by a penny, to 5 and 8 cents, for a total increase in those categories of $455 million. It also calls for $53 million more in the rates paid by newspapers and magazines, $171 million more in third-class rates—those used mostly by direct mail advertisers—and about $20 million more in miscellaneous increases.

All increases would be effective next July 1.

It was in third-class rates the administration got more than it asked for. The administration and the House leadership, in a compromise bill, had asked for third-class increases totaling $93 million, which would have covered about 85 per cent of the handling cost of such mail.

Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W. Va., offered an amendment increasing the total to $171 million, covering full cost. A surge of resentment against bulk mail advertising—some called it "junk mail"—carried his proposal by a voice vote.

Garment Workers Named in Lawsuit

NEW YORK (AP)—Three women's wear industry groups and a local of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union have been accused by the federal government of conspiring to fix prices and allocate business.

Named Tuesday in a federal civil antitrust suit were the Greater Blouse, Skirt and Neckwear Contractors Association Inc. and the National Association of Blouse Manufacturing Inc., both of New York; the Slate Belt Apparel Contractors Association Inc. of Bangor, Pa., and Local 25 of the ILGWU.

The action parallels an indictment on criminal antitrust charges that was returned against the same defendants in 1959.

The government charges the defendants conspired from 1949 to 1959 to fix prices and from 1949 until the present to allocate business.

The 300 member firms in Greater Blouse and the 100 in Slate accounted for half—or $175 million worth—of 1957 wholesale blouse sales in the United States, the government said.

Red-U.S. Film Planned

NEW YORK (AP)— Plans are under way to produce a joint Soviet-American motion picture.

Producer Lester Cowan announced Tuesday that both American and Russian actors would be in the cast and scenes would be filmed in both countries.

Tax Relief Bill Passed to Slash Taxes on Stock

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a measure that would cut millions of dollars from the tax bill of Du Pont stockholders in the event they receive $3.5 billion in General Motors stock from an antitrust decision.

Senate passage late Tuesday, after a week of debate and months of maneuvers, completed congressional action on the legislation. The House passed it last September. President Kennedy's approval was considered certain.

The Supreme Court has ruled that Du Pont's possession of 63 million shares of G. M. violates antitrust laws and that the chemical firm must dispose of it.

Du Pont said it would prefer to do this by distributing the shares to its stockholders but could not because of the heavy taxes under present law, which would require the recipients to pay on the full value of the G. M. stock at regular income tax rates.

The tax relief measure would permit them to pay at capital gains rates—half the normal income levy up to a 25 per cent maximum—and only on the difference between what they paid for Du Pont and what the G. M. now is worth.

This means an estimated two-thirds of the 200,000 Du Pont stockholders would not have to pay a tax on receipt of the stock.

The bill would reduce the taxes on such a distribution from more than $1 billion to about $470 million.

28 More Flee To West Berlin

BERLIN (AP) — An informed source reported at least 28 people from Communist territory broke through to West Berlin Tuesday night. About half were women and there were three children.

It was the largest number reported in many weeks. Details of the breakout were withheld, and official sources would not confirm the report.

Rejects Hoffa's Bid

CLEVELAND (AP)— The Bakery & Confectionary Workers Union (B&C) convention has turned down three proposals concerning the independent union's future—including a personal invitation from James R. Hoffa that they merge with his Teamsters Union.

Now the 365 delegates to the union's 26th convention turn their attention to a proposal from an anti-administration group which wants to return to the AFL-CIO. Drafted by the Local Unions Reunification Committee (LURC), the fourth proposal calls for negotiations with the AFL - CIO American Bakery and Confectionery Workers (ABC) "for the purpose of effectuating merger and unification."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 24, 1962

THERE WENT A CONTINENT

This is an era when men talk casually of death to the millionth power. The champions at the casual approach are the weapons scientists, who seem accustomed to thinking of people as statistics to be blown sky high in this manner or that.

The other day an expert on missiles and space vehicles suggested that after 1970 the generals may have at their disposal a so-called asteroid bomb whose power to destroy would make hydrogen bombs look like popguns. The idea is to aim an asteroid at the earth—hopefully, that part of the earth you want to smash into rubble.

"This unusual weapon system," said the scientist, "shares with the biological weapons the possibility for masquerading as a natural catastrophe." Tricky, eh? No blame, afterward. But let's just hope that when they shatter a continent with an asteroid bomb they'll be a bit careful about which continent they're shattering.

Some men make a hobby out of restoring old model autos. Others make wrecks out of new models.

OVERSEAS LUNCHES

A Department of Agriculture study shows that this year countries inhabited by almost two billion people will be short of food. At the same time, storage bins in the United States will be bursting with food. The dilemma is a familiar one, and it cannot be resolved as simply as is sometimes imagined.

One program, however, is direct and has no adverse effect on domestic or world markets. This is the plan to provide school lunches. George McGovern, food for peace director, is placing a high priority on expansion of the overseas school lunch program and hopes that within five years this undertaking will supplement the diet of some 500 million children.

No aid program has more appeal. None will be more profitable, in the long run, to this country or to the world's youth. The overseas school lunch program not only offers an effective way to reduce U. S. food surpluses; it also promises great nutritional —and, indirectly, educational—benefits.

The Internal Revenue Service has launched an attack on tax bribes. We'd also like to see an attack on tax increases.

CATHOLIC CHARITIES

New York Catholic Charities this year embarks on its 43rd annual fund appeal. The financial drive will be held from April 1 to 11 in 402 parishes of the New York Archdiocese. This year's goal has been set at $3,392,254.

Through the central organization itself and through its 193 affiliated health and welfare institutions and agencies over half a million persons in the community annually benefit by Catholic Charities services.

Some 17,000 volunteers will make a house-to-house canvass of Catholic families in the Archdiocese, which includes Ulster County and embraces an area of about 4,000 square miles.

The extent of the service achieved by this organization impels continued generous support from the public.

IT'S A GAMBLE

A couple of Kentucky towns hit hard by new federal antigambling laws, plus a local crackdown, are appealing to Washington for help. It seems a good many people employed in gaming establishments are out of work.

What the two towns are hoping for is to have placed in their midst one of the four new income tax processing centers projected by the Internal Revenue Service.

There is no strong indication that the two localities, Newport and Covington, will be so favored.

If the bid to IRS fails, perhaps the Area Redevelopment Act can be made to apply, on the ground that the unemployed gamesters' present skills are out of date and they need retraining.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE TARIFF

President Kennedy's proposal to reduce the tariff could eliminate certain industries altogether. Some American companies, which have exported huge sums to Common Market countries, or to Great Britain or Canada, for the building of industries there would benefit by exporting their products from those countries to the United States. It would appear that they are competing with themselves. Actually, they are not competing with themselves because while we speak of exporting capital, what has been exported are jobs and what is imported without tariff protection is goods manufactured by cheaper labor costs, cheaper tax costs and even cheaper raw material costs.

How can American jobs be safeguarded under such conditions? There can be no question but that President Kennedy seeks to build up the economy of Western Europe as an offset to the building up of the economy of the Soviet Universal State. But while that is being done, what becomes of the American economy? Certain industries would inevitably be shut tight within the United States because they have no export market and cannot compete in the American market unless protected.

We face here a dichotomy which is not answered by a rule of political necessity. It is necessary to find a solution which answers both problems; namely, 1. How to continue to build West European and Japan's industries so that the United States has effective allies, and 2. How to sustain jobs in the United States so that the American worker is protected.

In any discussion of the tariff, Americans are accustomed to speak of protecting infant industries. But the industries are no longer infants. What we are dealing with today is the protection of jobs, with the social problems of maintaining a uniform standard of life, with the avoidance of peaks and valleys of production so that there will be no depressions.

To achieve this constructively, we must be able to maintain an export ratio which will keep our people at work or we must stimulate the domestic consumption of goods so that we will keep our people at work. Unemployment is socially intolerable. Equally, the reduction of our standard of life is intolerable.

We face therefore a very serious social problem which cannot be solved by politics alone. This problem requires an immediate acknowledgement that the center of American domestic and international politics depends upon the availability of jobs in the United States and the value of the money that those jobs bring to each family. If the family is accepted as the unit for consideration, it is impossible to tolerate unemployment for any reason whatsoever. The concentration of planning must be focussed on jobs.

Unemployment is not likely to produce a revolution in the United States such as a famine produces in an Asiatic country. The reason is that in the United States we can eat even if we are forced to barter food for manufactured goods or if we become dependent upon the state. But a depression would force upon our people price controls and price controls eventually mean controls of every economic media. We have had enough experience with that to know that it results in social unrest and unnecessary changes. How long such controls can be exercised without an unfavorable concentration of power, no one can estimate. A concentration of power stimulates political strife.

Of course, political changes are moving so rapidly that much happens while one discusses what might happen. This swiftness is frightening and it has the curious effect of producing a political apathy which tends to fool the politician that the public is satisfied with his conduct. But is it a political apathy or is it a waiting period for a new leadership? This too needs to be studied, for much of President Kennedy's strength comes from the inherent weakness of the Republican Party which has no leadership, and no program. Should the Republicans come to life, the Democrats might be shocked by an exhibition of their own weakness.

It is possible that it is not the people who are apathetic as much as it is that all leadership has disappeared except that of President Kennedy, which means that in a two party country there is only one party. When there is only one side to take, the people often take no sides. For President Kennedy it would be better if the Republicans had something to say and someone to say it.

Suppose we were being shown around the laboratory where they keep Univac or some other of the electric computers. And suppose I told you I was going to press a button somewhere to see what would happen. Any button. I rather imagine you'd do what you could to restrain me.

Yet you have a three-pound electronic computer just beneath your hat. It contains something between 12 and 14 million cells, each acting as a sort of vacuum tube or transistor. Each of these is capable of sending electric impulses of sufficient intensity to be measurable by detecting machines (electro-encephalograms).

Engineers estimate that these cells operate on the equivalent of less than 100 watts. They also tell us that a manmade machine that contained that many transistors would need 100 million watts. That is to say, all the power generated by Niagara Falls. And to cool the tubes in this manmade machine, you'd have to use all the water that descends from the Falls.

We now have in our possession drugs that influence our computer brains. They're called "mood drugs." Some of them calm and tranquilize. Others are pepper-uppers. How they act and where they act to do what they do, no one of us knows at this moment.

Yet, knowing no more about them than I'd know if I stood in front of Univac, and having little more knowledge of what might happen than I'd have if I pressed a button somewhere on Univac's panel board, millions of us are dosing ourselves with calmatives, tranquilizers, pep-up pills to delay fatigue and overcome sleepiness, and "brain stimulants."

This is not to deny the usefulness of these drugs in the treatment of patients who have severe mental illnesses.

But it is meant to call to your attention the folly of self-prescribing or taking mood drugs of uncertain action any time you feel a bit tense, nervous, or down in the mouth. Or because you're intent on driving those extra few miles to get wherever it is you want to get.

WASHINGTON, (NEA)–Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy came out of his office with a group of foreign visitors, all bearing hardcover, autographed copies of his book, "The Enemy Within."

Said a friend waiting in the outer office:

"I'd like one of those myself. All I've got is the paperback edition I bought."

"A paperback!" exclaimed Kennedy. "How can I make anything from the book if people go around buying paperbacks?"

HOW CALIFORNIA'S "Pat" Brown got his nickname was revealed by President John Cosgrove when the governor appeared before the National Press Club.

"Mr. Brown grew up as 'Edmund Gerald,'" Cosgrove explained, "but during the war, at a rally sponsored by Liberty Bonds, he cried, 'Give me liberty or give me death!' And it's been 'Patrick Henry Brown' ever since!"

BROWN GOT A FEW laughs himself when he remarked that in keeping with President Kennedy's wishes for a fitter America, he had joined Chief Justice Earl Warren on a recent duck hunt.

"You may have heard that he shot his limit of five ducks while I got only four," said Brown. "It probably was the first time in history a Chief Justice took the fifth."

When the laughs died down, Brown added: "But there was some precedent for my performance. I gave the fifth duck a commutation."

WHEN ASKED IF Richard Nixon—Brown's probable opponent for California's governorship this fall—was also keeping in shape for the campaign, Brown answered that Nixon had to delay training until he finished his book, "My Six Crises."

"Most of us thought there were only four crises," Brown cracked, "and they all took place on television in the season of 1960."

A SOUTHERN SENATOR, chatting with a Washington cab driver, told him he might be debating Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota on radio or TV.

"You'll be a fool if you do," advised the cabbie. "He rode in my cab a few days ago, and you can't get a word in edgewise."

NOW THAT Averell Harriman is back in Washington full time as assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, a story is being revived about his campaign tactics in the New York governorship race against Nelson Rockefeller.

After waiters, bellhops, cab drivers and the like received one of the Democratic millionaire's "John D. Rockefeller dimes," and registered the natural facial disgust, the story goes that Harriman would always say, "Now remember. Be sure to vote Republican."

LATEST CRACK on the Peace Corps is that the young men and women it sends overseas to teach will learn a great deal, if nobody else does.

NEWEST GOBBLEDYGOOK word you have to toss around or drop casually to show that you're really sophisticated is EURAM. It stands for European-American. Any time you're showing off what you know about NATO, the Common Market or Atlantic Community you say, "But the EURAM concept is . . ."

Heading the list, quite naturally, was the entry, "Secretary of the Army . . . Elvis J. Starr Jr."

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Three hundred pages of "gobbledygook" on how the Kennedy administration intends to operate, if it can, a managed economy reminiscent of the 1930s have been submitted in a message to Congress. Part of it is a statement signed by the President, and part of it is a report to him by the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

The net of it all is that the executive branch of the Federal government intends to use its monetary powers, its controls of credit, its public-works appropriations and its powers of taxation to influence the operations of American business. But not the slightest measures of restraint is to be exerted upon labor-union monopolies which bring about inflation and depreciate the dollar's purchasing power.

Congress has yet to concur in the recommendations of the message, but there are many powers already vested in the executive branch of the government that can make all the difference in the world between having a recession or depression and having prosperity. Typical of the astigmatism of the Administration is the following excerpts from the President's message:

"When better plant and equipment enable the labor force to produce more in the same number of hours, there is more to share among all the contributors to the productive process—and this can happen with no increase in prices. Gains achieved in this manner endure, while gains achieved in one turn of the price-wage spiral vanish on the next.

'Productivity Benchmark'

"The nation must rely on the good sense and public spirit of our business and labor leaders to hold the line on the price level in 1962. If labor leaders in our major industries will accept the productivity benchmark as a guide to wage objectives, and if management in these industries will practice equivalent restraint in their price decisions, the year ahead will be a brilliant chapter in the record of the responsible exercise of freedom."

But what is the "productivity benchmark?" The President's Council of Economic Advisers, in the very same report, puts it this way:

"How is the public to judge whether a particular wage-price decision is in the national interest? No simple test exists, and it is not possible to set out systematically all of the many considerations which bear on such a judgment. However, since the question is of prime importance to the strength and progress of the American economy, it deserves wide-spread public discussion and clarification of the issues. What follows is intended as a contribution to such a discussion."

Subject of Unions

But "what follows" is limited in scope and significantly omits all references to the irresponsibility of trade unions and the monopoly power they wield through industry-wide bargaining. Somehow the entire document, including the President's part of it, shows a timidity, if not a fear, about dealing with the touchy subject of union excesses. Instead, there is emphasis on management's tendency to increase prices to absorb labor costs, as if this were a sin.

Both the President and his economic consultants, however, would have been well advised to study what happened in New York a week ago and take its lesson to heart. The Washington Star, in an editorial last Sunday, called attention to a fundamental weakness in the economy when it said:

"The 'settlement' of the electrical workers" strike in New York City is a perfect example of what's wrong with the construction industry in this country. Originally, the union demanded a twenty-hour week. Now it has 'compromised,' settling for a twenty-five-hour week plus an increase in hourly pay and assurances of five hours in overtime. Under the old contract an electrician worked six hours a day at $4.40 an hour and a seventh overtime hour for $6.60. Under the new agreement he will work five hours at $4.96 an hour and the sixth hour at $7.44. Should there be more than five hours of overtime he will make more for a twenty-five-hour week than he did for a thirty-hour week. . . .

"The simple explanation for this result is that the union, with a monopoly of workers in short supply and entrenched behind its statutory immunity from the anti-trust laws, can get away with just about anything it pleases. Had an association of business men tried to work any such gouge as this, the Department of Justice anti-trust lawyers would be sweating day and night to put them in the pokey. But in the case of the electricians not a voice of protest has been raised in official Washington."

Can Affect Others

This trend in the construction industry, just at a time when there is a lot of talk about the Government subsidizing more housing, can gravely affect one of the nation's key industries and can spread to other unions.

On matters of this kind, the President's economic report treads lightly. Obviously the politician doesn't want to alienate his principal source of support in political campaigns—the trade unions and their financial contributions.

This is the kind of materialism which tends to negate the professions of high idealism that are sprinkled through the Administration's messages to Congress. It's one reason why all the rosy predictions of economic prosperity in the President's latest message are accompanied by requests for power to deal with expected recessions, if not depressions, as well as with inflationary trends in recovery periods that can weaken the purchasing power of the dollar.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Imogene Stanley died January 6 in the Baptist Memorial Hospital in San Antonio. She was one of the most beautiful young women who ever lived when, in the fall of 1923, she bewitched the Prince of Wales in the public dining room of the Chateau Frontenac in Quebec and danced with him until the orchestra put away its gear and the party was over.

A Quebec society girl, Miss Phyllis Burstal, had had the first dance. Then General Gerald F. Trotter, a veteran of the war in France, who had lost a forearm in battle, smacked his heels, presented himself and asked Gene for the next dance. She was sitting with an American woman and her daughter whom she had known in New York. They had met in the elevator and, by this miraculous luck, Gene was able to join their table at the rim of the floor. She was chaperoned. When this dance ended, Trotter asked permission to present her to Baron Renfrew, the Prince's incognito in those days.

Imogene had been assigned by the new, rapscallion New York News, that terrible tabloid, to buy a new dress on the expense account, go to Quebec and, on her own initiative, break into the prince's confidence and write the story. She never did write it. And when, late that night, Phil Payne, the city editor, threatened to have it written in the shop and to run her name over it, Gene said, "If you do, I will deny it to The New York Times and sue you for libel."

The dress was green. It had cost $35. Gene's home in New York was a furnished room on lower Fifth Avenue. That address may have impressed Trotter.

In recent years, Gene had worked for a radio station in San Antonio. She was ill. The world had passed her by. In the interim after the night of dancing with the prince, she had buried herself in a crossroads huddle of 'dobe houses, huts and hovels near Chihuahua City, Mexico. Her sister had married an American who was making the desperate venture of running a small bunch of cattle down there. When the sister had a baby, Gene pulled her stakes in Hollywood and gave herself to them. The baby was a boy who was born unlucky and died wretchedly. The sister's husband died.

After that disaster, Gene tried to carry on as head of the family. She delivered Indian babies. She helped cows with their calves. She spoke Spanish like a native. After ten years of this she guided the little family back to San Antonio and went to work in the limited field of journalism as local reporter and stringer and writing radio scripts. Just after the Second War she tiptoed back to New York where she had been a triumph and tried a small job with Sam Pryor of Pan-American. But her heart was dry inside her. Gene was still beautiful. Her profile, her straight, graceful bearing were still the craracteristics of the blonde who had vamped the Prince of Wales. She quietly vanished again.

I told her that Julie and I had dined at 21 with the Duke of Windsor and Wallis and that when Julie had mentioned her, the Duke had exclaimed happily, "Gene! How is she? Do you see her?" and Wallis had asked, not grimly, but with interest nevertheless, "Gene? Who might she be?"

Imogene went to Washington as a yeoman of the Navy late in the First War. Lowell Mellett hired her for the Washington Daily News strictly on her beauty and vivacity soon after the amistice. To her own astonishment, she was a great reporter. But though she read everything, she never quite lived up to herself as a writer. In Hollywood, Charlie MacArthur and Gene Fowler helped her, but the producer always wanted her for an actress or clothes-horse.

Once she wrote, "There are moments when I ask myself what does my worth consist of? Beauty is a mere configuration of bone and skin, with which one has been endowed. It is not earned."

I wrote her last year about Fowler's funeral and of the hummingbird poking into the yellow roses and of Jack Dempsey, Ben Hecht and others whom she had known trying to improvise Fowler's own jest at that. She replied: "From Gene Fowler, who so defiantly and gleefully waved a wand of spaghetti in the faces of unprofessed gods, to say he became a Catholic 'because I want to go to Heaven' seems almost to be mocking in the familiar Fowler fashion. God rest his sweet soul.

"I myself am seeking faith. I am troubled by grief and feel very much alone. I am no longer young or confident or gay. Life presses down."

At last, some months ago, alone at night, I suddenly realized that Imogene was a great soul; flippant, outwardly confident and so beautiful that her trappings veiled the nobility of the girl who abandoned her own world, her life, to live for her sister in squalid poverty among ignorant, dirty peasants in a strange land.

I sponged my eyes, dragged myself to the typewriter and told her so.

He outlined the major benefits under the law as revised in 1961. These include disability, unemployment, aid to dependents, and retirement. The latter is the only type administered solely by the Federal Government, he said.

Gardlin was introduced by Mrs. Alyce Littlefield of the business education department.

Pennsy to Push 'Project 70' for Recreation Plans

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania has begun a drive to preserve outdoor resources for the recreation and enjoyment of its people.

The drive is entitled "Project 70," a plan which Gov. Lawrence said, "provides for the conservation and development of our magnificent scenic and natural resources."

"It aims for a healthier, more pleasant, more prosperous Pennsylvania," the governor said recently when he introduced the project to the General Assembly.

The General State Authority is in the process of buying park land with funds appropriated in the 1959-61 budget.

The high cost of the land—not only in southeastern Pennnsylvania but throughout the state—creates a sense of urgency within the administration. For the longer it takes the state to purchase the land, the higher the cost may soar.

And Project 70 must be approved by the people of Pennsylvania since they must approve a constitutional amendment which will increase the state's debt ceiling by $70 million—the revenue necessary to put the project in motion throughout the state.

ADD INSULT TO INJURY

A FABLE: When someone adds "insult to injury" he is not apologetic after inflicting injury. The saying goes back to the fables of Aesop who tells the story of the bald man who swatted a fly on his head, but raised a bump by hitting himself so hard. The fly got away as an added insult to his injury.

Hollywood News, Views

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Big stars who cause costly delays on movies aren't colorful, "They're no better than thieves who steal money."

That's director William Wyler, one of the industry's all-time great moviemakers, speaking.

Assails Attitude

He was commenting on a rash of over-budget productions such as the costly "Mutiny on the Bounty" which is in its second year of production—and second $20 million of cost.

"The industry is being hurt by a lack of professional attitude on the part of some new stars," says Wyler.

He cited the case of one top star who gets a million a picture. When he didn't show up one morning, the studio dialed him. He explained that he couldn't find the keys to his car—also he couldn't remember where he parked it.

"The price of a taxi would have saved his studio thousands of dollars," says Wyler. "But he wouldn't call one until the studio called him, hours after he was due at work.

"Even then he insisted that someone meet him at the gate to take care of the fare. He said he didn't have any money."

Non-Pros Not Worry

The director says he has no trouble with non-professional stars.

"When I made 'The Children's Hour' for the Mirisch brothers, I was hired first because the Mirisches put their money on the picture maker, not the stars.

"They believe that if you are going to cook a good dinner, you first hire a good cook. The waiters who deliver the food come second in their planning.

"I knw before I start a picture that I will do it only with professional stars. If, half way through a picture, a star becomes non-professional, they know I walk out."

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— Liberace tossed a party Tuesday night to show off his $275,000 Hollywood Hills home, a symphony in gold that he will live in just five weeks a year.

The mansion, off Queen's Road above the Sunset Strip, is so big that even the rooms have rooms.

Liberace said so far he has counted 29 rooms in the 32-year-old house, whose former owners included Ann Harding and Rudy Vallee.

The pianist traded a $100,000 apartment house for it.

"When I moved in," Liberace said, "the decor was early Gloria Swanson so I spent $175,000 redecorating."

The result is a miniature Versailles, done in French provincial style.

"I saved some money by building the living room valances myself," he said. He also built a French provincial china closet.

"I'm away on concert tours 47 weeks a year, so I don't have time to build anything else myself," he said.

The house has five pianos but, unlike his Sherman Oaks house, the swimming pool is a normal rectangle.

"No more piano-shaped pools," said Liberace. "Every time I felt like a swim, the pool was out of tune."

There is a hi-fi set built into an antique harpsichord, reminiscent of the old Liberace. Theme of the decor is elegance. The color scheme is gold—gold on white, gold on black and gold on gold.

Chamber Lists 2 More Cooperating in B-E Day

This is another news release in the series, prepared by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, outlining information about some of the cooperators in the seventh annual Business-Education Day sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. On B-E Day, Friday, Jan. 26. Twenty-five area businesses will entertain 250 teachers of the school system.

Kingston Trust Company

The Kingston Trust Company was founded in 1836 as the Kingston Bank. Last year it celebrated its 125th year of service to the Hudson Valley region.

Soon after the Erie Canal linked the Great Lakes and the Hudson River, and nearly 20 years before Commodore Vanderbilt sent his first train up the "Water Level Route," the Kingston Bank, now the Kingston Trust Company, started to play an important part in the development of our area.

Through six wars, in spite of economic trials of severe panics and depressions Kingston Trust Company has been a helping hand to the steady progress of industry, housing, schools and culture of the Hudson Valley.

After the Civil War, the Kingston Bank became a National Bank and so continued until 1919 when it received a charter from the New York State Banking Department as the Kingston Trust Company. At that time total assets were just over one million dollars.

In 1920 the Central Branch was opened at 518 Broadway. The success of this location has been outstanding and its sphere of service is reflected in the modern building of two stories employing more than 40 persons in that office.

In 1953 further expansion of the bank's services took place by the establishment of a branch at Phoenicia, to take care of the needs of depositors in that area.

Kingston Trust Company provides every modern banking service for its many customers—checking and savings accounts, business and personal financing, mortgages for homes and commercial enterprises, Trust Department facilities with resources of $11,000,000 now held, complete safe-deposit and safekeeping departments, Christmas and Vacation Clubs, two drive-in windows at both Kingston offices, and this year, the latest electronic bookkeeping equipment has been installed for greater speed and accuracy.

The directors and officers of Kingston Trust Company are all community-minded citizens, with many years of practical banking experience. Under their leadership the bank has grown so that its statement of Dec. 31, 1961 shows assets of over $24,000,000. Capital funds and reserves now exceed $2,660,000 and total deposits of over $21,000,000 represent over 16,000 separate accounts.

Kingston Trust Company can be proud of its steady progress in its long history. Its energies are now directed toward the future, with confidence of even greater opportunities for growth and service.

Kingston Savings Bank

Kingston Savings Bank, which will be host to five teachers on Business-Education Day, has for many years worked closely with schools and education authorities. A pioneer and continuing leader in the servicing of School Savings Accounts in this area, Kingston Savings Bank now offers loans for higher education, sponsors broadcasts of Kingston High School football and basketball games and has helped provide school bus waiting shelters in several locations in the consolidated school district.

As a Mutual Savings Bank, Kingston Savings is operated solely for the benefit of its depositors. Its chief function is to encourage thrift by offering the highest return on savings, consistent with safety of principal, that is permitted by the State Banking Department. Most of the funds entrusted to its care are invested within the area in first mortgage loans on real estate, thus making it possible for thousands of area residents to own their own homes.

Kingston Savings Bank has a wide range of other services for the entire family, including the new, low cost Savings Bank Life Insurance; Christmas Club and All-Purpose Club accounts; travelers' checks; safe deposit boxes; personal money loans; FHA and GI mortgage loans; passbook loans; U. S. Savings Bonds; convenient customer parking and postage-paid banking by mail.

Established in 1874, Kingston Savings Bank today has assets totaling more than $34,000,000. Total savings on deposit exceed $29,800,000, of which more than $21,500,000 is invested in first mortgages on real estate.

HEAR ANNUAL REPORT—The annual report of services extended by the Salvation Army, Kingston, during 1961 was heard at a dinner meeting Monday night at Bethany Hall of Old Dutch Church. Listed in the report were community services to the transient, to families, summer camp, to the hospitalized, emergency and disaster service, and included religious and character building activities of the Kingston Corps. An elaborate Christmas program was also reported. Principals at the dinner were (l-r) Dewey Logan, vice-chairman; William S. Keyser, chairman; Mrs. Dewey Logan, secretary; Mayor John J. Schwenk and Major Foster Meitrott, commanding corps officer. (Freeman photo).

Debris Searched For Victims in Hotel Collapse

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Rescue squads today continued a frantic search for more victims in the ruins of a nearly completed resort hotel that collapsed at nearby Pineda, killing at least eight workmen and injuring 83.

Estimates of the number of workers in the eight-story hotel at the time of the two-stage collapse Tuesday varied between 140 and 200. One official said he feared as many as two dozen more victims would be found.

3 Youths Accused In Store Robbery At Poughkeepsie

Three Poughkeepsie teenagers have been accused of participating in the recent robbery of a city grocer of $13, according to police in that city.

Herbert Lester Roger, 17, of 43 North Perry Street, Poughkeepsie, was taken into custody Tuesday on a charge of first degree robbery. City Judge Milton Haven adjourned the case until Tuesday, Jan. 30, when Roger also will appear on a charge of rape, a misdemeanor, involving a 16-year-old girl.

Daniel Edward Davis, 19, of 117 Church Street, charged with conspiring with a 15-year-old boy to commit the robbery at the Louis J. Eramo grocery store at 112 Church Street, Poughkeepsie, last Wednesday, waived preliminary hearing yesterday before Judge Haven, who referred the case to the grand jury.

Detectives Edward McLaughlin and Jack Benton, who made the arrests said the 15-year-old boy will be petitioned into Children's Court.

Police Seek Vandals After Plaza Stores Are Damaged

Poughkeepsie Town Police today were endeavoring to uncover clues that might lead to the apprehension of persons responsible for a costly wave of window smashing in several stores in the township, Police Chief Vincent Smith told The Freeman.

"We are doing everything possible to end this rash of vandalism," Smith said, "and the persons responsible, when apprehended, will be dealt with severely in court."

Smith said he would ask for jail sentences and full restitution if the vandals are taken into custody.

Smash Store Windows

Most of the damage was done at stores in the Poughkeepsie shopping Plaza, South Road, near the IBM property, the police chief noted.

Some time Friday or early Saturday, vandals threw a large waste dispenser through a plate glass window at the Thom McAn store in the shopping plaza and removed display manikin legs and an unestimated number of new shoes.

Smith said some of the shoes were later found strewn around on Beechwood Avenue, and some shoes are still missing.

Ash Barrel Used

The police chief said a large galvanized ash container was hurled through a plate glass window at the Grand Union Store in the shopping plaza. Smith stated that considerable damage resulted when an ash barrel was thrown through a large window at the Robert Hall Clothing store in the South Road plaza.

Windows in other stores have been smashed in town stores in the same manner, the chief said.

A complaint was received from Frank Lombardi, a Highland contractor, who reported someone dumped sugar in the gasoline tank of a bulldozer which had been left at a sewer project in the South Gates Estates, Town of Poughkeepsie.

A plate glass window in the Jetco Auto Seat Cover establishment on South Road north of the Poughkeepsie Shopping Plaza was smashed recently.

Need More Police

Chief Smith said the vandals throw cans, containers, boards, rocks and other articles through the windows.

Police Captain Hugh Dakin said the recent vandalism damaging business places in the town definitely shows the need for more town policemen, which presently was 27 men to patrol 36.6 square miles. Dakin noted the City of Poughkeepsie has 72 policemen to cover 4.7 square miles in the city.

Dakin said there are 161 miles of roads in the township. The captain said Federal Bureau of Investigation national statistics recommended a minimum of 1½ policemen for every 1,000 people, and explained that in figuring this way the town police department should have a force of at least 50 men.

The captain noted that the township had a population of 33,248 and estimated the present town population is about 35,000, while the City of Poughkeepsie population in 1960 was 38,384.

Up to Stockholders Now

American, Eastern Favor Giant Merger of 2 Lines

NEW YORK (AP) — American Airlines and Eastern Air Lines will combine into the nation's biggest system if stockholder and government approval is forthcoming.

They announced plans Tuesday to merge.

The consolidated line would be called American Airlines, erasing the name of the pioneer Eastern Air Lines from the roster of American carriers.

Comprises 39,000 Employes

The proposal to create a system with $900 million in assets, 39,000 employes and 400 aircraft will be submitted to stockholders of both companies and the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The board, which has generally encouraged mergers, had no immediate comment.

There was no mention in the announcement of Eddie Rickenbacker, 71, famed World War I air ace who is chairman of the board and chairman of the executive committee of Eastern.

An Eastern Air Lines spokesman said only that Rickenbacker would continue to hold those posts as long as Eastern remained an entity.

The merger would be another step in the quickening scramble to tie together competing transportation lines in an effort to pull out of a financial morass.

United Air Lines and heavily-in-debt Capital Airlines merged last May, making United the biggest of the domestic carriers. On the rail front, the New York Central and Pennsylvania systems agreed last week to merge. Other proposed combinations are being pushed.

The 11 trunk air carriers lost an aggregate of about $30 million in 1961. Eastern went deeply in the red while American earned $6.8 million.

Eye Stronger System

C. R. Smith, president of American, and Malcolm A. MacIntyre, president of Eastern, jointly announced that the aim of the merger was to provide a stronger system "which can survive today's financial crisis, meet its obligations to the public and cope with the technological demands of the future."

They estimated savings of $50 million a year could be effected by eliminating duplicating flights and other services and by better utilization of equipment and facilities.

Smith would be chairman and chief executive officer of the Eastern-American combine with McIntyre president and second in executive authority.

The merger terms provide that Eastern stockholders would receive for each Eastern share held 1.3 shares of American, plus warrants good for five years to purchase an additional one-third share of American at $28 a share.

American, now No. 2 in size behind United, basically is a transcontinental line but also serves points in the Midwest, border, middle Atlantic and New England states and into the Southwest as far as Dallas-Fort Worth.

Fourth-ranked Eastern's routes are concentrated mainly along the Eastern seaboard. It also flies northwest to Minneapolis-St. Paul, southwest to Dallas-Fort Worth, to Miami, Fla., Bermuda, Puerto Rico and Mexico City.

The lines serve 30 cities in common.

Finding of Crew Remains Touches Off New Search

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The finding of the remains of some members of the four-man crew of a B47 jet bomber that crashed in the Adirondacks touched off a concentrated search today for the other fliers and the plane's fuselage.

A 20-man search party was prepared to camp on 4,585 - foot Wright Mountain, where the plane crashed, until it had accomplished its mission.

Continued bad weather, however, could force the searchers to return to their headquarters near the base of the mountain.

An Air Force spokesman, who reported Tuesday night that some remains had been found, said it might be some time before identification is possible.

The six-engined bomber, flying out of Plattsburgh Air Force Base, crashed early Jan. 16. Pieces of the wreckage were sighted Sunday.

Searchers have fought below-freezing temperatures, freezing rain and snow whipped by winds up to 80 miles an hour since then.

The plane was manned by 1st Lts. Rodney D. Bloomgren, 26, of Jamestown, N.Y., Melvin Spencer, 28, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., Albert W. Kandetski Jr., 25, of Sunnyvale, Calif., and Airman 1.C. Kenneth R. Jensen, 22, of El Cajon, Calif.

JFK Is Hopeful Of Ike's Aid in Trade Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennnedy hopes to draw heavily on former President Dwight D. Eisenhower for support of the new international trade program he is sending to Congress Thursday.

Administration officials are girding for what may be a four-months struggle to win authority for the President to negotiate tariff cuts in dealing with the European Common Market.

It is Kennedy's intention to plug this program as a nonpartisan approach toward a pressing and complex economic problem.

In line with this he hopes Eisenhower will help influence Republicans to go along, just as the former president gave him some aid last year in getting authorization for the long-range development loan program.

Eisenhower heartened administration leaders with a statement last month in which he gave guarded approval for action which would provide "sufficient flexibility" for tariff negotiations to reduce restraints on U.S. exports.

On the other hand, the administration harbors the suspicion former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 GOP presidential nominee, may wind up critical of the Kennedy proposals. So far, Nixon has made no public comment.

Says Rockefeller Will Win in 1962

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller will be re-elected in November "no matter who the Democrats put up against him," Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz says.

In an interview Tuesday the attorney general said the Republican Party's big problem in the coming election would be "to get over to the public. . .the accomplishments of the Rockefeller administration in the last three years."

He said the party had been "remiss" in that vein.

He said Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, described in some circles as a leading candidate," is already showing signs of losing prestige as a result of developments in New York City." He did not explain what he meant by "developments."

Trudeau on Pentagon Gag

Notes Wonderment On Censor's Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau testified today that changes made by censors in some of his anti-Communist speeches have "caused me to wonder" but "have not prevented me from getting across my basic message."

Trudeau, head of Army research and development and former chief of Army intelligence, made the statements in testimony at a Senate investigation of charges that Pentagon censorship has muzzled military men.

Sources Unknown

He said the State Department was responsible for some changes or suggested changes in his texts, but that he did not always know the sources of the changes.

Trudeau quoted changes called for by censors in one of his speeches, adding that there also were changes in others "with the source (of the suggested changes) unidentified, which gave my staff and me cause for wonder about the motivation involved."

In the text of a Trudeau speech prepared for delivery Nov. 19, before the American Ordnance Association in Washington, he said, the State Department suggested that he should not say "the tenets of Marx and Engels and Lenin are as firm a part of the Communist doctrine as when they were announced."

The general said: "The Department of State's comment to this suggested change was, and again I quote:

"'They (the Communists) have jettisoned many of these tenets, unfortunately, because tenets were retarding industrial expansion.'"

Mindful of Duty

The general said he always was mindful of a soldier's duty when confronted with censorship—A soldier does not question the policies and decisions of higher government authority. He accepts them."

Censoring of Trudeau's speeches by the Defense Department was one of the main examples cited by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., in forcing the investigation by a special Senate Armed Services subcommittee.

Thurmond complained of 10 instances in which, he said, anti-Communist statements had been stricken from speeches by the military to public groups. He didn't say who made the speeches.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said later that all 10 had been cut from speech texts written by Trudeau. The secretary added that Trudeau had made 54 speeches in the year.

Trudeau will be followed on the witness stand by Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Ike's Letter Included

A letter from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower suggesting a change in the policy on the censoring of speeches was inserted in the record as the hearings began Tuesday.

"I question the desirability of requiring the topmost government officials, whether military or civilian, to submit to censorship of content—as distinguished from security matters—prior to their utterance," Eisenhower said.

This was done under his and preceding administrations, the former president said, but added that after thoughtful reconsideration, "I incline to the view that when responsible and respected officials feel compelled to submit to censorship, we are smothering the concept of personal responsibility under the practice of heavy-minded and unjustified staff supervision."

But he also said there must be a "rule of reason" in applying policies.

Retired Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, former chief of naval operations, warned against "too much emphasis" on censorship of military men's speeches.

Thurmond argues that this censorship is muzzling and hampers officers in efforts to inform their troops and the public on communism.

McNamara maintains it is not muzzling. He says the editing of speeches was designed to keep military spokesmen's public views in line with national policy.

Bombs Rock Paris

PARIS (AP)—Seven bombs presumably set by the European secret army exploded in rapid succession today in widely separated parts of Paris.

Targets were Frenchmen who oppose the terrorist campaign to keep Algeria French in defiance of President Charles de Gaulle's plans for independence.

Four apartment houses were damaged, but there was no report on injuries.

All the explosives were believed caused by plastic bombs, favorite weapon of the Secret Army Organization.

Publishers Will Hear Macmillan

CHICAGO (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Great Britain has accepted an invitation to speak to American newspaper publishers at their annual dinner in New York April 26.

Announcement of Macmillan's acceptance to speak was made today by Russ Stewart, executive vice president and general manager of the Chicago Sun-Times and Chicago Daily News and chairman of the board of the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Late Bulletin

Postal Rate Voted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed today a bill to add one cent to the cost of mailing a letter and raising postage rates for magazines, newspapers and advertising material.

The bill, one of the administration's high priority measures, was passed by voice vote. It now goes to the Senate.

Space Quints Attempt Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Rocket failure today ruined an attempt to boost five satellites into orbit simultaneously to probe a number of space mysteries.

The space quintuplets hurtled into the sky at 4:30 a.m. cradled snugly in the nose of an 80-foot Thor-Able-Star rocket. The first stage of the 55-ton rocket performed normally and observers at the Cape saw the second stage ignite.

Upper Stage Fails

But 20 minutes after launch the Defense Department announced that the upper stage failed to build up sufficient thrust after ignition and the entire rocket assembly plunged in the Atlantic Ocean far downrange.

Officials said the $3.5-million vehicle fell into the sea "well south of Cuba."

The failure wrecked the United States' most ambitious multiple payload experiment to date. Attempts have been made previously to send three satellites aloft with one booster, but never as many as five.

The five satellites were to have been sprayed into orbit by spring devices much like the pellets from a shotgun charge. Because of this, project officials nicknamed the project "Buckshot."

This was to have been the first of three major U.S. space efforts scheduled this week. On Friday, an Atlas-Agena rocket is slated to hurl a Ranger 3 payload to the moon to take closeup television pictures and land an instrument package on the lunar surface.

The attempt to orbit astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. is set for Saturday.

Doomed by Failure

Doomed by today's failure were: SR-4 (for Solar Radiation 4) to study X-ray radiation from the sun and possibly learn how storms raging across the sun's face affect space near earth.

Injun II to examine the relationship between the outer Van Allen radiation belt and auroral phenomena such as "northern lights."

Lofti II (for Low Frequency Trans-Ionospheric) to study radio wave propagation in the ionosphere in an experiment aimed at devising better earth and space radio communications systems.

Secor (for Sequential Collation of Range) to test techniques for future satellites which will map the earth.

16 Die, 80 Hurt In Caracus Riot; 8 Buses Burned

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Sixteen persons were reported killed and 80 wounded Tuesday in left-wing violence in which military police battled snipers.

Bombs exploded in scattered parts of the city and eight buses were burned during the fighting in the second day of clashes brought on by leftist agitators against the government of President Romulo Betancourt.

Twenty-three persons have been killed and more than 100 injured in the disorders which coincided with the meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers at Punta del Este, Uruguay, to consider action against Fidel Castros Cuba.

The violence was accompanied by a nationwide transit strike called in defiance of the government.

Caracas appeared fairly calm this morning after a night in which heavy gunfire was heard in many sections of the city.

Caracas' Central University, where police said pro-Castro extremists holed up and fired on them, was cleared of its students by university authorities.

Two hundred persons were reported arrested.

All government schools were ordered closed to prevent students from being used by pro-Castro elements in disorders.

Khrush Kin Visit

WASHINGTON (AP)—President and Mrs. Kennedy will have the daughter and son-in-law of Soviet Premier Khrushchev as luncheon guests at the White House Tuesday.

Seminar Groups Will Hear Talk On Solar System

Students participating in the Ulster County Senior Seminar will hear and discuss the subject of Man's Exploration of Space and the Solar System, Saturday, Jan. 27, at 10 a. m. at the State University College at New Paltz.

The seminar will be conducted by Captain Walter F. Ulmer Jr., who is presently assistant professor in the Department of Earth, Space and Graphic Sciences at West Point Military Academy. Due to his excellent presentation on this subject with last year's seminar students, this will be Captain Ulmer's second visit to Ulster county.

Captain Ulmer is a native of Maine, was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point in 1952, and has served in assignments with armor, airborne and amphibious forces in the United States and Far East. During the past three years he has attended graduate courses and professional seminars, toured the space facilities of the National Aeronautical and Space Administration and the Department of Defense, and consulted with U. S. Space program officials in preparation for the organization of a new course at West Point in Descriptive Astronomy and Astronautics which is presented to all cadets during their first year at the academy. He is a member of the American Rocket Society and the American Astronomical Society.

George Fernandez, coordinator of the seminar stated that major topics of this seminar will be Introduction to the Space Age, Earth Satellites and Manned Earth-Orbiting Bases and Manned Exploration of the Moon. Special emphasis will be given to the area of Manned Explorations of the Planets; consideration for interplanetary travel; problems of a manned space vehicle on long duration voyages and future consideration and the possibility of other solar systems.

The senior seminar is a special project of the central schools of Ulster County. It is jointly sponsored by the Board of Cooperative Educational Services of Ulster County and the State University College at New Paltz.

Presently there are approximately 50 students from the central schools of Ellenville, Highland, Marlboro, New Paltz, Onteora, Rondout Valley and Wallkill. The seminar project is under the planning and direction of the secondary principals of these schools.

NYC Asks Strike Bar

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Central Railroad joined the Pennnsylvania Railroad today in seeking court action to bar a strike against the two lines.

The Transport Workers Union said last week it would strike the two carriers Feb. 4 unless assured a proposed merger would not put any TWU member out of a job.

The Central, in federal court action, asked for an injunction forbidding the union from striking or threatening to strike, and for $20 million in damages from the union's strike threat.

Reds Approve Draft

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany's Parliament approved a military draft today without a dissenting vote.

Men between 18 and 26 will be called up for 18 months of training. The defense minister, Gen. Heinz Hoffman, said the draft was introduced "at the demand of the workers" as a shield against Western aggression.

East Germany has so far relied on volunteers for its armed forces. Considerable pressure was applied to youths to make them sign up.

Rowan Gets New Bid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Carl T. Rowan, Negro deputy assistant secretary of state, has been invited to return to Memphis, Tennn., where he was refused service in a restaurant Jan. 20, and be principal speaker at a club dinnner.

In reply Rowan said he appreciated "your expression of regret" but previous commitments would not permit him to accept.

"We deeply regret the recent incident," the Omnibus 100 Club wired Rowan.

AZA Chapter Told Of Teaching Plan

An illustrated talk on Wiltwyck School for Boys highlighted the meeting of the Black-Dubin Chapter of AZA at the Tamud Torah building. M. Lionel Freedman, former chapter advisor and a teacher at Wiltwyck showed a half-hour film and discussed the problems of a young, disturbed boy, at Wiltwyck for the first time. He also explained the methods of teaching and the rehabilitation program at the school.

Following the talk, a question and answer period was held.

The chapter furthered plans for a Monte Carlo Night and a dance in the near future. Two new members were announced, Steve Abelove and Pete Goldfarb.

Driver Accused After Collision

A Port Ewen motorist, Joseph Genther, 26, of 174 Tilden Street will appear before Justice of the Peace Allan S. Dargie Jr., of Esopus tonight as the aftermath of an automobile accident in Port Ewen Tuesday at 8 p. m.

According to Deputy Sheriff Thomas Mayone, a car operated by Genther heading north on Canal Street, sideswiped a car operated by Ralph F. Carpino, 35, of Hoyt Street, Port Ewen, which was headed in the other direction. Both drivers halted, Mayone said, but when Carpino went into a nearby home to call police Genther took off. He was picked up later and was ordered before Justice Dargie tonight at 7 to answer charges of leaving the scene of an accident and being an unlicensed operator.

Intervention Is

could do little in the face of the opposition from Brazil, Mexico, Argentina and Chile to stiff penalties.

A joint proposal to isolate the Castro government from OAS activities was reported worked out early today after a three-hour conference of the foreign undersecretaries of Argentina, Brazil, Mexico, Chile, Ecuador, Bolivia and Haiti, a group which has come to be known here as the "outer seven."

The proposal was to be submitted today to the seven nations' foreign ministers and then to the Central American delegations for their concurrence before its introduction before the conference.

Differences Resolved

A Chilean spokesman reported all differences within the outer seven had been resolved but declined to give details. It was understood the proposal would draw a difference between the Cuban government and Cuba as a nation because Brazil and some other nations contend Cuba is still geographically in the American family and cannot be read out of the organization.

Few if any delegates looked for any change in Cuban policies as a result of the conference's action, and Cuban delegates scoffed at the idea of the Havana regime being shelved in the OAS.

"We just do not care about that trash," said a member of Castro's delegation.

Any Action Victory

Any action taken by the conference unanimously is certain to be hailed publicy as a signal victory for the anti-Communist cause. The argument was heard that even holding such a meeting on Cuban subversion would have been politically too risky six months ago, before the Alliance for Progress program was adopted and before Castro publicly embraced Marxism-Leninism.

Privately many observers wonder whether the United States will emerge with a result which could prove worse than nothing.

Cuba already has been excluded from the OAS Defense Committee and deliberations of any other sensitivie OAS body. U.S. sources say the proposed quarantine will not exclude the Castro regime from such humanitarian activities as hemispheric health and sanitation consultations. Therefore, while on the record Cuba may be eliminated from OAS bodies, actually nothing will happen which was not the case before.

Observers speculate that the whole business could boomerang by giving the Castro regime excuse to heap ridicule on the OAS as now constituted and to point out that the Inter-American alliance has been powerless to take any action with teeth in it against the Communist government of Havana.

Produces Violence

The conference continued to produce public violence at various Latin-American points.

Sixty-five miles from this Atlantic beach resort and its diplomatic visitors, thousands of pro-Castro demonstrators marched through the main street of Montevideo shouting "Cuba si! Yankees non!" The demonstration apparently was linked to a meeting of Latin-American leftist leaders set to open in the Uruguayan capital today.

In Venezuela, a country that has broken with Cuba, the toll from two days of clashes in Caracas climbed to 13 dead and more than 30 wounded.

An authoritative source said Defense Minister Gen. Jose Antonio Briceno Linares had called on marine and parachute units to reinforce troops and police who fought pitched battles with snipers and machine gunners in Caracas Tuesday. Army patrols were ordered into Caracas after a bomb blew out a section of the front wall of the U.S. Embassy Monday.

Bombs in Caracas

More bombs exploded in scattered sections of Caracas and eight buses were reported burned. More than 200 persons were believed under arrest.

The clashes accompanied a nationwide railway strike called in defiance of President Romulo Betancourt's anti-Castro government.

In Maracaibo, Venezuela, American evangelist Billy Graham was hustled out the back door of the state legislative hall after a crowd shouting "Yankee non! Castro si!" pounded on the front door during a speech he was making to the assembly. Graham later preached to a crowd of 4,000 at a baseball park without interference.

Wilson Reviews County Measures With Rockefeller

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson (R), of Woodstock and Governor Rockefeller yesterday exchanged views on State and County matters at a breakfast for key legislators at the Executice Mansion in Albany.

Assemblyman Wilson stated that there was a frank and clear interchange of opinions between the chief executive and himself.

"As a result of such contact and discussion the Governor now has a distinct picture of conditions and matters being acted upon in our county and he has expressed a deep interest in them," Assemblyman Wilson said today.

Rockefeller emphasized to Wilson that on the State level, "the practice of sound government at Albany reduced unemployment below the national levels, achieved 450,000 new private-industry jobs in three years, increased state aid to public schools by $300 million and encouraged constructive social legislation for the needy aged and our senior citizens."

Dem Pleads for Unity

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP)—Michael Prendergast, embattled Democratic state chairman, says he feels Republican Gov. Rockefeller could not be defeated "at this time" in the state "by the Democratic party because of the shape we are in."

"People have become disillusioned, loyalties have been divided and the organization has deteriorated," Prendergast told reporters Tuesday night after a dinner here in his honor.

He said someone of national prominence might turn back Rockefeller in the latter's bid for re-election "if we pull together in the Democratic party."

Focus on Health

Surprise findings that conflict with popular conceptions about aging and religion and adoption and motherhood figure in the medical news.

Aging and Religion

There is a popular impression that the older persons grow the more religious they become.

To test the validity of this belief, Dr. H. L. Orbach studied the relationship between age, religion and church activity in a cross section of 6,911 adults in the Detroit metropolitan area between the ages of 21 and 84.

His conclusions as reported in the publication Geriatrics:

"But results have shown that there is no adequate proof to substantiate the view that people become more religious as they age. Studies of the relationship between age and religion do not support this common view and suggest that older people's religious behavior is determined by more direct social and cultural factors."

Fertility and Sterility

Another popular assumption is that if a childless woman adopts a baby, she vastly improves her chances of giving birth later.

To test this possibility, Drs. A.L. Banks, R. N. Rutherford and W. A. Coburn of Seattle, Wash., made follow-up studies of 31 infertile couples who were treated at a clinic and later adopted one or more babies.

They reported in the publication Fertility and Sterility that only one woman in the group subsequently gave birth to a child.

They concluded: "The fact that only one pregnancy occurred in this study agrees with the results of other investigations which indicate that the belief that normal dicate that the belief is false."

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Second Chance Is Childs' Opportunity to Prove Self

Soon after we bought our new car our 17-year-old boy wanted to borrow it to drive some friends to an out-of-town football game. He scraped a fender. Last Friday because his father wouldn't lend it to him again, he left the house and spent the weekend at a friend's. This morning at breakfast when he said he was thinking of leaving school and getting a job, he and his father had another quarrel about the car . . . .

ANSWER: It is generally mistaken, I think, to withdraw a privilege from an adolescent child who has once misused it.

A 17-year-old person can look like one. But he is not one. So he is seldom able to manage a new responsibility successfully. He drives our new car for the first time—and scrapes its fender. He gives his first big party—and permits guests to get out of hand. He uses our charge account—and comes home with a bad bargain. When we roar at him "Never again!" we profoundly discourage him. For we are condemning him to a permanent state of incompetence. Shaken by our distrust of his ability to grow and learn from his mistakes, he will become defensive and hostile—and deny his mistake.

If you two people want your boy to learn to use your car responsibly, I suggest you give him another chance to prove that he can.

If you say, "O.K., we'll confide our new car to your care again" he probably will be moved to confide in you. You will learn why and how he scraped its fender. Your son will be so grateful that he not only will be moved to acknowledge it to you but also will earnestly commit himself to its improvement.

At this point, even if you are insured, you might propose that he contribute some money to your car's repair bill. Insurance companies do not pay our car repair bills because they love us but because we pay them premiums. My arithmetic tells me that your boy owes you a contribution to this repair bill, and if I were you, I would ask him for it.

You see, what this column is about is values. If an unscraped car is more vaulable to us than a child's thoughtful acknowledgement of a mistake, it will be namby-pamby nonsense to us. We will maintain that "Never again!" with its condemnation to permanent carelessness—and keep our car unhurt and shining. We will have forfeited, however, a near-man's sober realization of fault that is the essential step toward its correction. We will have forfeited a son's admission, "Yes, it's true. I wasn't watching. I should have kept my eyes on that side road . . ."

Man Is Accused Of Murder Plot

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—A 46-year-old man, accused of offering another man $500 to kill a waitress, was under indictment today on a charge of attempted first-degree murder.

An Oneida County grand jury indicted Frank C. Cicero of Utica Tuesday. He is in the county jail.

Louis Pagani, a special agent from the state attorney general's office, had testified at a preliminary hearing that Cicero had instructed him to kill Mrs. Sophie Moorehead, 47, last Dec. 20. Pagani said he had established contact with Cicero by posing as a gunman from New York City.

Mrs. Moorehead, also of Utica, had testified that she had no idea why anyone wanted her killed. She said she once had lent Cicero money, when he was "in trouble."

The French Academy was created by Cardinal Richelieu in 1635 to preserve and perfect the French language.

Would Protect Against Trading Stamp Failures

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A Republican lawmaker proposed today that trading-stamp companies be licensed in New York State and required to post a bond to protect the housewife from "improper trading-stamp practices."

"There has been no attempt in New York State to protect the public from a trading-stamp company who issues several thousand dollars in trading stamps and then goes out of business," Assemblyman Hayward H. Plumadore, R-Franklin, said in a statement.

He introduced in the Legislature a bill that would require:

1. Trading - stamp companies operating in the state to post a bond equal to 10 per cent of its annual gross business in the state.

2. All such companies to be licensed and pay fees equal to 1 per cent of their bonds.

"It is not the intent of this legislation to prohibit or hamper the use of trading stamps," Plumadore said. "It is the intent...to offer the consumer certain safeguards and protection from improper trading-stamp practices and irresponsible persons who may issue trading stamps without resources to redeem its issued stamps."

To protect stamp-saving housewives from companies that failed to redeem their stamps, Plumadore proposed that housewives be reimbursed from the bond. He also said the housewife should have the option of accepting the stamps at the time of purchase or the value of the stamps in cash.

The Saranac Lake legislator also proposed that the value of the stamps, in cents, mills or fractions, and the month of and year of issue be imprinted on the stamps.

"Trading-stamp companies are 'big business' today," Plumadore said, "and they should be regulated as 'big business' with proper safeguards to the consumer public."

A variety of perching birds rub their feathers with live ants. So do the wryneck, green woodpecker and species of parrots.

Aligns With Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Grange has aligned itself with President Kennedy's request for wider leeway in negotiating foreign trade agreements, including lower tariffs.

Noting that agriculture depends greatly on sales abroad, the Grange said in a statement "it is obvious that tariff legislation is farm legislation."

Why "Good-Time Charlie" Suffers Uneasy Bladder

Unwise eating or drinking may be a source of mild, but annoying bladder irritations—making you feel restless, tense, and uncomfortable. And if restless nights, with nagging backache, headache or muscular aches and pains due to over-exertion, strain or emotional upset, are adding to your misery—don't wait—try Doan's Pills.

Doan's Pills act 3 ways for speedy relief. 1—They have a soothing effect on bladder irritations. 2—A fast pain-relieving action on nagging backache, headaches, muscular aches and pains. 3—A wonderfully mild diuretic action thru the kidneys, tending to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes. So, get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. Large, economy size saves money. Get Doan's Pills today!

Now...the kind of protection for doctor bills you asked for ...much more coverage for only a little more money!

Would you like to increase many of your benefits for doctor bill protection? Would you like important extra benefits you may not have now? Read how this expanded protection can be yours for only a few pennies more a day than the cost of Blue Shield's old $2,500—$4,000 Standard contract!

There's no need to tell you that better health care today is making the cost of being sick or injured go up—and up. You may even be among the Blue Shield members who have asked for a plan to help you keep up with the growing cost of today's surgical and medical advances.

Then here's welcome news! For Blue Shield's "EP" (Expanded Protection) offers just such protection. And this more comprehensive coverage is available to you in a choice of contracts.

For instance, if you now have Blue Shield's old Standard contract, you can increase your benefits for most surgical procedures by moving up to Blue Shield's High Option "EP"—the contract most new subscribers are choosing. You may even become eligible for paid-in-full benefits! And you get seven additional benefits besides! Yet all this extra protection is yours under the High Option "EP" at a small additional cost of only 3¢ a day for individuals—about 8¢ a day for an entire family. Or, for little more, you can have the even higher benefits of the Special Indemnity contract.

How to check your coverage

It's easy to find out if you have this improved, broader coverage. Just ask whoever handles your group—or look at the front page of your Blue Shield contract. Unless it says "$4,000-$6,000 Service Contract" or "Special Indemnity Contract," you're still without this expanded protection that gives you so much more coverage for only a little more money!

More than a million New Yorkers have already chosen this modern "EP" coverage to give their families better protection before—not after—they need a doctor's services. Isn't this the kind of coverage you should have, too? For more details, just write Blue Shield, 2 Park Avenue, New York 16—or phone MU 9-2800. Ask for our new "EP" booklet. If you are a member of a group, be sure to include the name of your company with your inquiry.

Here are a few of the ways "EP" gives you more coverage for your money

Check these examples of higher maximum benefits the High Option "EP" gives you compared to the old Standard Blue Shield contract:

- Higher Allowances—as much as 100% more in some instances—for most surgical operations, with paid-in-full "service benefits" for those who qualify.
- 75% to 100% increases in daily allowances for medical care by doctor while in hospital—up to a maximum of $895, a total increase of as much as $443.
- 50% to 66⅔% increases in allowances for radiation and electro-shock therapy, in or out of the hospital.
- New general anesthesia benefits—from $20 to $100—equal to 20% of allowance for surgical or maternity care specified in contract.
- Up to 40% higher allowances for maternity care in cases of Caesarean Section, Ectopic Pregnancy and Miscarriage. (Maternity care allowances not available to Non-Group members.)

Plus these 7 Extra "EP" Benefits

Community rated "EP" subscribers are entitled to allowances for these additional types of care:

1. In-hospital medical care for premature infants.
2. In-hospital medical care for pulmonary tuberculosis.
3. In-hospital medical care for mental and nervous conditions.
4. Higher allowances for specialist consultation.
5. Radiation therapy for benign—as well as for malignant conditions.
6. Higher allowances for 15 types of serious illnesses.
7. Diagnostic X-Ray examinations. (Offered on a 1-year experimental basis.)

But Asks for Better Relations

Soviet Claims Single Blow Could Ruin U.S.

MOSCOW (AP)—Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky asserted today Soviet rockets could blast all U.S. "industrial and administrative-political centers" into the heavens in a single blow. He also called for better U.S.-Soviet relations.

Malinovsky coupled hard words with soft in an interview with the Communist party paper Pravda in which he sharply assailed U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Malinovsky said McNamara's declaration before the Senate Armed Services Committee that the United States is capable of destroying selected Soviet targets was boastful and was "directed not at the improvement of relations between the Soviet Union and the United States, but at inciting passions of war hysteria, and in the final analysis stepping up the arms race. And the arms race has always been the road that led mankind to war."

Malinovsky charged that secretary McNamara and other U.S. administration officials are whipping up war hysteria because they hope that corporations for which they once worked will make great profits.

He said Rockefeller has been "exploiting unscrupulously the peoples' fears" with a campaign for the construction of nuclear shelters.

"Tremendous sums are spent on this which are transferred from the pockets of taxpayers into the safes of monopolies engaged in this profitable business," Malinovsky said. "But every sober minded person realizes that shelters against atom and hydrogen bombs are nothing but a coffin, a grave prepared in advance."

County Fair Plans Studied at Parley

The Ulster County Agricultural Society was represented at the annual meeting of the New York State Association of County Fairs yesterday at Albany, by Albert Kurdt, manager of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce. A business session was held during the afternoon at which time matters pertinent to operation of county fairs were discussed.

Among the topics discussed were improvement of county fairs, methods of operation and other matters pertaining to the holding of annual fairs in various counties of the state.

A dinner meeting was held Tuesday night at Sheraton-Ten Eyck Hotel.

original owner, to Edgerton Associates, a 'dummy' corporation.

"Louis A. Friedman, Carlino's law partner, was vice president of the corporation which immediately resold the property to a syndicate. Less than a month later, Carlino represented the syndicate in a rezoning case."

The Post quoted Mrs. Roland Berch of Cedarhurst, described as an influential Republican civic leader and conservationist, as saying "Mr. Carlino's role as attorney for the syndicate and the death of the legislative measure seemed to be a clear case of conflict of interest. While we naturally assumed he was interested in saving the land for a park, he was representing the interests of the developer."

Changed Twice in Day

The Post said the land changed hands twice on the same day. The first sale, the paper said, was to Edgerton Associates and the second to the syndicate that later sold the land to a firm of real estate developers.

The amount paid by the syndicate was not indicated on the deed, the newspaper said, adding that Nassau County clerk's office experts termed the omission "unusual."

The Post said that "county clerk's records show the land was sold to the Edgerton firm, of 52 E. Park Ave., Long Beach," and that Edgerton has "the same address as Carlino's office."

The Post account said further: "The legislation which would have permitted a referendum to designate the syndicate's property as park area came to Carlino's attention in March 1957 at the time he represented the syndicate in a zoning case in Hempstead."

Army Boss Notes Tough Spot, May Have to Fight

BOSTON (AP) — Army Secretary Elvis J. Stahr Jr., told a Boston audience today "we must all face up to the fact that we're in a tough spot, and before we work our way out of it, we may have to fight; and if we do, somebody will get hurt."

He was addressing a joint meeting of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce and the Association of the United States Army.

"It's up to us to see that the United States and its friends, and generations yet unborn, aren't the ones who suffer fatal consequences," he said.

Schwenk Is encouraging and indicated he will make every possible local effort to gain one.

All areas of the city are dealt with in Raymond & May's Comprehensive Development Plan" or master plan, which was delivered to former Mayor Edwin F. Radel and members of the Common Council last October.

Parking Vital Factor

The report on uptown, in part, indicated a definite feeling among merchants that long-term, off-street parking must be provided, and it noted that means exist to provide it.

A majority in the area, it noted "were in favor of a landscaped shopping mall, if ample off-street parking were provided. They felt it would attract more people to the area. Some were not certain, but none expressed objections to a mall." The report also noted that "Improvement of the merchant's lot behind North Front Street would help a good deal as it would make available more space for short-term parking."

The city last year obtained $94,250 toward getting the downtown project known as "Broadway East" started. It is planned to rehabilitate an area between lower Broadway and Hasbrouck Avenue part of which has been cleared in conjunction with the Colonial Gardens housing project.

Mayor Schwenk, who recently discussed urban renewal with officials in New York, last week named Ward B. Tongue the city's urban renewal director.

Soviet-Sino Row

still is talking about peaceful coexistence with the Western powers.

Kennedy has put his stakes on a split of the Socialist camp," the editorial said. "He and his ilk gloated over the dark clouds that temporarily overcast the Socialist camp; they openly indicated that the prospects were more encouraging than previously to the Western world."

Argue Over Control

What intrigued the government experts was the admission that "dark clouds temporarily overcast the Socialist camp." Just how dark they are is something that even the best informed men in the U.S. government are unsure of.

But the tendency in official quarters here is to discourage any hope of any real weakening in the Communist bloc or any early gain for the rest of the world from the dispute.

The reason is that Moscow and Peiping are really arguing about the best way to try to bring the rest of the world under control.

$500 a Year Per

reservations, the Education Department felt the general approach taken by the committee staff would "provide an excellent foundation upon which the state could build a financial program adequate to the educational needs of our times."

Today's session by the committee was on the staff report. More than 40 school officials from Central and Western New York and representatives of various education groups were on the list of speakers.

Many of the views prepared for submission at the hearing coincided with those the committee heard at a session last week in Albany —the $500 limit should be raised, more attention should be given unique problems of big cities and new guides, in addition to property values, should be found for measuring the ability of a school district to meet its own educational needs.

The committee will meet in closed session to weigh the various views and adopt its final recommendations. No date has been set for this meeting.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to backslide in quiet trading early this morning.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .60 at 253.50 with industrials down 190, rails up .10, and utilities off .30.

Losses of most key stocks went from fractions to about a point while more volatile or higher priced issues declined considerably more.

Du Pont and General Motors showed only minor reaction to the Senate's adoption of a bill to soften the tax consequences of the court-ordered distribution of 63 million shares of GM stock owned by Du Pont.

American and Eastern Airlines declined on news that directors had approved a plan to merge the two systems.

Steels, utilities, aerospace issues, tobacco and chemicals were among the losers.

Rails were steady on balance, showing a narrowly mixed pattern. Motors also were mixed but Ford was down more than a point. Chrysler and General Motors were fractionally higher. Du Pont was off a fraction.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 5.95 at 692.59.

Two Men Escape Crash Injuries

A two-car accident near Mirror Lake Lodge on Route 9W in Esopus Tuesday at 4:10 p. m. caused minor damage to both vehicles, the sheriff's department reported today.

According to Deputy Sheriff Frank Neri Jr. a car operated by Thomas J. Gaffney, 19, of Tuckers Corners Road, Highland, turned out to pass a truck operated by Bobby F. Murray, 30, of Anniston, Alabama, just as the truck turned out to pass a car in front of it. The Gaffney vehicle and the truck were involved in a collision, causing damage to the rear fenders of both vehicles.

Vets Are Advised On Exemptions For Tax Purposes

Veterans of the armed forces were reminded today by Charles L. Culver, N.Y.S. veteran counselor, NYS Division of Veterans' Affairs and John B. Tyler, director, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, that in order to take advantage of the State law granting tax exemption for real property purchased with eligible funds, they would do well to establish the amount of their exemption as soon as possible. Veterans who desire to take advantage of this benefit afforded them by New York State must file a "verified" application with the local assessor on or before Grievance Day in the particular locality where the property is located.

The exemption applies to all state, county, city, town and village taxes, but not to school taxes or to levies made by special districts. However, Culver and Tyler pointed out that there are various restrictions and limitations to the amount a veteran can claim as exempt and to the type of funds which are eligible for application to the exemption.

Unless the veteran has already established the amount of exemption to which he is entitled, he should contact Charles Culver, of the NYS Division of Veterans' Affairs Office or John Tyler, director of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 32 Main Street, Kingston, as soon as possible in order to check eligibility, procedure, and limitations under the law.

Hudson River Tow Traffic on Upgrade

More Barges on Order to Meet Aggregate, Cement Output

Heavy area production of lightweight aggregate and cement in the near future is due to boost Hudson River tow traffic, it was learned today, and many new steel barges are being built or are on schedule for construction to transport the output.

One of the larger craft, "Feeney No. 1" now being built by the Reliance Marine Transportation & Construction Corp., 615 Abeel Street, is due to be launched Feb. 2 and seven or eight more are to be built by summer, Thomas J. Feeney, president of the corporation, revealed today.

A spokesman for the Callanan Road Improvement Co. of South Rondout and South Bethlehem, also reported today the construction of five steel barges under construction at Port Deposit, Md., for the hauling of the company's stone output and other products, including lightweight aggregate. Due to be delivered in New York by March 15, they are being built by the Wiley Manufacturing Co.

The Feeney No. 1 is one of the larger boats of its type ever built. It will be 140 feet long, 43 feet wide, and will have a hauling capacity of 1,750 tons. Most barges of the type are some 120 feet long and from 36 to 38 feet wide with a hauling capacity of some 1,400 tons. The capacity of the Callanan barges was reported at 1,300 tons.

The Atlantic Cement Co. in the Ravena area recently reported use of the larger type barge.

Lightweight aggregate is being produced or is due to be produced in plants in the Kingston and Saugerties areas and further up the Hudson. Expansion of cement production is also planned for upper Hudson Valley plants.

The $2,000,000 Nytralite plant in the Eddyville area is due to be ready for production within weeks.

Woman Pays Fine After Conviction

A fine of $100 with the alternative of spending 20 days in jail was imposed today by City Judge Joseph D. Saccoman on Lillian Pickett, 32, of 60 Van Buren Street, who was found guilty Monday of driving while intoxicated.

The time of deliberation of a city court jury was inadvertently reported as 10 minutes Tuesday. The jury was out for more than two hours, having retired at 3:05 and returned at 5:10 p. m. It came back at 4:30 p. m. for instructions.

The defendant was arrested last Nov. 22 on Broadway near Adams Street. She chose to pay the fine after sentence today.

Attorney Elmor Nathan appeared for the defendant and Ward Ingalsbe for the district attorney's office.

Graham Eludes Pro-Cuban Mob

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (AP) —Evangelist Billy Graham spoke to a crowd of 4,0000 at a baseball park here Tuesday night after ducking out the back door of a hall to avoid a pro-Cuban mob.

Graham was spirited out of the state legislative hall by local officials when his speech to them was interrupted by a crowd banging on the front door and chanting.

Several legislators said they thought the crowd was out to overthrow the local government, not to get Graham.

Elements favorable to Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro in Caracas, the Venezuelan capital, have been rioting daily since the start of the Punta del Este, Uruguay, conference.

Graham is making a tour of five Latin-American countries.

will provide Standard with one of the largest one-floor display rooms in Ulster County, he said. The warehouse also will be located within the same building, facilitating deliveries to customers.

Workmen are busy at the Wall Street site, he added, getting the big showroom and warehouse ready for occupancy in the near future.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Buying Land No Sure Thing, Involves Risk

Q) "We are a 27-year old couple wih a 3-year old son. My husband and I know little about investing. We are now considering buying land, being almost certain that investments in land, don't involve much risk. An advertisement offering tracts of unimproved land in Florida prompted us into thinking along these lines. We doubt if we'd ever actively use the property ourselves, before we put our name on the dotted line and make payments, we'd like your advice." T.P.

A) Land is one of our basic forms of wealth and can be an excellent way to invest. However, it is certainly no sure thing. Like all other forms of investment, land must be analyzed thoroughly before commitments are made.

You should consider such things as taxes, interest charges, possible assessments, the surrounding property, zoning laws, the distances away from other already established areas, and the reputation and financial strength of the developers involved.

I'd be particularly reluctant to sign for any property before seeing it firsthand.

Buying unimproved land is usually a form of speculation rather than investment. Income may be a long time away, but taxes, interest charges and assessments must still be paid. Your property could turn out to be in a area of heavy demand and skyrocket in value, but it could also lie dormant for years, with its money-making potentials steadily declining.

In short, be extremely careful and be sure you get all the facts first.

Q) "A cousin of mine passed away in the Orient last year and left me 250 shares of McDonnell Aircraft. Is this a good stock?" G. B.

A) I certainly think so. McDonnell Aircraft (NYSE) produces aircraft for the military and is also a big participant in our manned-space program. The company's earnings record has been very good, and I regard the issue as one of the best in its group.

Says Racketeers Being Checked on Stock Market Try

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said today the Justice Department is investigating what he called attempts by "major racketeers" to move into the stock trading business.

He emphasized in an interview that the probe does not involve the over-all operation of any stock exchange and is not connected with a Jan. 6 report by the Securities Exchange Commission charging abuses by officials of the American Stock Exchange.

"There have been some efforts by major racketeers to get into the stock field," Kennedy said.

"Now, I'm not saying that stock exchanges are controlled by racketeers," he added.

He did say crime figures have branched out into stock dealing, in keeping with their pattern of investing in legitimate businesses with money obtained from gambling and other illegal enterprises.

Kennedy did not detail the illegal nature of any stock market activity by underworld elements. Other Justice Department sources said, however, it sometimes involved the manipulation of stock prices.

One department official said the operations were in line with "ganster infiltration of real estate, vending machines, night clubs, beer distributorships, produce, trucking, hotels and motels, manufacturing and construction businesses."

Kennedy said his department had been checking on the move into the stock field for some time.

"But I think it's become more pronounced in the last several years," he said. "It's not a matter that has swept the country. It does exist in several cities."

Phone Service At Clintondale Back to Normal

Service to some 600 telephone users in the Clintondale area was back to normal today after being disrupted for about 12 hours Tuesday as the result of an early morning house fire.

Flames, which destroyed an old vacant building, burned out telephone cables and cut service between Clintondale and Highland and Clintondale and New Paltz, as well as disrupting toll service between Clintondale and Poughkeepsie.

Two line crews, five cable repairmen and four installation repairmen worked hurriedly throughout Tuesday to return service in the area to normal by 7 p. m.

TWU to Fight Airline Merger

NEW YORK (AP)—A plan to combine American Airlines and Eastern Airlines into the nation's biggest air carrier was barely off the ground today when storm clouds began to gather.

The Transport Workers Union, which has threatened a strike Feb. 4 in protest against the proposed Pennsylvania-New York Central railroads merger, indicated it also would fight the airlines plan.

Matthew Guinan, a deputy to union President Michael J. Quill, and James F. Horst, head of the TWU Airline Division, called a news conference a spokesman said is "not to applaud" the proposal.

The TWU represents several hundred mechanics and maintenance workers of American across the country, including those at Tulsa, Okla., where American maintains a huge overhaul and repair base.

The union word followed quick criticism from a rival carrier, Trans World Airlines, and also came before expected objections from other carriers.

American Airlines opened on the New York Stock Exchange today at $23.62, off 25 cents, and later widened the loss to nearly $1. Eastern was up 12 cents at $27.50 at the start, but soon fell into the minus column.

The surviving system, with annual revenues of well over $700 million, would be the country's fourth largest transportation enterprise, topped only by the Pennsylvania, New York Central and Southern Pacific railroads.

Claims Hospital Understaffed at Time of Deaths

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The director of a state hospital for epileptics says the institution was in an understaffed condition last September when five young patients perished in a heat tunnel.

Dr. Vincent I. Bonafede of the Craig Colony at nearby Sonyea said Tuesday that 22 of the 44 employes assigned to the west wing of the hospital were on duty on the day of the tragedy. He said the ideal force for the wing was 60 employes. Half of the workers were on leave or days off, he said.

The director was a witness in a Court of Claims case in which the state is being sued by the victim's survivors for $307,740. The survivors claim negligence and lack of supervision led to the deaths.

The five boys disappeared Sept. 7, 1960 and their bodies were found two days later in the heat tunnel.

Boys Not Found, Workers to Try New Mine Probes

CLEARFIELD, Pa. (AP)—Workers began new exploratory probes today at an abandoned clay mine as days of excavation work failed to find two boys presumed trapped by a cave-in.

Larry Husted, 10, and Wesley Lowe, 13, have been missing since Jan. 14 when they were last seen entering the old mine where they had a secret clubhouse.

Special equipment designed to lower cameras into probe-holes was being brought to the mine from the Birdwell Division of the Seismograph Service Corp. of Bradford. It was hoped that photographs taken deep inside the probe-holes would help map the tunnels and terrain.

Progress Noted In Park Program

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state's $75-million program to expand parks and recreation areas made rapid strides last year, the Conservation Department reports.

Commissioner Harold G. Wilm said Tuesday that $20 million set aside to acquire additional land for state parks had been completely committed.

In addition, he said, agreements were made last year to acquire campsites, fishing rights, boat - launching sites, hunting areas and other recreation areas. An allocation of $15 million was made for these phases of the program.

Wilm also said municipalities seeking grants under the program had obligated $30 million of the $40 million available to them.

The program, approved by the voters in 1960, is being financed by a bond issue. The money will be repaid through fees collected from persons using the facilities.

Governor to Hear Plea for Young Slayer Jan. 31st

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller will hear a plea for clemency next Wednesday on behalf of Salvatore Agron, 18, scheduled to die next month in Sing Sing's electric chair for slaying two youths in a Manhattan playground in 1959.

Rockefeller also will hear a plea that same day in behalf of Nathan Jackson, 26, who is to die Feb. 23 for the slaying of a policeman during a 1960 holdup of a hotel in Brooklyn.

The pleas to the governor constitute the last chance of both men for escaping the electric chair.

Agron, 16 at the time of the crime, was among 15 teen-agers who sought revenge on another group. The group with which Agron and his companions clashed, however, was not the group they were seeking.

Agron's execution is set for Feb. 15.

The State Court of Appeals upheld both convictions.

Other officers elected included the Rev. Ellis Gregg of Washingtonville, first vice moderator, and The Rev. Lee Fairfield of Mount Kisco, second vice moderator.

The presbytery was founded by a merger of the Westchester, North River and Hudson presbyteries.

The welfare problems of Newburgh were discussed at the meeting of 150 clergymen and laymen.

They adopted a resolution advocating greater church activity in the social and economic rehabilitation of needy persons. The resolution recommended that more clergymen and church laymen serve on welfare boards.

New Teacher Salary Schedule Is Adopted by Onteora Board

In an effort to attract and retain good teachers, the Onteora Board of Education has adopted a new salary schedule beginning at $5100 for teachers with Bachelor's Degrees.

In adopting the new schedule at the board's January meeting, members were unanimous in their belief that good teachers are the basic ingredient for good education.

The schedule was created for the two year period ending June 30, 1964, and is a cullmination of three months or combined faculty, administration and Board of Education study.

As a basis for this study, the first step was to determine the basic objectives the salary schedule aimed to a accomplish. It was agreed that the salary schedule should encompass the following factors:

1) be based on the number of years of professional experience with full credit for educational preparation and for prior teaching experience in the same field for whicl a teacher is hired.

2) provide a salary that would enable this district to compete favorably with those schools that traditionally attract the better teachers and also provide a salary that would be an incentive for those teachers already in the system to remain there

3) provide additional financial recognition for all teachers as they are placed on tenure and at periodic times thereafter, it should continue to grant increments after the automatic maximum is reached to all teachers rendering satisfactory service in the judgment of the administration

4) recognize advanced education beyond the Bachelor's Degree with additional compensation for those holding advanced degrees.

5) Recognize by additional compensation and/or reduction of teaching assignments the fulfillment of special duties which require more than a reasonable amount of time beyond an annually defined "basic teaching load."

6) Should be developed cooperatively by teachers, administrators and school board members.

7) Permit no discrimination as to grade, grade level, subject taught, creed, race, sex, marital status, or number of dependents.

8) Provide separate pay formulas for substitutes part-time teachers, home teachers, and adult education teachers.

Helps New Teachers

Teachers with experience also profit from the new salary program, the Board of Education pointed out. For example, a teacher with 4 years college preparation can advance with $200 annual increments to $7700 over a period of 14 years, if service to the district is satisfactory. The range for teachers with a Master's Degree for the same 14 year period is from $5600 to $8200 with $200 annual increments, if service is satisfactory.

All major districts in the state are obliged to conform to the mandated minimum salary law established by New York State legislation which requires that fully certified teachers with a Bachelor's Degree receive at least a minimum salary of $4200 and must be automatically advanced by $200 annual increments to $6200. The state also places the minimum teacher's salary for the Master's Degree at $4500 extending to $6500 and the minimum salary for teachers with Bachelor's plus 30 hours to $4800 extending automatically to $6800.

During preliminary study by the board of education, it was discovered that the Onteora district was 23rd out of 32 schools in the Mid-Hudson area in the amount of money paid as a beginning salary to teachers. In addition, it was 13th of the same 32 schools in payment of maximum salaries. The average minimum salary for Bachelor's Degrees in the 32 schools during 1961-62 school year was $4641 and the average maximum for the same schools was $7760.

Best Play Will Lose

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Here is another hand from the Houston tryouts. South's seven-diamond contract is a good one and can be made, but no one did make it. The reason is that the best play loses.

This is it. Win the club opening in your own hand. Lead a spade to the ace, ruff a spade low, lead a diamond to the queen, ruff a spade high.

At this point if spades had broken four-three, dummy's spades would have been good and you would simply draw trumps and make your contract. But spades broke five-two and you have to draw trumps and eventually try the heart finesse which would not have worked.

The play that wins is decidedly inferior if you aren't looking at all the cards. You win the club in your own hand and go after the hearts by playing the ace and ruffing one. Return to your hand with a club, ruff another heart, get back to your hand by playing the ace of spades and ruffing a spade; ruff another heart with the ace of diamonds, overtake the queen of diamonds with your king, cash the jack of diamonds dropping West's ten while you discard a spade from dummy, cash your nine of diamonds and discard dummy's last spade and make the last two tricks with dummy's ace of clubs and king of spades.

Some Reminders While You Drive

In my auto, the meter read,
As I stepped on the gas, I said,
Forty five miles is quite a speed,
"Highways are happy ways," indeed.
And as I travelled on this day,
I drove along on a highway,
Now fifty-five, and all alone.
I felt like "Heaven was my home."
At sixty-five, I'm going good,
And for seventy-five, if I could,
Now I hear, directed at me,
The song, "I hear you calling me."
At seventy-five, came loud and clear,
The music seemed so very near.
The old refrain, so dear to me,
The song, "Nearer my God to Thee."
I don't know what came over me,
I tried for eighty-five, you see,
No longer do I care to roam,
So sing to me, "I'm coming home."

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Imports rising faster than exports can put the United States $3 billion behind this year in its financial dealings with the rest of the world—the fifth straight annual deficit in its balance of payments.

That's the estimate of more than 40 economists and financial officers of leading U.S. corporations with exporting, importing and international financial dealings.

Could Embarrass JFK

The deficit could further embarrass the administration in its battle to bring such a loss to a halt, ward off any threat of new outflows of U.S. Treasury gold or of new doubts abroad about the strength of the dollar.

The experts—the Balance of Payments Group of the National Foreign Trade Council—say the $3-billion deficit could be brought down if advance payments on military contracts are made by Germany and possibly other nations. This could hold the deficit to around $2.5 billion, roughly the same as is estimated for 1961. Such advance payments helped hold the 1961 deficit down.

The worry over a continuing deficit of any magnitude comes from the 1960 experience when a $3.9-billion deficit set off a $1.7-billion loss of gold. This and fear of dollar devaluation sent the price of that metal from its official $35 an ounce to a brief $40.60 on the London free market late in October 1960.

Brought on Action

It caused both the outgoing Dwight D. Eisenhower and incoming President Kennedy administrations to take measures to halt the outflow and trim the deficit. They sought to boost exports, cut spending abroad, and raise interest rates here high enough to keep short-term money here—in 1960 some $2 billion of this went overseas to get higher returns.

International payments get out of balance when the outflow of dollars for imports, foreign aid, military committments, investments, travel and the like exceeds the return flow of dollars for our exports and returns on investments.

In the first three quarters of 1961 the over-all deficit had been cut to an annual rate of $1.5 billion. But rising imports toward the end of the year and overseas movements of short term capital sent the deficit up again.

The Council's Balance of Payment Group estimates that imports in 1962—helped by increasing business activity here—will rise to $16.3 billion, compared with $14.5 billion last year and the previous record of $15.2 billion in 1959.

The group looks for commercial exports to rise to $20.5 billion from the 1961 record of $19.9 billion. While this trade will leave the United States with a surplus, it won't be enough to offset the other outlays of dollars abroad.

Medical Training Course Scheduled In Albany March 5

New horizons in voluntary health work demand new skills for staff members of national, state and local tuberculosis associations, president Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb Sr. of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, Inc. said this week in announcing local participation in a medical training course.

He said that Miss Hazel M. Steed, RN, executive director of the association, will attend a three-day session on "Medical Background for Respiratory Diseases" at Albany, starting March 5.

"As we in Ulster County move into the area of respiratory diseases including TB," Dr. Holcomb said, "it is imperative that our health workers know as much about this field as they do about TB.

"Since respiratory disease involves the family doctor to a far greater degree than does TB," he continued, "we must increasingly acquaint ourselves with his problems, much as we have with public health physicians in TB-control. The institute will cover basic medical terminology, the anatomy and physiology of the circulatory and respiratory systems, the causation of disease, and an introduction to diagnostic and therapeutic possibilities."

The training program will be conducted by Dr. Eric R. Osterberg and Dr. Albert J. Beckmann of the Columbia University School of Public Health and Administrative Medicine. In addition, George R. Williams, chief of the respiratory disease program of the National Tuberculosis Association, will relate the medical material to activities being developed in the field of lung-disabling illnesses.

The regional training course is one of four being conducted throughout the state, initiated by the New York State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health in cooperation with Columbia University's program of continuation education in public health and the National Tuberculosis Association.

The first session was held in New York City in January. Following the Albany meeting, there will be similar presentations in Elmira April 25, 26, 27 and Rochester May 9, 10, 11.

Ulster County TB and Health Association is a voluntary organization supported by the Christmas Seals Campaign. It is affiliated with the state committee and the National Tuberculosis Association.

A Passion for Growth

Turns Borrowed $2,500 Into $40-Million Firm

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (ap) — "Success begins at home," said Jeno F. Paulucci, who in 15 years built a borrowed $2,500 into a $40-million food empire.

"No matter how depressed the area you live in may seem, if you look around you can find idle resources you can develop. Growth is possible anywhere."

Jeno is the son of an immigrant Italian miner in Minnesota's hard-hit Mesabi iron range.

$400,000 First Year

At 13 he earned $2.50 a week in a grocery store and remembers "sometimes I had to take my pay in spotted fruits and vegetables."

At 17 he became a wholesale grocery salesman, slept in his car at night, ate his own food samples to cut down expenses.

At 27 he borrowed $2,500 to grow beansprouts. His office was a rented quonset hut, and the first year he took in $400,000. This year he expects to gross exactly 100 times that figure — or $40 million.

At 43, Jeno has become far more than America's beansprout king. As president of the Chun King Corp., headquartering in Duluth, Minn., he is the nation's largest manufacturer of American-Oriental foods.

He also packages Italian delicacies. He has a food empire that stretches from Minnesota to Florida. He has six plants, some 1,600 employes, a fleet of 40 trailer trucks. He raises or processes everything from mushrooms to blueberries, wild rice to celery — on more than 700,000 acres.

Must Create Service

He even markets potting soil, sod and moss. He has just started a nationwide chain of Chinese drive-in restaurants.

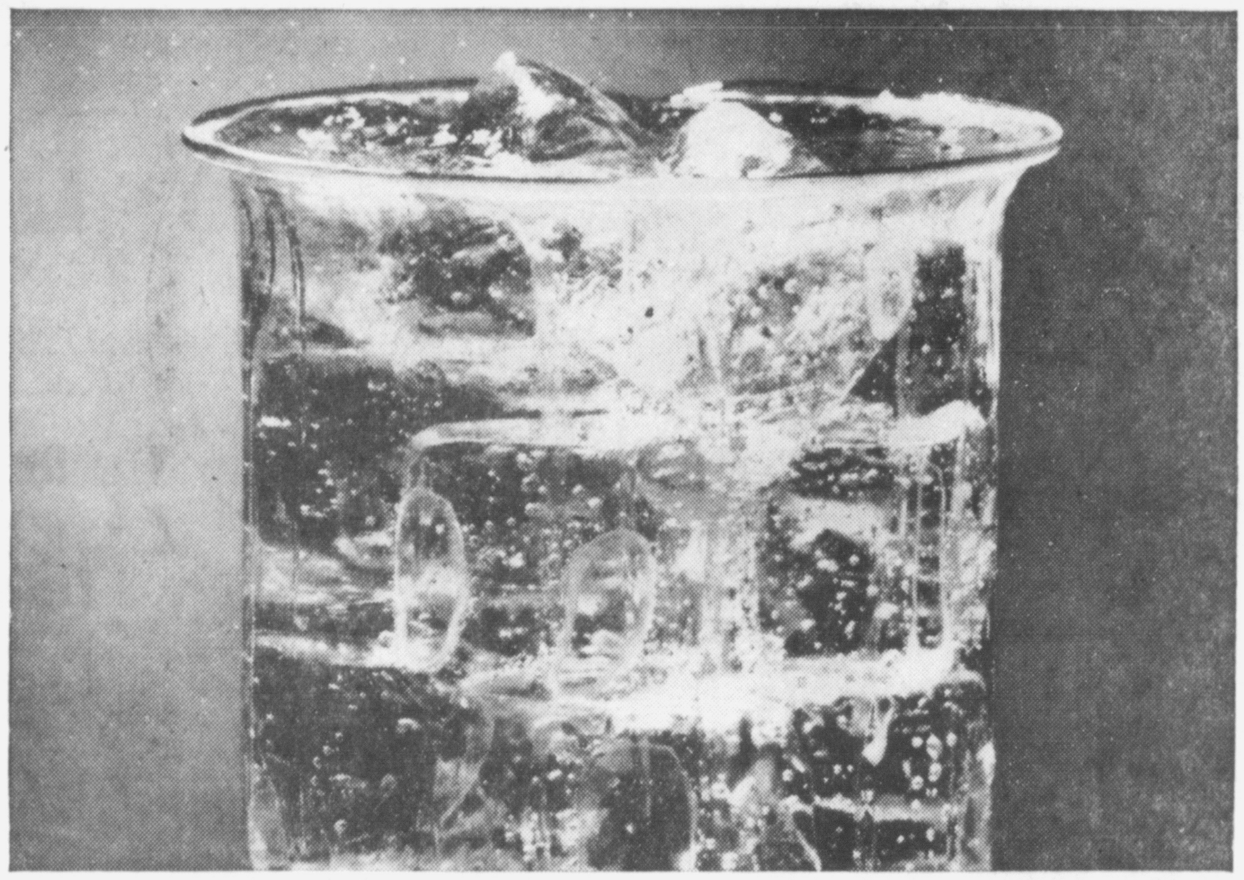

One thing led to another for Paulucci, a slender, blue-eyed man with a passion for growth.

"Just as a farmer must plow something back into his soil, so must a businessman. He must create a service, or make something grow where nothing grew before," he says.

"There is a tremendous satisfaction in building a business against odds in a geographical area where other industries have failed.

"You turn a handicap into an advantage — that's one of the great secrets. It unlocks your mind and makes you alert and creative. Handicaps strengthen your organization."

Butane boils and bubbles even though beaker is filled with ice cubes. It is rapidly turning into vapor—the way boiling water turns into steam. Butane's ability to vaporize at low temperatures helps Super Shell gasoline give you quick starts in cold weather.

One of Super Shell's 9 ingredients can boil on ice. Helps your car start fast for top performance on coldest days.

EVEN in zero weather, a car in good mechanical condition should start in 3 or 4 seconds.

If it doesn't, could be that your gasoline isn't vaporizing fast enough. Winter can have that effect on gasoline.

Shell scientists take care of this problem by including an ingredient called Butane in Super Shell's 9-ingredient formula.

Butane can hardly wait to vaporize. It will even boil on ice and turn to vapor (see picture above). Fast vaporization, fast starts. It's that simple.

Note: in very cold weather, Super Shell gets an extra dose of Butane.

Quick-starting Butane is only one of Super Shell's cold-weather ingredients. There are three in all. Read how the other two can also help you when winter's doing its worst.

Pentane mix—for fast warm-ups

The Pentane mix in Super Shell's winter blend helps speed the "warm-up" process inside your engine. Pentane mix works like kindling in a log fire. It ignites easily—gets everything going faster.

"Anti-icer" fights icing stalls

The third cold-weather ingredient in Super Shell's winter blend is an anti-icer.

Its job is to fight carburetor icing. This phenomenon can lead to sudden stalls when you least expect them.

Shell's "anti-icer" coats vital carburetor parts with a very thin chemical film. This film discourages critical ice buildup and cuts your chances of icing stalls.

How Super Shell's other ingredients help you get top performance

Now you know about three of the nine ingredients in today's Super Shell. Here's how the others help to give your car top performance.

TCP* additive helps restore the power that combustion deposits can take away.

"Cat-cracked" gasoline is for smooth, even power with a purr.

Alkylate helps control "high-speed knock."

Gum preventive helps keep carburetors clean inside.

Anti-knock mix gives extra resistance to knock.

Platformate is for extra mileage.

P.S. When you drive in for a tankful of Super Shell, ask your Shell dealer to check your anti-freeze. It's a small precaution, but it could save you a lot of trouble.

*Trademark for Shell's unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U.S. Patent 2889212.

AND SHOP

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The Kingston City Directory—be it the 1858 one loaned to me by O. A. Goodsell of 43 Crane Street or the 1954 one given me by Charles J. Turck, Insurance agents of 110 Prince Street—all show the changes that take place constantly in Kingston.

I just started down on Broadway and Ferry Street in 1954 and see for instance at 6 Broadway Judge J. B. Sterley and Dr. W. B. Dean, dentist, and the Homeseekers' Savings and Loan Association have all moved away. W. S. Skelton's barbershop of 13 Broadway, and S. Kline's ladies clothing store, are gone. Martin's Broadway Market and Charlie Pavlidis of the Broadway Oyster and Chop House, as well as Goldman's dress shop have moved up to Kingston from Rondout.

Packer's Paint Supply of 36 Broadway, Coopers' Confectionery of 40 Broadway, Dr. A. J. Segal, optometrist, Morgan Linen Co. Inc. of 52 Broadway and Singer's Dry Goods store of 60 Broadway are all gone from Rondout. The Coopers are now in Monticello. The Singers are vacationing in Florida; Dr. Segal has his office in his home on Washington Avenue.

North Front Street has had some changes too. Both Mr. Levine, the tailor, of 41 North Front Street and his son, Mike Levine, the jewelry shop are no longer there. The Levine family were on that street for many years. Kantrowitz Sportswear are now in their handsome new building on Wall Street. Hymes men's furnishings and Suntag Drugs were on North Front Street also for many years. The late Sam Marcus, was pharmacist and owner of Suntag's until his death.

Going further up Broadway, no doubt many used to enjoy an ice-cream sundae at D. J. Maroon's at 448 Broadway. They retired several years ago. Samuels and Son's fruit market at 583 Broadway, corner Cedar Street was a popular place which is no longer there. Strauss Auto Supply Corp. was at 594 Broadway in this book, and later went to Albany Avenue and just recently closed. Remus Wholesale Cigars and Candy used to be at 612 Broadway, now is owned and run by Willis Locke on Furnace Street. Willis Locke, is a former fighter pilot of World War II.

I remember when M. Reina, air conditioning, was down in Stock and Cordts building, in Rondout, then later at 616 Broadway. N. Stock's Sons Inc. from their building in Rondout went to 661 Broadway and are now retired. Watrous electrical appliance has been for a number of years in the interesting octagonal shaped building at 693 Broadway where his color scheme is green. He always has a charming flower arrangement all summer long. The Interchange at Albany Avenue brought about many changes indeed, and perhaps some of Mr. Watrous's talent for flowers could be put to use to enhance that triangle. He certainly knows what grows things in this climate of ours.

Now it is going to be interesting to watch the changes which I imagine will take place in the coming few years with our large new shopping centers on the outskirts of town, a new trend is happening all over. One prominent architect said several years ago, that there will be no centralized cities for shopping, only for necessary public buildings. Homes and housing will be connected with big roads and shopping centers. The automobile has certainly changed river travel, train travel, into every family for himself by private car for shopping and pleasure and business. The future of course is a mystery.

Gardiner

Taxpayers to Meet

GARDINER — A discussion of the lack of action on a new firehouse for Gardiner will be among topics on the agenda at a meeting of the Gardiner Civic and Taxpayers Association Monday 8 p. m. at the firehouse.

Other items to be discussed are appointments and actions of the town board; school and community problems; town and county budgets and taxes.

In the event of bad weather conditions and canceling of the meeting members will be notified by telephone.

Reformed Church Notes

Church school of the Gardiner Reformed Church will meet 9:45 a. m. The Christmas slides will be shown during the opening exercises.

Worship services will be held 11 a. m. with the Rev. George Van Emberg preaching on The Gift of Salvation.

Infants baptized last Sunday morning were Allan Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brooks; Bartholomew Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bart V. Colucci; Mark Allan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel L. Hewlett and Dale Allan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Niles Townsend.

The annual congregational meeting will be held at the church hall Friday 8 p. m. The election of elders and deacons will take place and a final vote will be taken for a new hall.

Community Notes

The Forest Glen Home Demonstration Unit met at the home of Mrs. Ivan Ostrander Wednesday afternoon with 14 members present. Mrs. Kenneth E. Hasbrouck, chairman, presided. After the routine business, plans were made for a Valentine party at the Ulster County Home and Infirmary, New Paltz. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Frederick Heider will celebrate their wedding anniversary Feb. 1 Mrs. Heider, who is president of the Gardiner Fire Department Auxiliary, will celebrate her birthday on the same date.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nitsch Sr., visited his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nitsch of Yonkers last week.

Miss Henrietta Lyons of Jersey City, was a weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. James George.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Schiro and son Donald, of New Paltz, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Clinton Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Soules and family of Poughkeepsie, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Soules' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy.

matter of fact

Ever think of eating a rose? Hundreds of people send roses to their favorite people, but how many have thought of eating them? Well, rose petals are used quite often in cooking; particularly, in making confections and flavoring desserts.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The television show that Ernie Kovacs put together and taped a few weeks before his death on Jan. 13 was shown by ABC Tuesday night. Happily, it contained a typical and wide assortment of the things that Ernie—and most of the rest of us—thought were funny.

There were the wordless, short sight gags—the beautiful lady of the harem who drops her veil to reveal a Vandyke beard; the house of cards that drops through the concrete foundation as the last pasteboard is put in place; an art restorer working on Lincoln's twitching nose at Mt. Rushmore, to mention a few.

There were fine sketches demolishing phony avant garde poetry, painting and sculpture done in "Person-to-Person" style. In the first, Kovacs, playing the interviewer, conducted an arty interview with a poet who was persuaded to read his new epic, "Dearth:"

"Dearth, dearth, dwack

"Oh, sheaves of weed the wind"

"There's a lot of truth in that," said Kovacs in reverent tones.

It was adroit, imaginative nonsense. The sponsor omitted the commercials, and at the end an announcer quoted the clergyman at Kovacs' funeral, "We loved this man. He gave happiness, joy and gaiety to the world." And he did, including Tuesday night.

Hugh O'Brian, who after all those successful years playing a bold, intrepid Western lawman in "Wyatt Earp" has managed to pull out of the type-casting rut, so feared by performers, in jig-time. This fall he starred in a Broadway play, a family drama, and now he will play the hero in an upcoming NBC "Theatre '62," adaptation of "Spellbound," a role about as far away from a quick-draw cowtown marshal as an actor can get.

Although TV inherited a number of radio's habits and devices, including its rigid method of splitting the hour into 15-minute, half-hour and one-hour shows, it has developed its very own conventions in dealing with weather reports.

Where radio usually handles climate conditions adequately with a brisk sentence or two at the end of its news reports, TV has developed special weather shows and they last a full five minutes.

What most of us want to hear can be delivered in split seconds: what is it doing now and what will it be like tomorrow?

But TV has gussied up weather reports with charts, chalk-talks, pretty girls, selections from almanacs and reminders of important dates in history, discussions of high pressure systems moving down and low pressure systems moving up and a sampling of temperature highs and lows all over the country.

Why? So the station can sell a five-minute weather show package to sponsors, that's why.

HIGHLAND NEWS

PEO Observes Founders Day

HIGHLAND — Founder's Day was observed at the meeting of Chapter A, PEO Sisterhood Thursday at the home of Mrs. Frank Kedenburg who was assisted by Mrs. Paul Frampton.

The PEO Sisterhood had its beginnings in the Iowa Wesleyan College, Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, in 1829. The seven founders were honored in a candlelight service by seven members of Chapter A, Mrs. Ruth Decker, Mrs. Marian Ferguson, Mrs. Ruth Frampton, Miss Ethel Haines, Mrs. Muriel Kadenburg, Mrs. Edith Mullen, Mrs. Babette Lent. As the candle was lighted a brief sketch was given of the one the candle represented.

Chapter A was organized in March 1899 at the home of Mrs. Charles E. Browne and the founders were represented by Mrs. Elizabeth Plank for Mrs. Mary Pratt; Mrs. Kathryn Wilcox for Mrs. Martha C. Schantz; Mrs. Ellen Rathgeb for Miss Mary Elmore; Miss Eliza Ives Raymond for Mrs. Gertie Ives Feeter; Mrs. Bernice Watson for Mrs. Etta Lane; Mrs. Mildred Weed Percy for Mrs. Dora Weed Willklow; Mrs. Vera Coy for Miss Laura M. Tillson; Mrs. Ernestine Weygant for Mrs. Lillian C. Browne. A brief resume of each charter member was given and a picture or article associated with them was shown.

Chapter A, the first chapter in New York State or in the east became a reality through Mrs. Pratt, who after a visit to her early home, Humiston, Iowa, became a member, and on her return was instrumental in forming a chapter here, and served as its first president with Mrs. Feeter, vice president; Miss Tillson, corresponding and recording secretary; Mrs. Schantz, treasurer; Mrs. Browne, chaplain; Mrs. Wilklow, guard; Mrs. Schantz, journalist; Mrs. Feeter, Mrs. Wilklow, Mrs. Lane, by-law committee.

The late Mrs. Jennie H. Rose was author of the first 25 years of the chapter's history, printed in book form, and the chapter enters its 63rd year with a growing membership. Mrs. Weygant was program chairman.

Rocky Is Silent On How Far He'll Go for Carlino

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller took a guarded position today on the extent of the role he will play in next week's public hearing on the conflict-of-interest charge against Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino.

Carlino, who has been a close political ally of Rockefeller's, is accused of a conflict of interest in the Rockefeller school-fallout shelter program passed at a special session of the Legislature last November.

When the bill was passed, Carlino was a director of a firm manufacturing shelters.

Assemblyman Donald A. Campbell, R-Amsterdam, chairman of the Assembly Committee on Ethics, announced Tuesday that Rockefeller had requested an opportunity "to present a statement to the committee on the evolution and development of the state's civil defense program and fallout-shelter legislation."

The governor's office said later Rockefeller would make a statement to the committee and "it will be public."

But the governor's office turned away all other questions.

A newspaper had reported that the governor would appear personally in defense of Carlino at the hearing, which opens in the Senate Chamber Feb. 1.

In any case, the wording of the announcement from the Ethics Committee indicated that Rockefeller's statement would be limited to how the fallout-shelter legislation was drawn and would not deal with the alleged conflict of interest.

Assemblyman Mark Lane, D-Manhattan, who brought the the charge against Carlino, has said a fallout shelter firm with which Carlino was associated had advance knowledge of the shelter legislation.

Carlino and firm officials have denied this.

The bill provided $100 million in state assistance for construction of fallout shelters by schools, colleges and universities.

Ice Cream Colors, Easy Going Tweeds Are Spring Offering

By GABRIELLE SMITH

PARIS (AP) — Guy Laroche rang in this third day of spring and summmer Paris fashion openings with an eminently wearable collection that had its luscious moments as well.

Completely wearable were the tweed suits with small jackets, easy skirts that rose a bit above the waist in front and cowl-necked silk blouses.

Lusciousness came in with crepe dresses in sherbet colors you could eat, glimmering many-rowed colored necklaces and bell-bottomed shantung trousers, to wear at home of course.

The suits tend to be straight backed and very light looking. Some have "V" necks filled in with triangular masses of beads, or splashes of color in a bias collar that falls in a fold to look like a scarf. Coats are smooth, simple and almost straight. One navy blue model repeated the cowl-necked effect in its lapels.

Striking was an orange coat over an apricot silk dress with a bloused back. With it was worn a matching bowler hat tipped on the back of the head. The whole effect was lighter than gauze.

Color harmonies were one of Laroche's highlights. An orange transparent organza coat over a baby pink dress, the whole topped with a pink and apricot straw hat, looked like something you could order at the soda fountain.

NAACP Representatives Are Guest Speakers At YWCA Public Affairs Group Open Meeting

Two representatives of NAACP were guest speakers at the YWCA Public Affairs Committee open meeting Monday night at the YWCA.

Everette Hodge, president of the local chapter, and Carl Roach spoke about the aims of the national organization and its methods of working through the courts of the land for the rights of the Negro. Since its inception, the NAACP has brought 37 cases up through the courts to the U. S. Supreme Court, 36 decisions favorable.

Prior to the organization's founding, lynchings averaged 200 per year. Today lynching is practically stamped out.

Locally the Ulster County Chapter is working toward encouraging the Negro boy and girl to go on with their education — finish high school, go to college—in order that they can be prepared to accept better jobs, raise their economic level. And at the same time the NAACP is working toward opening up fields of endeavor to the Negro boy or girl who has the education and skills to do the job.

The problems of housing, jobs, education and financing were discussed during the question and answer period.

The Public Affairs Committee plans to have a series of meetings on inter-racial subjects to find out how the YWCA as a Christian organization embracing all creeds, races and backgrounds, can be most effective in the community.

DECLINING A PROFFERED GIFT

Q: Is it ever permissible to thank a friend for a proffered gift and at the same time to decline it? I have done this several times over a period of years, but always wonder if it is correct. Two different friends offered me earrings which I do not wear, another friend wanted to give me perfume which I do not use. Each time I asked that they pass the gift to someone who could use it. Apparently I have not so far offended anyone by these tactics but feel uncomfortable, fearing it is not the kindest thing to do. Please advise me.

A: No one should be offended by your frankly saying, "Oh they're lovely and you're very kind to offer them to me but earrings are unbecoming to my face and I would never be able to wear them. Do give them to someone who will enjoy them."

Q: My husband died six weeks ago. My niece is to be married next month. I am very fond of her and feel sad at having to miss the wedding, but I do not think it would be proper for me to go under the circumstances. What is your opinion?

A: Considering the bride is your niece it would not be improper for you to be present at the church ceremony, and certainly no one would criticize you for going to the reception for a short time to greet your family and wish the bride and groom happiness.

Q: Recently we have had a series of weddings among the people in our office, and most of them have sent an invitation to the office which was posted on the bulletin board. Some people think this is sufficent; others feel that they would hesitate to go to a wedding to which they had not been sent a personal invitation. What is correct in this instance?

A: A blanket invitation to an office group is entirely proper and no one should hesitate to accept it.

We The Women

Frequent Job Moves Are Gals' Ambition in Action

RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A business executive complains that unmarried women show lack of ambition because they shift from job to job, depending on the availability of eligible men.

Of course they want to work where there are eligible men around. But that's not lack of ambition. That's ambition of the most fundamental kind, from a woman's point of view.

After all, the lifetime career that appeals to most women is marriage. So from an unmarried woman's point of view—no matter how well paid or how responsible her job—if she never comes in contact with an eligible man it is a futile job, no matter how good her chances of promotion.

So it is rather unfair for a man to judge a woman's ambition or lack of it from a purely masculine viewpoint.

The girls who leave jobs because they don't bring them contact with eligible men can't be compared to young men who change jobs frequently for reasons that have nothing to do with advancement. The men who keep on the move may be lacking in ambition.

But the girl who moves from job to job until she finds one where there are a few unmarried men around has plenty of ambition, from a feminine point of view.

She isn't letting anything—a pay check, the promise of advancement, or security—keep her from heading for her major goal of marriage.

So let's not call her "unambitious." Let's admit she is a smart girl who knows exactly what she wants out of life, one who isn't going to waste years in an office where she doesn't have a chance of finding a husband.

YW Membership Campaign Gets Underway With Workshop Session, Luncheon Tuesday

The YWCA is launching an all association membership campaign under the general direction of Mrs. John W. Hill, membership chairman. The campaign got underway Tuesday with a workshop session and President's Council luncheon at the YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue.

With the theme, Every Member Bring a Member it is the aim of the campaign to double the present membership of the association. Febrdary has been designated as membership month and the present campaign will end Feb. 23. The five women bringing in the most members during the specified time will be given their choice of awards.

The aim of the membership campaign is not only to enlist members for the clubs now in existence but to bring to the general membership an increased number of electors. When the local organization was chartered some 35 years ago approximately 1,000 women were enlisted as charter members. Over the years many have been lost through death, transfer to other localities and interests.

The present facilities of the YWCA have been used by many groups outside the membership and are always available. With the Community Chest expanding its functions to include the outlying areas of the county, it is the hope of the association that many women from these areas will be interested in the organization. " Joining the YWCA said Mrs. Hill, "does not necessarily mean becoming a club or committee member, but rather a means of expressing an interest in the total purpose of the YWCA." Executive Director, Mrs. Eleanor Booth, gave a general history of the association.

In addition to the large number of youth and adult activities offered by the YWCA, it also offers a convenient place to drop in while waiting for an appointment, a place to freshen up for the business person or even a meeting place for a small group who might be in need of a meeting room. Also the YWCA offers babysitting service with a qualified person in charge three days a week.

Interested persons who would like to join the YWCA now during membership month may contact the YWCA office or any member.

In attendance at the meeting were, in addition to those listed, the Mmes. David Snell, R. R. Empringham, Harold Davis, Miss Florence Cordts, Mrs. Richard Goetsch, Mrs. Richard Joseph, Mrs. Paul Hoverman, Mrs. Herbert Kaufman, Mrs. William Keith, Mrs. Donald Hulsair, Mrs. Elsie Ford, Mrs. Agnes Wagner, Mrs. John Warren, Miss Marcia Clark, Miss Bertha Waterman, Miss Matilda Martin, Mrs. Mary D. Short, Mrs. Fred Port, Mrs. Eleanor Booth, Mrs. John Greco, Mrs. Richard Culver.

Mrs. Elga Curtis and Mrs. Lewis Short were in charge of the luncheon.

Measure Would Cut Dinner Deductions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The traditional business lunch or dinner seemed safe today as a full income tax deduction — but the prospects were dimmer for a round of night clubs with a customer.

The House Ways and Means Committee, looking for more revenue from tighter tax laws, Tuesday ordered a legislative section drafted that would permit deduction of only 50 per cent of most business entertainment expenses—and require proof of the expenses.

Such draft orders usually mean substantial agreement in the committee, which handles tax matters.

The version the committee ordered prepared for a final vote presumably would tax much business entertainment money which is exempt under present law, although there were no firm estimates. It falls considerably short of President Kennedy's recommendations, which would have completely eliminated deductions for most business expenses.

Education Change In State Blocked ByRegentsSystem

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—An educational change in the state's public schools is being blocked by the traditional system of Regents examinations, an Education Department consultant maintains.

He proposed an experiment to modernize teaching methods and suggested a suspension of the Regents tests while the experiment was being tried.

Dr. Henry M. Brickell criticized the examination system and outlined his recommmendations Tuesday in a report of a year-long study on bringing more effective teaching methods to the state's elementary and secondary schools.

Pupils must pass statewide Regents examinations to qualify for an academic diploma, usually sought by students intending to go to college.

Brickell, assistant superintendent of schools in Manhasset, said in his report the inhibiting influence of the examinations was "beyond any question whatsoever."

He said hundreds of high schools were visited last May and June and that copies of previous Regents exams constituted at least 10 per cent of the curriculum in the typical high school academic course.

The experiment proposed by Brickell called for establishment of two agencies to encourage new instructional programs in the public schools.

He suggested that the Board of Regents create:

A semi - autonomous research agency to design educational programs in various sections of the state.

A school-development unit to disseminate information programs worked out by the research agency.

The research group's programs would be tested and, if found successful, recommended to proposed regional school-development units.

These units would be made up of between 10 and 20 school districts. Each large city would have one such unit. New York City would have 25. All school districts would be required to participate.

POLLY'S QUIZ

By POLLY CRAMER

Imaginative Use of Sheets Helps Create Outstanding Room

Here is a recipe for a budget bedroom worthy of today's homemaker or a bride-to-be. Ingredients:

- Two single sheets to curtain each window (in any spring flower color).
- Two striped single sheets to make the dust ruffle for the bed.
- One full size striped sheet to make the slip cover for a boudoir chair.
- One full-size sheet (like those at the windows) to quilt for a bedspread.
- Then add a dash of imagination. For example, apply the leftover strips of the striped sheets as bands on the curtains.

Plus: so little time that you'll never miss it.

Dear Polly: We were fortunate enough to get the essential pieces of furniture included with the house we recently bought. Now, I must make it come to life, make it ours. The living room has spice beige walls and natural woodwork. Sofa and chair in beige are to stay as they are. Lounge chair and barrel chairs have to be done over. Draperies are light beige. We would like to use persimmon but on what and how? Floors are hardwood so we are going to use cotton throw rugs. — Mrs. M. S.

Dear Mrs. M. S.: First, make sure that those throw rugs are large enough and firm enough so that they won't crumple up every time someone walks across the floor. Cover the chairs with the same gay floral chintz, possibly a light avocado green ground with lots of persimmon color, some brown and gold or cream in the pattern. Add two rows of fringe or braid, persimmon and green, down the inside edges of the beige curtains.

Dear Polly: I have a large kitchen with brown and yellow tile floor, knotty pine cupboards and wood work with natural finish. What color for walls and curtains? I would like yellow but thought it would make the room look too big. Appliances are white. How could I decorate one wall without putting on wallpaper? — Mrs. R. A.

Dear Mrs. R. A.: Yellow walls would not make your kitchen seem too large; this color always looks cozy and warm. Curtains in a big brown-and-white check would be pretty. Make an interesting grouping on the wall with black iron trivets, framed herb charts or some of those beguiling dish towels (framed) that the shops are now showing.

Correction Made On Holcomb Talk

Officers of B'nai B'rith Zephaniah Lodge 131 were quick today to correct certain statements attributed to Dr. Frederic Holcomb Jr. in Tuesday's report of his talk before B'nai B'rith at their annual medical meeting. Inadvertently, some confusion was caused by certain statements attributed to Dr. Holcomb which were contrary to those originally and actually expressed.

In order to clarify the situation, Dr. Holcomb was asked for a statement concerning the article which appeared in last night's Freeman.

The statements attributed to Dr. Holcomb were taken from a release submitted to The Freeman by a spokesman of B'nai B'rith Lodge in reporting the events at the meeting. (Editor's Note.)

"I am quite concerned," said Dr. Holcomb, "That I was misquoted in the report of my address to the B'nai B'rith. I am certain that the errors were unintentional, but feel I must make corrections. My primary intention was to describe the basic functions of occupational medical programs, and my references to our local IBM regulations were merely illustrative. I indicated that some industries incorporated the so-called 'executive medical examinations', but that at present we confined our periodic medical examinations to certain employes working in key assignments."

"I am even more concerned about the report of my statements concerning the proposed federal legislation to link medical care for the aged to the Social Security program. I initially made it clear that in my comments in this regard, I was speaking as a practicing member of the medical profession, and not as a representative of any industrial organization. I stated that the medical profession, as represented by the American Medical Association, was unalterably opposed to the plan under consideration by Congress as the King-Anderson Bill. I urged all those present who were in sympathy with the philosophies I expressed, to write our congressional representatives urging them to oppose any such legislation. This viewpoint is obviously quite the opposite of that reported in the Tuesday paper."

"I would like to reiterate that I consider it most constructive that a group such as B'nai B'rith would set aside an annual meeting to acquaint themselves with the principles of medical specialties, and was honored by their invitation to address their 1962 medical meeting.

Institutions Praised

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon says the individual American, working through voluntary organizations, will provide the great differential in the struggle against communism.

The former vice president, now a candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, praised what he called nongovernmental institutions in a speech Tuesday night at the annual installation banquet of the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce.

He described as nongovernmental institutions the churches, the press, philanthropic organizations and trade associations.

April Earliest Date Possible For School Vote

The vote on the proposed school bond issue will be deferred until at the very earliest it was learned at a meeting Monday night of the Citizens Advisory Committee to the board of education.

Sarkis Arkell, representing the architects, told the committee and four members of the board of education in attendance that several delays have made it necessary to defer the vote to either April or June.

He indicated that it is not likely that new buildings will be ready for occupancy before the end of December 1963, unless present plans are accelerated.

In the hope of contributing to acceleration, the advisory committee voted almost unanimously to confirm its previous recommendations to the board and, to limit its representation at future meetings of the Board to the chairman and vice chairman of the committee rather than attempt to have the entire committee present—at least until such time as the board of education requests opinions from the committee on problems that may present themselves. Miss Grace Anderson is chairman and Norman Nitschke is vice chairman.

The previous recommendations which had been made by the advisory committee to the board and which were confirmed Monday night were that the board should proceed with its plans to construct a 14-room building at Katsbaan; and should also construct the nucleus for a junior high school building on the present high school site. The addition would consist of ten classrooms, nine of which will be on the second floor of the addition, the tenth on the first floor. The remaining area on the first floor would consist of a cafeteria, a homemaking suite, an art room, and two science rooms. The special rooms are planned in accordance with recommendations of the State Education Department.

It is the assumption of the board and committee that when the junior high school nucleus is added to in future years, it would include the other essential features and facilities for a 1,000-pupil junior high school building as follows: a two-station gymnasium and lockers, a shop contiguous to the present ones, music rooms, additional classrooms, administration suite, health suite, library, and other features.

The plans for the proposed building at the Katsbaan site include 12 regular classrooms; a kindergarten room; a special classroom; administrative area; an all-purpose room to be used as a gymnasium, auditorium, and lunch room; a small instrumental music room; an area for the art instructor; and a health room.

The Katsbaan site which is on the southwest corner of the Jensen Preston property has been surveyed and the architects will now determine the best location for the building and take test borings; also explore the water supply. An option has been secured from Mrs. Verna Elliott on a small strip of land which lies between Route 32 and the Preston property in order that an entrance may be provided to the property from Route 32.

Some members of the advisory committee once more expressed concern over the fact that a shortage of classrooms in the local district will place over 700 boys and girls on a reduced-time schedule beginning next fall. These include the boys and girls in the second, third, and fourth grades throughout the system.

It is feared by the board of education that the following year some part of the high school may have to go on an abbreviated schedule; also, that approximately an additional 400 pupils in the grades will have to be placed on a half-time schedule each year. This would mean that in the school year 1963-64 approximately 1100 grade pupils would be on a part-time schedule along with part of the high school student group.

Sister Bernard, principal of St. Mary's School, announced to the parents that the Heaf Tuberculin test will be given to pupils in grades 1, 2, 3, and 6 Tuesday, Feb. 6.

She also reported that the SRA Reading Program is progressing very favorably and the pupils interest is exceptionally keen. It is hoped the program will induce the students to continue reading worthwhile literature.

The P-TA will sponsor a dance on Feb. 10 in Columbus Hall, more details will be announced at a later date.

Lions Hear Plans For Malden Park

At the Monday night meeting of the Saugerties Lions Club at the Flamingo Restaurant, Frank Greco described the possibility of a state supported recreational area for Malden. It would be ideal for beach facilities and play area, but insufficient in acreage for a state park he said.

After a discussion of the advantages to the community of a nearby recreational area, the members decided to write to Senator Ogden Bush and Assemblyman Kenneth Wilson expressing their wish to promote the project.

Charter Night will be observed at next week's meeting at which time the Rev. Raymond Kullman of Schenectady, a former member of the local Lions Club, will be guest speaker. All members may attend the annual event.

At the conclusion of the semester, Miss Sterling went to Albany, where she met with members of the State Department of Education to learn about the supervision of education on the state level.

Miss Sterling, a teacher of English in the State High School, Yegaw, Burma, will visit English classes in Saugerties High School to observe the techniques, methods and materials used in those classes. She will also observe some other high school classes and will visit the elementary schools. In addition, Miss Sterling will take tours of some local industries in order to become acquainted with manufacturing methods used here. She will be the guest at meetings of some social, fraternal and political organizations, and will be entertained in the homes of some Saugerties residents.

While in Saugerties, Miss Sterling will live in the home of Mrs. Elsie Ketelaar, 27 Robinson Street, a member of the English department of Saugerties High School. Mrs. Katelaar, Mrs. Lynnette Flewelling, Miss Agnes Sheff, and Miss Frances Larned will act as her hostesses to arrange plans for her visit.

Harner Is Top Money Winner At Monticello During 1961

MONTICELLO — Old driving pro Levi Harner was the biggest money earner among Monticello Raceway drivers in 1961, and finished an impressive 27th in the country, according to final figures released by the United States Trotting Association.

The 52-year-old reinsman from Bloomsburg, Pa., earned $170,854 for owner T. J. Zornow of Pittsford, N. Y.

Of course, Harner's bread-and-butter performer was Free-for-All pacer Tar Boy, holder of the Monticello track record for a betting race of 1:59.4. Retired champion Adios Butler actually was clocked in the fastest time—1:59.2—in a time trial.

Harner won 65 dashes during the season for 46th place among all drivers in the nation. At the Mighty M, Harner made the winner's circle 20 times in 104 trips. He had 23 seconds and 19 thirds for a .376 in-the-money percentage, second best at MR.

Driving champion Harold Dancer Jr., posted a leading .377 mark. He won the most races at Monticello (47) and overall had 64 victories for 49th spot in the country.

In 67th Place

Dancer, of Holmdel, N. J., had earnings of $86,559 which placed him 67th in the dollar race. He had a winning percentage of .237 at Monticello, slightly less than Fairfield, Conn., driver Russ Palmer's top .238 performance.

Frank Popfinger and Austin Galentine also were big dollar earners. Popfinger's stable banked $94,803 and Galentine's $94,089 for 53rd and 56th spots respectively throughout the nation.

Popfinger, of Wexford, Pa., was the busiest driver at Monticello starting in 261 races. He trailed Dancer in dashes won with 33, and altogether captured 51 starts for 75th place.

Galentine, driving almost exclusively for the Clukey Stable of Harrington, Del., was a 55-time winner for 69th spot. His barn was headed by such aged pacers as Winbee and Scotch Abbe, and Meadow Vision, the track's three-year-old pacing champion.

Uhl Gets 37 As Trailways Wins Rec Tilt

Jumpin' Joe Uhl, home for a short vacation from Boston University, rimmed 37 points Monday at the Municipal Auditorium to lead Trailway Cafeteria to a 79-74 Rec League win over Carroll's Bait Box.

Byrne Chevrolet forfeited to Adolph's of Red Hook in the scheduled second game.

Uhl scored 16 baskets and had five free throws in pacing the Cafeteria five. He also did a good job on the backboards. John Kelly, a former teammate of Uhl's at Kingston High, had 25 points for the winners.

Bill Lacomb, Tom Waters, Andy Juhl and Lloyd Tice were in double figures for the Bait Box but they couldn't overcome the one-two punch of the Trailways.

Foss Challenges National League To Title Contest

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Commissioner Joe Foss of the American Football League again has thrown down the gauntlet in a direct challenge to the senior National Football League.

On the basis of a banner year in signing rookies and improved television money, Foss, the former Marine air ace, said the young league would be ready for championship contention with the NFL in 1962.

"We're ready for a pro championship game with the National Football League right now," Foss said Tuesday. And with another year of competition, he said, the AFL will be equal to the NFL, top to bottom.

Conceding the loss of six of the AFL's eight top draft choices to the rival league, Foss said the NFL devoted its major energies to doing just that.

"Out of the top 100 boys on our draft list, as of yesterday (Monday), we had signed 43. From last year's top 100, we signed 35 all together."

Of the 200 collegians drafted by the American League, the eight teams had signed 79 to date, whereas only 71 with signed last year from a list of 240, he added.

The commissioner said he expected the American Broadcasting Co. to announce it was picking up its AFL television option well before the April 15 deadline.

Play in the AFL will be televised into 200 cities this season, he said, compared with 137 last year.

It remained hardly likely that a playoff game could be agreed to as long as the younger league continues to press its law suit against the National Football League. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle continually has stated no inter - league professional championship would be arranged as long as the suit stands.

Giants Lose, 11 to 1 In Court, That Is

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco morning newspapers headlined today: "Giants lose, 11-1."

The story behind the baseball season banner: A jury of 10 women and two men voted 11-1 Tuesday that the Giants were guilty of breach of warranty.

Attorney Melvin Belli was awarded $1,597 in damages, the price he paid for boxes at breezy Candlestick Park for the 1960 season. Belli's suit charged the Giants had advertised boxes with radiant heat but he said he "found the seats uninhabitable" because they were so cold.

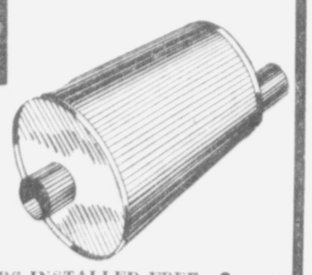

The Giants said they planned to appeal.

Bob Feller and Jackie Robinson Named to Hall of Fame

BOSTON (AP) — Jackie Robinson, first Negro to play in the major leagues, today is the first of his race ever elected to baseball's highest honor—its Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y.

The graying former Brooklyn Dodgers infielder was enshrined Tuesday along with Bob Feller, the quiet farm boy from Iowa who blazed a fast ball through the American League for nearly 20 years.

Both won election to the hall the first time they were eligible, a five-year retirement from baseball being mandatory. It was the first time the Baseball Writers of America had named anyone on their first eligible shot since the original five — Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Walter Johnson, Honus Wagner and Christy Mathewson—were tapped in the first election, in 1936.

Candidates needed 75 per cent of the 160 votes cast. Feller, now an insurance executive in Cleveland, received 150 votes.

Robinson, vice president of a restaurant and coffee company, got 124 votes, four more than the minimum needed.

"It's a once in a lifetime thrill," said Robinson at his Stamford, Conn., home. "It's hard to describe my feelings fully at this time. I am pleased and honored. My family is so excited no one wants to eat."

Feller Pleased

Feller, typically, was less emotional but nevertheless just as thrilled.

"Naturally, I'm happy about it," he said. "But now it's almost as if I had nothing to look forward to—except going to Cooperstown this summer. I thought I might have to wait longer. Joe DiMaggio had to go around a couple of times. But then maybe the competition was rougher then."

Robinson broke baseball's color line in 1947. Branch Rickey, then general manager of the Dodgers, had startled the baseball world the year before when he signed Jackie to a Brooklyn farm contract. Robinson, who had been an outstanding football player for UCLA, was with the Kansas City Monarchs of the Negro American League at the time. He spent one year of seasoning at Montreal, leading the International League in batting and fielding and then joined Brooklyn as a second baseman.

Quiet, hard working and always both an offensive and defensive threat, Robinson flirted with the .300 mark his first two seasons and batted a lusty .342 in 1949 to lead the National League.

Great Baserunner

His fielding and baserunning always were joys to behold. In one season he committed only seven errors, still the major league record, he participated in 137 double plays that same season, 1951, setting a National League mark.

Jackie was the most feared baserunner around in the decade from the late '40s to the late '50s. Once he stole home in a World Series game.

"I think it was recognition purely on merit," Rickey said of his protege's selection to the Hall of Fame. "It is well deserved.

"I think it also means a lot to our whole country. We are in serious disrepute in some of our international relations, and I think this will help a lot. All of our people should be very happy."

Feller was a 17-year-old farm boy who had sharpened his eye by throwing at a bullseye painted on a barn when he arrived in the majors in 1936. He was what the game needed—a blazing fastball pitcher who packed in the crowds.

Twenty years later—with four years out for Navy service during World War II in his pitching prime—Rapid Robert Feller had compiled 266 victories.

Fanned 2,581 Batters

Among those wins were three no-hitters, a dozen one-hitters. Only two other pitchers had three no-hit games. No other ever tossed 12 one-hit jobs.

As exciting as Feller's low-hit games were, his strikeouts were even more dramatic. He struck out 2,581 batters, including 15 in his first major league starting job.

"Feller must be ranked among the top five pitchers I ever faced," says American League President Joe Cronin, "Everybody talked about his fast ball but he had a tremendous curve."

Six times Feller won 20 or more games. His high came in 1940 when he notched 27 triumphs. He set the modern mark of 18 strikeouts in a nine-inning game against Detroit, Oct. 2, 1938, though Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers since has tied the record. Feller's 348 strikeouts in 1946 still stands as a major league mark.

The two baseball greats were the first elected to the Hall of Fame by the writers in their biennial polls since 1956 when Cronin and Hank Greenberg were chosen. Billy Hamilton and Max Carey were elected last year by a special "Old Timers" committee.

'Humble' Robinson is Happy Over Election to Hall of Fame

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP)—Jackie Robinson, the first Negro elected to baseball's Hall of Fame, said today he is happiest because of the "effect it might have on humble people like myself."

"I am hoping it will make them realize," continued Robinson, 42, now graying vice president of a national restaurant and coffee packing concern, "that people can come from humble beginnings and with luck and perseverance can move ahead."

Robinson was elected to the shrine Tuesday along with Bob Feller. Like Feller, the former Brooklyn Dodgers' infielder made it the first time he was eligible for the ballot.

Lives in Stamford

Robinson has a luxurious home on the outskirts of Stamford and commutes to his job in New York.

"No one had more humble beginnings than I did," he reminisced in his richly appointed living room while his wife, Rachel, sat by his side. "Why, at one time I was practically a juvenile delinquent. I didn't know where my next meal was coming from.

"And now to end up like this. You have to thank God for having a mother like I have who taught me right from wrong and for guiding me to my wife."

Jackie said that as soon as his wife told him of his election when he arrived home from New York, he telephoned his mother in Pasadena, Calif., and Branch Rickey, who brought him up to the Dodgers and thus broke the color line in the major leagues.

"I felt they deserved this great honor along with my wife as much as I," he said. "I didn't want either of them to find out from anyone else before I told them."

Hall of Famer Feller Gets Fun Coaching Youngsters

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Bob Feller, named to the baseball Hall of Fame at 43, says he gets more fun out of coaching sandlot youngsters than he ever did in his playing days with the Cleveland Indians.

"It's wonderful," Feller said Tuesday after learning he had been elected to the Hall of Fame along with Negro star Jackie Robinson.

"The kids listen to me and I try to help as much as I can. And I stay in some sort of shape by hitting fungos, pitching batting practice and running around a little."

Feller came off a Van Meter, Iowa, farm in 1936 at the age of 17 and pitched his way to baseball greatness with a crackling fast ball and sharp curve.

"I thought I might have to wait longer," said Feller when told he had made the Hall of Fame in his first try.

Feller singled out his father and Cy Slapnicka as forming important influences on his career. It was his dad who taught him baseball on the Iowa farm and it was Slapnicka who signed him and brought him to Cleveland.

Feller said he may have reached the peak of his skills in a game in Philadelphia in 1947. He had struck out nine of the first 10 batters when he slipped off the mound in the fourth inning and tore ligaments in his knee and shoulder. He left the game an inning or two later.

That marked the downgrade as a fastballer for Feller. "It was never quite as easy again," he said.

Player Recalls First 1961 Win

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — This was the week a year ago when South Africa's Gary Player started the surge that won him more money in 1961 than any other golfer collected.

Lightly regarded at the start of the 1961 San Francisco International Open, Player came from four strokes off the pace on a final day to shoot a six-under-par 65 for a 272 total winning the $9,000 first prize.

He shoots over the same Harding Park course starting Thursday in the $50,000 tournament. So far this year, he hasn't been pleased with his scores and didn't shoot well enough in the Bing Crosby even to reach the finals this week at Pebble Beach, Calif.

So he came here early for some practice, and Tuesday finished with a pair of birdies for a one-under-par 70.

"The course was playing very heavy after the rain and snow, but the weather conditions were beautiful," he commented. He added he was putting very nicely compared with his recent work on the greens.

After his San Francisco victory, Player went on to become the first non-U.S. golfer to win the Masters title, and his $64,540.65 was the highest seasonal winnings for any golfer last year.

Today he will play in the pro-amateur preliminary as the pros get in their final pretournament work.

A field of 149 pros and 10 amateurs are set to compete in the 72-hole tournament over Harding, a municipal course measuring 6,672 yards.

'Y' League Tilts

Yellow Jackets Gain OT Win; Hub, Hayes Record Victories

After blowing an early lead, the Yellow Jackets rallied in the fourth quarter to knot the score and finally defeated Eddie's Country Fair, 65-58, in an overtime thriller last night at the Kingston YMCA.

In other league games, Hub Delicatessen stopped Delanoy Fuel, 75-54, behind a 35 point outburst by Don Kamosa, and Hayes-Lincoln Mercury decisioned Doran's, 52-37.

John Burris and Mel Williams led the Yellow Jackets to their hard earned victory. Burris rimmed 19 markers and Williams hit for 17. The winners outscored their opponents, 12-5, in the overtime session.

Kamosa, former Kingston High player, had 15 buckets and five free throws to pace the Hub attack. Ted Bream was the best scorer for Delanoy with 14 markers. Hub trailed, 14-13, after the first period but then put on the pressure the rest of the way.

George Uhl was the ringleader in a well-balanced attack for Hayes with 17 points. Tom Fiore and Richie Amato were also in double figures. Rich Nagele had 10 for the losers, who managed just 14 baskets.

Knicks Tenth Packer Victims

The magic number for the Chicago Packers of the National Basketball Association was 10 and they were beginning to think they never would make it.

More than a week ago, the Packers, holding down last place in the Western Division of the league, had won a total of 9 games for their season's work.

Then they embarked on an 8-games-in-8-nights binge, figuring hopefully that all the work might fatten their average. It didn't. They lost the first six.

But Tuesday night, the tables turned and the Packers whipped the New York Knickerbockers 109-103 and finally reached 10 victories for the season. The Knicks are solidly entrenched in last place in the Eastern Division.

In the other half of the New York doubleheader, the Boston Celtics whipped the Los Angeles Lakers 118-103, while the St. Louis Hawks downed the Syracuse Nats

Lucas Can't Miss Mikan Believes

NEW YORK (AP)—George Mikan, a former great himself, hailed Ohio State's Jerry Lucas as one of the outstanding basketball players of all time, and a cinch to turn professional.

Lucas, a two-time All-America and star of the champion Olympic team in 1960, has indicated in the past that he may enter business after he graduates in June and pass up pro ball.

The Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association, who already have two of the NBA's best in Oscar Robertson (Lucas' teammate on the Olympic squad) and Jack Twyman, are eager to pay Jerry a fortune to play with them.

"Will he turn pro?" said Mikan in repeating a question—"There's no question in my mind that he will. He's already gotten himself an agent in the guy that handles golfer Jack Nicklaus. If you're not going to play for money what do you need an agent for?"

Mikan, now 37, was picked as the greatest basketball player of the half century in an Associated Press poll in 1950. He first starred at DePaul and then with the Minneapolis Lakers. He quit playing in 1954 after hanging up many scoring records. Mikan, a lawyer in Minneapolis, was interviewed while in New York this week.

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

Tom Hennessey represents one-sixth of the greatest bowling team ever assembled — the St. Louis Budweisers.

On his own, the personable St. Louis Irishman is one of the world's finest pocket busters with a glittering personality to match. His gifted talents will be on dispay Sunday night at Sangi's Bowlero.

The Budweisers were assembled from all parts of the country but Hennessey was waiting. He was born in the Mound City in 1925 and started bowling there in 1943.

In just 16 years of bowling, Hennessey has firmly established himself as one of the game's brightest stars. On the St. Louis Budweisers, he rolls with such as Don Carter, Pat Patterson, Dick Weber, Billy Welu.

Hennessey was signed by the Strohs Bohemians of Detroit and was a member of the team that won the national team match game championship three straight years, 1952-53, 53-54, 54-55. On that stellar cast were Buzz Fazio, Lee Jouglard, Pete Carter, Ed Lubanski, Tony Lindemann and Hennessey.

When Hennessey returned to his home town to join the Budweisers, it was the same old story — three consecutive national team titles giving him a string of six straight.

Holds Many Titles:

Along the way, Hennessey has picked up a batch of other citations. He shared the BPAA national doubles title with Don Carter in 1958 and 1959. He was an ABC Masters titlist in 1958 and won the Las Vegas Open in 1960. Hennessey was something special in the 1958 Masters where he breezed to the title on seven straight match victories to become one of only three champions in tournament history to emerge undefeated. On his way to the title, he compiled a 209 average and led the field with a 969 high four-game set.

Named King of Bowlers in Detroit for the 1956-57 season, he had a composite 213 average compiled during sanctioned league competition in the 1955-56 season. He then went on to capture three straight Southern match game championships in 1957-58-59.

Hennessey maintained his penchant for threes by capturing the Central States all-events title three consecutive times for a tournament record: 1954-55 (2007); 1955-56 (2035); 1956-57 (1987). As a member of the Budweisers' three-man team he contributed 789 in a world's record 2228. Dick Weber had 757 and Patterson 682. He is also the holder of the record national televised bowling series of 848, rolled against Buzz Fazio at Chicago on Jan. 13, 1957. He did it with 299-258-289.

Personal Citations:

During his hot streak from 1955 through 1958, the Bowlers Journal named him to the All-America team three times running, 1955-56-57-58. He was named to Bowling Magazine's All-America first team in 1958 and 1959; to the second team in 1957 and 1960.

Hennessey averaged 167 in his first season of bowling in 1943. He has since collected seven 300 games and his 846 television series is his career high.

He will come to Kingston from Albany where he will compete in the annual Empire State Open, second leg on the winter circuit of the Professional Bowlers Association. He will be on display Sunday afternoon and Sunday night. Get a good look at him because here is a hunk of bowler.

Old Pro Returns:

Hilda Murphy, who was a sensational bowler during her brief stay in Kingston, came back to town for a flying visit last week. Specifically, it was to consult her teaching professional, Frank (Buster) Ferraro, about a new ball and some minor defects in her splendid all-round game. When she returned to Ithaca last summer, Mrs. Murphy did not leave her bowling talents behind her. She is competing in two travelling major leagues in Syracuse, averaging better than 180 in one and around 178 in the other. She admitted that not even in Syracuse did she find the bowling enthusiasm among women she encountered in Kingston. Which is a large endorsement for the gals of our town.

Third Quarter Spurt Decides UCAL Contest

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Marlboro Central's hustling Dukes went on a 15-2 spurt in the closing stages of the third quarter and then proceeded to bury Wallkill, the defending UCAL champion, 68-49, before an SRO crowd last night at the winners' court.

The win puts the Dukes of Jack O'Donnell all alone at the top of the circuit and also keeps them in the ranks of the unbeaten. The record shows ten straight victories, six of them in league play.

This was a solid team effort. The starting five of Frank Benevento, Vic Mandia, Brian Collins, Jim Woodward and Steve Aurigema played all but the last minute and contributed all the points. The Dukes used some adroit passing to break through the Wallkill zone in the first half and then put their famed speed to use when the visitors were forced to press in the third and fourth periods.

Mooney Is Hurt

Wallkill had misfortune early. Forward Eddie Mooney, playing despite an injured ankle, fell to the floor at the five minute mark in the opening period. He hurt his knee and was unable to appear for the remainder of the tilt. Doug Edebohls, the second leading scorer for the club, picked up his fourth foul at the start of the second half and Coach Jack Higgins had to bench him for the third quarter and part of the fourth period. With both Mooney and Edebohls out of the lineup, the visitors were never really a factor, at least not in this game.

Wallkill never led. The visitors used Mooney's only basket to gain a 2-2 deadlock at the start of the game. They then trailed until there were six minutes remaining in the third period. At this stage, Larry Martinez scored with a jumper to tie the count, 25-25. It was here that Marlboro went on its winning surge.

Mandia, a deadeye from outside, made a jump shot and then scored with a driving layup. Benevento was successful with a free throw attempt and then a set shot by Woodward from behind the key zoomed the lead to seven points, 32-26. Pete Myers stopped the drive with a free throw, the only point Wallkill scored until the home side had tallied eight more.

Doubts Are Ended

It was Aurigemma with two charity tosses, Collins (and what a great game he played) with a driving layup and Woodward with the same kind of a shot. Collins climaxed the rally with another tally from near the basket before Martinez converted a foul for Wallkill. This made the scoreboard read, 40-27, after three periods and ended doubts as to the outcome.

Wallkill came to within eight points at the start of the fourth period but then Woodward, the general in the backcourt, made some foul shots and Collins continued his control of the backboards. The few that Brian missed Benevento picked off.

Woodward led the well-balanced attack of the Dukes with 18 points. Mandia, Collins and Benevento were all in double figures while Aurigemma just missed. Edebohls had 15 and Myers 13 for the defending champs, who are seeking a third straight title.

In a Good Spot

The win puts Marlboro in good position as the red hot UCAL race moves into the second half. It's strictly a three team affair with Wallkill now second and Rondout Valley in third place. Both clubs will have trouble catching Marlboro, at least if the Dukes give some more performances like the one last night.

In the jayvee contest, Bob Wensley hit with a last second shot to give Wallkill a 30-30 tie at the end of regulation time and the visitors proceeded to carve out a 38-32 verdict in overtime. Mike Pascale led Marlboro with 13 points while George Druttman had 11 for Walkill.

Jack Ferraro Will Make Bid For Empire State Open Title

Jack Ferraro of Kingston will be among 196 of the nation's best bowlers when shooting starts at 8:30 a. m. Thursday in the 5th annual Empire State Open at Redwood Lanes in Albany.

Ferraro, current Hudson Valley league leader with a 208-plus average, rolls his first qualifying squad at 12 noon Thursday. He is scheduled again at 9:30 p. m. On Friday he will roll his third block at 10:15 a. m., with the qualifying finals at 4 p. m.

Phil Versace of Poughkeepsie and Sam Taylor of Middletown are listed in the star-studded field that includes every name pro in the sport.

Ferraro's squads include such nationally famous keglers as Dick Hoover, St. Louis; Morris Oppenheimer, Chicago; Wayne Zahn, Milwaukee; Pat Patterson, St. Louis; Joe Brown, Carteret, N. J.; Robby Robinson, Clifton, Del.; Lou Campi, Al Savas, St. Louis and J. Albert Sims, the crack Chicago Negro.

The semi-finals and finals match play will be televised nationally on Saturday. The tournament will be concluded between 5 and 6 p. m.

The Albany area district will be represented by several well known keglers, including Tony Cassera, who rolled a 300 game in practice Wednesday. Morrie Cramer heads the list which also includes Joe Donato, Joey Schmidt, Johnny Walther, Skip Vigars, Eli Albert, Larry Cassera, Hugo Gregory, John Germann, Punk Limmer, George Bickel, Ray Groat and Tommy Hoffman.

Dick Weber, winner of the recent National All Star and Puerto Rico, first stop on the PBA circuit, is on the first squad Thursday at 8:30 a. m.

Versace is listed on the high powered final squad Thursday at 1:45 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. and at 8:30 a. m. and 5:45 p. m. Friday.

Tom Hennessey of St. Louis, who is scheduled to appear in exhibitions at Sangi's Bowlero on Sunday afternoon and night, is on the squad, along with Glen Allison, a former champion; Don Ellis of Houston, Ray Bluth and Don Carter of St. Louis, Lindy Faragalli of New Jersey and Buzz Fazio of Detroit.

Slanted Rules

Flop or Not, Sharman Says New ABL Helped Basketball

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LOS ANGELES — (NEA) — Even if the teetering American Basketball League should fold, Bill Sharman doesn't feel it has been in vain.

That isn't because he has a three-year contract.

"It's the brand of basketball we played before the public," said the coach of the wavering Los Angeles Jets, now in limbo. "For the first time, the rules were slanted for the spectators."

Sharman's opinion merits attention because he was willing to risk his stature as a star of the Boston Celtics — and more important, a strong five-figure salary — to jump to the tenuous venture.

"It's the three-point play," elaborated Bill. "In so many NBA games, the people wait until the last five minutes for the action to start.

"I remember being in Kansas City early this season scouting a game. Max Perry of Honolulu got the ball right after the opening tap and on the first shot of the game flipped a three-pointer. The people jumped up and screamed. I think the colleges would adopt it if they gave it an honest try."

The ABL outlined half a circle with a radius of 25 feet from the basket. Any shot beyond that line counted three points instead of the conventional two for a field goal.

"Why should a bloop single," asked Sharman, who once was a Brooklyn Dodger outfield prospect, too, "count the same as a home run? A guy takes years and years to develop a skilled outside shot. It should pay off more than a dunk.

"It also brings the defenses out farther. That opens the lane for driving. We weren't selling exactly the same game as the NBA." (As it turns out, they weren't selling much of anything.)

The ABL allowed 30 seconds, instead of 24, for the offensive team to get off a shot.

"Why was (Bob) Cousy popular?" asked Sharman rhetorically. "Why do the Globetrotters draw? For shooting? No, but because they handle the ball. We restored some of that with the expanded time to set up. Maybe it should be even 35 seconds.

"We also played a rougher type of defense, with more contact. The scorers go into the NBA. We got the better all-round players."

Sharman mentioned boys like Bill Bridges of Kansas City, a 6-6 workhorse, and Dan Swartz, the star of his Jets.

"They could help any team in the other league," insisted Bill. "All a kid like Dan needed was a chance."

Swartz is a 6-4 graduate of Morehead State in Kentucky who reported to the Celtics a couple of years ago but left camp after three weeks when he assessed his chances of making the squad.

Guess who the Celtics had then to block his way. Sharman, of course.

Does Bill Sharman have any regrets about cutting short his career in Boston?

"I was sure they were going to put me on the negotiation list of the new Chicago team," he stated. "I'd rather go back to California than Chicago.

"I miss the players. But most of all, I miss the winning. I got spoiled playing wit hthe Celtics. I got so used to winning that it tore me up when we lost two or three."

It tore up the owner of the Jets, too.

He landed in a hospital with a breakdown because no one would pay to see them lose . . . or win.

Frisco Feels Quake

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A gentle rolling earthquake was felt in San Francisco at 7:13 a.m. today.

Residents of Oakland, across San Francisco Bay, said the shock was felt quite sharply there.

Similar reports came from Berkeley and Orinda, in the same general area.

Transkei First In Program for Segregated Area

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd has announced his white supremacy regime plans to give internal self-government next year to a segregated state of two million blacks in the Transkei area on the Indian Ocean.

Verwoerd told Parliament Tuesday Transkei would be the first state set up under his government's program of separate development for Bantu (Negro) states within a South African commonwealth.

Transkei will have a wholly black Parliament and Cabinet with authority over agriculture, education, lands, roads and other internal matters, Verwoerd said. External affairs, defense and certain aspects of the administration of justice will remain in the hands of the all-white South African government for the time being, he said.

Verwoerd's announcement drew fire from Dr. Bernard Friedman, leader of the Transvaal Progressive party. He termed it window dressing to disarm foreign critics of South Africa's apartheid policy of strict racial segregation.

The Transkei is an area of 16,-000 square miles on the Indian Ocean south of Durban. The government says it has a population of 2,060,770, all Bantus except for 17,369 whites and 13,716 "colored" persons of mixed origin.

Approval Seen To Have Portugal Halt Harsh Rule

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —U.N. delegates predicted today the General Assembly will give overwhelming approval to an Asian-African resolution calling on Portugal to end harsh rule in Angola and start the West African colony on the road to independence.

The resolution was submitted Tuesday with 40 sponsors and was expected to poll as many as 85 favorable votes in the 104-nation assembly, well over the two-thirds needed for approval.

The draft was assured support from the 51 members of the Asian-African bloc, the 9-nation Soviet bloc and many of the 20 Latin-American states.

The United States, Britain and France have given no indication how they will vote on the proposal, which asks all member states to deny Portugal—a NATO member—any support that could be used against the Angolans.

A U.S. spokesman said the resolution had been sent to Washington for study and that U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson would announce the American position Thursday. Observers predicted he would support the Asian-African draft.

The French and British were still studying the draft.

Algiers Strike Asked by SAO

ALGIERS (AP) — The French tricolor was flown today throughout Algiers' European areas in a massive demonstration of opposition to Algerian independence.

The flag display was ordered by the European Secret Army Organization, which also called for a 75-minute general strike late this afternoon and told the European population to turn off the lights in their homes for the last 15 minutes. The strike was expected to paralyze the city.

The Secret Army Organization used the occasion of the anniversary of the 1960 settlers' uprising to demonstrate anew its hold on the European population and its determination to keep Algeria French.

In sharp contrast to the European flag display, the walls and windows of Moslem quarters were bare.

Police halted traffic on the city's main streets in expectation of disorders. Troop patrols deployed through the city and army helicopters hovered overhead.

Physicians Patch Bulgarian Pilot, Faces New Quiz

ACQUAVIVA, Italy (AP)—Doctors have set Lt. Milusc Solakov's fractures and the Bulgarian is reported nearly in shape for further official questioning about the crash landing of his camera-carrying MIG17 jet.

Dr. Giuseppe Della Corte said it is up to Italian counterintelligence officers to decide when Solakov, 22, will be moved to a military hospital at Bari, 16 miles north of Acquaviva.

Solakov underwent surgery on Tuesday night for repair of fractures of a collarbone and his left arm in the crash Saturday, the end of a flight over a nearby missile base that Italian authorities suspect was a spy mission.

The lieutenant claims he is a political refugee and has asked for asylum. Italian officials turned back to Rome two Bulgarian diplomats who came here to talk to him and view the police-guarded plane wreckage.

St. John's University, consistently one of the nation's leading independent major college basketball powers, once again seems destined for a postseason tournament bid.

The New York Redmen polished off touring Canisius of Buffalo 81-68 Tuesday night for their fifth straight victory and 11th in 14 games. LeRoy Ellis, St. John's 6-10 center, produced most of the scoring punch with 31 points, 21 in the first half. The swift senior also snared 15 rebounds.

The Redmen have appeared in 15 National Invitation tournaments and three times have been selected for at-large berths in the NCAA championships.

With most of the schools taking midyear examinations, action was again sparse in college basketball circles Tuesday night. In games involving major teams, Wisconsin outclassed North Dakota State by 102-50, Auburn throttled Georgia Tech 52-40, Virginia Tech subdued Tennessee 83-73, Chicago Loyola rolled over New Orleans Loyola 96-73, Georgia humbled Georgia Southern 70-58, Ohio University whipped Muskingum 83-68, Akron nipped Kent State 71-70, and Tennessee Tech turned back Middle Tennessee 61-58.

Ellis' 31-point scoring output for St. John's, his season's high, gave him a career total of 1,009, and he became the seventh Redman player to reach the 1,000-point mark.

Wisconsin of the Big Ten ended a two-week layoff in boosting its record to 9-3 at the expense of nonleague foe North Dakota State. Ron Jackson, who will be ineligible in the second half of the season, was high for the Badgers, who led at the half 51-27.

Auburn's shuffle offense clicked in the second half against Georgia Tech, and the Tigers recorded their ninth victory in 14 outings, a game that does not count in the SEC standings. Auburn overcame a 25-23 halftime disadvantage, while limiting the cold-shooting Yellow Jackets to only 15 points after the intermission. Layton Johns of Auburn garnered scoring honors with 15 points.

Virginia Tech switched successfully from a zone to a man-to-man defense for the third straight game, and the maneuver again worked against Tennessee. The victory was the Gobblers' 29th in a row at home and lifted their record to 9-4. Lee Melear provided VPI's scoring impetus with 22 points, and Howie Pardue contributed 21 as the Gobblers led at halftime 41-32. Orb Bowling led the Vols with 18.

Chicago Loyola coasted to an easy victory over host New Orleans Loyola, racing to a commanding 61-31 bulge at the half. Jerry Harkness set the scoring tempo for the Chicagoans with 29 points, and sophomores Les Hunter and Vic Rouse chipped in with 24 points apiece. The Ramblers' record is 11-2.

BIG ONE DROPPED — Doug Ford gives a clenched fist signal after sinking a big eight foot putt on the 17th hole for a par three. Putt allowed Ford to catch Joe Campbell, who bogied the hole, and he went on to win the professional end of the National Pro-Amateur Championship at Pebble Beach, Calif. (AP Wirephoto)

Castoffs Click In AL Basketball

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A couple of players whose best efforts couldn't keep the Los Angeles Jets in the American Basketball League apparently are just what a couple of the surviving clubs needed.

Bill Spivey and Dan Swartz, assigned to the Hawaii Chiefs and New York Tapers after the Los Angeles club gave up for lack of attendance, made notably successful debuts with their new teams Tuesday night. Each led the way to his team's first victory of the second half of the ABL season.

Swartz teamed up with another New York newcomer, Roger Taylor, and paced the Tapers to a 129-123 victory over the Pittsburgh Rens at Commack, N.Y. Swartz scored 31 points and Taylor, acquired from Cleveland for Bob Keller, dropped in 27 as the Tapers outscored the Rens in each of the first three quarters. Connie Hawkins, as usual, led the Rens with 41 points.

Spivey spurred the Chiefs in a strong finish that brought a 106-100 decision over Cleveland in Honolulu.

'Real' Doubleheader Planned at Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Richmond Virginians will open their International League baseball season here Wednesday, April 25, with a day-night doubleheader—at single-game prices.

"In reply to charges that baseball hasn't done anything different in 40 years, this certainly is one move which is not only different but which is accommodating to the fans," said Jerry Waring, general manager of the New York Yankees' triple-A farm club.

Warmer Trend Is Due by Saturday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7 p.m. today to 7 p.m. Monday.

Eastern New York — Turning briefly colder early in the period, a warming trend by Saturday and colder again late Sunday and Monday. Temperatures are expected to average around or just below seasonal normals. Precipitation is expected to be generally light and average less than three-tenths of an inch in water content. Occasional flurries during the period, mostly in mountains and near the Great Lakes. Some snow or rain is likely about Saturday or Sunday.

Western New York—Temperatures will average 3 to 6 degrees below normal. Turning cold again Thursday, warming Saturday but cold again Sunday for the remainder of the period. Precipitation will average ¼ to ½ inch, melted, from snow flurries throughout the period.

Temperature normals—Normal temperatures for the period range from daytime highs of 25-33 to nighttime lows of 5-10 north and 10-18 south.

Headhunters Return

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The old practice of headhunting in the jungled mountains of east India's Nagaland reportedly has been resumed.

A report today from Shillong, capital of Assam State, said village guards clashed several days ago with Naga guerrillas who are fighting independence from India for their area. The guards killed six guerrillas and cut off their heads to show as proof.

Temperature Eases Across Wide Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Zero weather clung to the central Plateau region today but temperatures moderated across most of the nation from the central Rockies into northern New England.

Light snow and rain hit scattered sections of the country.

The zero belt stretched across areas in eastern and southeastern Idaho, northern Utah, southern Nevada and southeast Oregon. In Idaho it was -14 in Idaho Falls, and -10 in Pocatello and Dubois. Salt Lake City reported 5 below.

For the first morning in more than a week many Midwest and Rocky Mountain areas reported temperatures above zero. Readings were generally from 10 to 20 degrees from the central Rockies into northern New England although the mercury edged near zero in some parts of northern Maine.

A cool front was stalled across central Georgia and southern parts of South Carolina and Alabama but Tuesday's freezing weather in Tennessee moderated in most sections to a little above the 32 mark.

Mild weather continued in Florida with a reading of 75 in Key West and West Palm Beach and 69 in Miami.

The 40s and 50s prevailed from the western Gulf Coast to the middle Atlantic Coast states. Readings in the Far West were near normal levels.

Network Program Hearing Resumed By Federal Board

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richard S. Salant, president of Columbia Broadcasting System news, said today informational programming for children is "one of the most perplexing and frustrating problems that we face."

Salant, first witness as the Federal Communication Commission's hearings on network programming entered their second day, said CBS has set aside a development fund in this area.

"We have three pilots under way to determine what we can do in the way of effective informational programming for children—one pilot on American history, one on literature, and one on the contemporary world of reality."

Salant was the last CBS witness before the FCC staff and members start asking questions on his and previous testimony.

He said news and information broadcasts on the CBS television network have been increased about 40 per cent over the last television season. These programs Salant said, would total about 690 hours "or about 17 per cent of the total network schedule."

CBS President Frank Stanton and James T. Aubrey Jr., president of the CBS television network, were witnesses Tuesday. The National Broadcasting Co. and American Broadcasting Co. will be heard in the next two weeks.

The FCC study is to determine the scope and character of network television operations, how much control the networks have over what American viewers see, and what kind of regulation is needed.

Chairman Newton Minow noted in his opening statement that while the FCC holds individual stations responsible for their programs, the character of these programs is determined primarily by the networks over which the commission has no control.

Stanton strongly opposed federal regulation, saying the way to better television programming is through competition from more stations and more networks.

Aubrey said networks help stations by providing them with a varied schedule of programs, plus revenues from those programs which are sponsored.

Gasoline Blaze

The Centerville Fire Company was called to a blaze at the home of C. A. Canoles on the Woodstock-West Saugerties Road this morning, but the flames had been extinguished before their arrival. Scotty Myers of the Centerville Company said gasoline apparently had spilled on the ground as the Canoles automobile was being started. The fuel became ignited and since the car was parked near the house, the fire company was called. No damage resulted, according to Myers.

Hodges Sees Tax Cut Possible If Output Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges says a tax cut is "entirely conceivable" if the United States can increase its production by 4 per cent in the next year.

Hodges was asked at a news conference Tuesday whether a cut in the 52 per cent corporate income tax would help the United States maintain industrial leadership over the Soviet Union.

He said if annual U.S. production rises by 4 per cent, instead of the 2½ per cent average annual increase of recent years, "We could cut taxes not only corporate but personal."

Burglars Steal Coin Collection

Burglars who had a yen for old coins are being sought by Claverack State Police. Some time Monday night the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stoner of Kinderhook was entered and a coin collection valued at between $8,000 and $9,000 was taken. The coins had been collected over a period of 15 years as a hobby. The coins were taken from a metal cabinet in the Stoner bedroom.

The burglars apparently knew what they wanted. A glass bottle with 4,000 pennies was ignored. Stoner is a director of the Berkshire Coin Club in Pittsfield.

Negligence Suit Is Settled Here

A negligence action brought by Fred Gerlach against Theresa Cole as administrator of the estate of her husband, Raymond Cole, was settled after it had been partially tried in Supreme Court Tuesday. The action, resulting from a collision between the Gerlach and Cole cars on Route 32 in 1958, was being tried before Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth and a jury. Represented by Guido Napoletano, Gerlach sought to recover for injuries. John E. Morris was attorney of record for defendant.

Congolese Troops Flown to Kongolo

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Loyal Congolese government troops and a team of U.N. administrators have been flown to the north Katanga town of Kongolo, where troops on New Year's Day massacred 19 white Roman Catholic priests.

The contingent of 160 Congolese troops radioed that the Kongolo airfield was safe for the arrival of Gen. Victor Lundula, the Congo army's eastern commander, who was to fly there today with two Red Cross representatives.

The first message gave no details of the situation in the town, but it was believed the troops who shot the priests before a crowd of terrified schoolchildren had pulled out of the town.

U.N. aerial reconnaissance over the area has revealed troop movements along the road leading out of Kongolo, including to Sola, where they are believed to have overrun another Roman Catholic mission.

In Leopoldville, deposed leftist Antoine Gizenga was transferred under guard to a military camp during the night.

Hudson to Delay School Repairs

Hudson board of education is not going to repair at the present time the Fourth Street school building which was damaged by fire on Nov. 22, 1961.

The board on Monday evening decided to await plans and estimates of construction costs that would eliminate the Fourth Street, Sixth Street and Allen Street schools.

Albert E. Milliken, Kingston architect, has been retained to prepare preliminary plans and determine the cost estimates for renovation of the three elementary schools. He will receive $4,500 for his services.

Last week the Hudson Advisory Council of the Board of Education urged that immediate steps be taken to repair the burned school at a cost estimated at $57,000. That action is now postponed pending determination of cost of the new school program.

The final plan decided upon will be presented to the voters of the Hudson City School District for their decision.
